

U.S. DISPENSATORY

Describes the Principal Ingredients Contained in Pe-ru-na. Are we claiming too much for Peruna when we claim it to be an effective remedy for chronic catarrh? Have we abundant proof that Peruna is in reality such a catarrh remedy? Let us see what the United States Dispensatory says of the principal ingredients of Peruna.

Take, for instance, the ingredient hydrastis canadensis, or golden seal. The United States Dispensatory says of this herb, that it is largely employed in the treatment of depraved mucous membranes, chronic rhinitis (nasal catarrh), atonic dyspepsia (catarrh of the stomach), chronic intestinal catarrh, catarrhal jaundice (catarrh of the liver), and in diseased mucous membranes of the pelvic organs. It is also recommended for the treatment of various forms of diseases peculiar to women.

Another ingredient of Peruna, corydalis formosa, is classed in the United States Dispensatory as a tonic. So also is cubeba classed as a stomachic and as a tonic for the mucous membranes. Cedron seeds is another ingredient of Peruna, an excellent drug that has been very largely overlooked by the medical profession for the past fifty years. The seeds are to be found in very few drug stores. The United States Dispensatory says of the action of cedron that it is used as a bitter tonic and in the treatment of dysentery, and in intermittent diseases as a substitute for quinine.

Oil of copaiba, another ingredient of Peruna, is classed by the United States Dispensatory as a mild stimulant and diuretic. It acts on the stomach and intestinal tract. It acts as a stimulant on the genito-urinary membranes. Useful in chronic cystitis, chronic dysentery and diarrhea, and some chronic diseases of the liver and kidneys.

Send to us for a free book of testimonials of what the people think of Peruna as a catarrh remedy. The best evidence is the testimony of those who have tried it.

DOUBLE CAPACITY OF CORVALLIS LUMBER PLANT

The capacity of the Corvallis saw-mill, which is now owned by Eugene people, now 30,000 feet daily, is to be doubled within a short time. The announcement was made Saturday by G. O. Bassett, one of the owners, who is to be the resident manager of the property. Mr. Bassett has been employed at Springfield and other mills for years, and is an expert in the lumber business as well as in matters financial. His family arrived in Corvallis this week and Mr. Bassett will assume personal charge of the mill in about ten days.

The machinery for the increased capacity has already been ordered. It will be installed piecemeal, as time and occasion will permit, and without a shut down of the machinery, which will be kept going steadily. The new machines are of the latest patterns, and when finally installed, the local mill will be one of the finest in the Western Oregon country. The name of the company is the Occidental Lumber Company.

The company now employs 20 men, and when the capacity is increased the force will be larger. It is planned to keep the mill running steadily. A large supply of logs is now in the stream, and others will be available as fast as the three million feet in the present holdings are manufactured into lumber. They come from up the McKenzie, and are the finest logs obtainable. A hundred thousand feet of clear lumber has been sawed and placed in the yard since it started up, and it is now sufficiently seasoned for dressing and manufacture into flooring, rustic and other kinds of house material. A dozen carloads of dressed lumber to meet pressing orders have arrived within the last few days from mills up the McKenzie.

Mr. Bassett is a live, wide-awake business man, and a welcome addition to the business life of Corvallis. —Times.

BRYAN TALKS ON GUARANTY OF BANK DEPOSITS

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 27.—Before an audience which filled the Auditorium to overflowing, William J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for president, spoke tonight on the subject of guaranty of bank deposits. Previously he had delivered three other addresses, two from the veranda of the hotel and the third at the Garfield Park, where he attended a picnic by the Knights of Pythias, his latter theme being "Fraternity."

The Democratic candidate and his party arrived here at 1 o'clock and were at once taken in hand by a reception committee composed of leading Democrats of the city and state, and conducted to the hotel in automobiles. A great crowd greeted Mr. Bryan at the station and at the hotel.

Makes Answer to Mr. Taft. As announced by him before his departure from Kansas City, Mr. Bryan, in the course of the address, attacked the guaranty of bank deposits, which induced the guaranty of deposits proposition, made some remarks supplementary to his speech on that subject. He took up the advantages of the guaranty system and then answered the objections made to it by Mr. Taft and others.

He began by asking why the guarantors should be left unsecured when the National government demanded security of any bank with which it deposited money. He pointed out that the choice was between the postal savings bank and the guaranty bank, and accused Mr. Taft of favoring an unnecessary extension of the sphere of government in advocating the postal savings bank instead of the guaranty bank. Mr. Bryan declared that he preferred the guaranty bank proposition, which would allow the banks to attend to the banking business and yet compel them to give the depositors necessary security.

Popularity of Guaranty Plan. "I asked Mr. Briedenthal, a banker of Kansas City, to make inquiry among the bankers of Kansas and ascertain what proportion of them in favor of the guaranty law. I learned that of the bankers who expressed themselves on the subject about three-fourths favored the guaranty law and one-fourth opposed it. This is an excellent showing. Among the depositors there is no opposition at all, and it is evident that the Kansas bankers recognize, first, that something must be done, and second, that the guaranty law is better than the postal savings bank.

I also inquired of Governor Haskell in regard to the number of National banks which have surrendered their charters and become state banks in order to have the benefits of the guaranty system. I have a telegram from him saying that four National banks have already made change and are operating under the state bank laws, and that sixteen other National banks have applied for state charters. This is conclusive proof that the Oklahoma law is a success. A National guaranty system to have some advantages over a state guaranty law must be admitted that twenty national banks will in a short time change from the National system to the state system in order to give their depositors the advantage furnished by the guaranty system.

Kansas Republicans Like It. "Since the preparation of my speech on this subject the Republicans of Kansas have held a convention and adopted a state platform. The plank on the guaranty of deposits is a recognition of the necessity for security, but the plank is so worded as to be practically useless as far as the protection of the people is concerned. The Republicans promise to enable the state banks to mutually and voluntarily guarantee deposits. But that is not enough. Suppose that the banks mutually agree not to do it—must the depositors be left unsecured?"

"The Kansas Republican platform also requests the Republican candidates for congress and the United States senate to favor a law in aiding a national bank to participate in the proposed mutual and voluntary system. But what chance is there of securing such a law when the Republican National convention refused to pay any attention to the subject and when the Republican candidate opposes the whole principle of the guaranty? Mr. Taft's denunciation of the guaranty system is so sweeping that no disinterested person can at a moment believe that he will either encourage or permit a law enabling National banks to participate in state systems. What the people need is a system whereby both state and National banks will be compelled to guarantee deposits, and only a Democratic victory can secure this reform. With a Democratic president and a Democratic congress it will be easy to secure the adoption of a system which will make both state and National banks secure."

INJUNCTION AGAINST BUILDING TRESTLE WORK

C. M. Dorrity, of Springfield, A. G. Harvey, of Eugene, and the Honeyman Hardware Company, of Portland, have instituted suit in circuit court against the Portland, Eugene & Eastern Railway Company and L. N. Roney, its agent and contractor, to enjoin them from building a railway trestle across a lot in Springfield owned by the plaintiffs. The lot is near the river, and the proposed trestle would cross the line of the Portland, Eugene & Eastern Railway Company's electric railway between Eugene and Springfield.

The plaintiffs allege as follows:

EDWARD H. HARRIMAN. Latest photograph of the Railroad King, who has accepted in the invitation of the Commercial Club to visit the city of Eugene.

That Dorrity is owner of twenty-two-thirds of the lot, Hovey is the owner of five-thirds and the Honeyman Hardware Company is owner of three-thirds. That the railway company and Roney on August 22, 1908, went upon the land and broke down and destroyed the foundation of a building that had previously stood upon the lot and tore the same down and destroyed it to the damage to the owners in the sum of $25. That the defendants immediately thereafter began driving piling thereon and to destroy the substance of the freehold and are building and threaten to build a permanent obstruction on the ground and will do so unless restrained by the court.

A decree is asked for an injunction restraining the defendants from building the obstruction and for $25 damages.

Williams & Bean, who are the attorneys for the plaintiffs, filed the complaint in the suit yesterday afternoon.

W. I. Coleman was today appointed administrator of the estate of Henry Coleman, the pioneer who died at his home near Lorane August 15, 1908. The value of the property of the estate is not given, as the papers of the deceased are kept in the First National Bank, and have not yet been examined.

The law provides that the authorities may cut timber on private property and charge the bill to the owner, the account becoming a lien on the property in default of payment. The law also provides that the county may recover from any city which does not enforce the law, the penalty being fixed at from $50 to $500 fine.

It was generally remarked that the crowd in town was the largest ever seen here. During the parade Willamette street was literally a mass of humanity.

LANE COUNTY HOP GROWERS AGREE ON PICKING PRICE

(From Saturday's Daily.) A number of Lane county hop-growers held a meeting in Eugene this forenoon to talk over the picking situation and to talk "hops" in general. All parts of the hop-growing district of the county were fairly well represented. After duly considering the prospect for prices for the crop, it was resolved that the growers could not afford to pay more than 75 cents per 100 pounds for picking this year. According to remarks made by a number of growers, it is likely that many yards will not be picked even at that price. Others will harvest their crops as usual and trust to a better price in the market.

Early yards in the county commenced picking last week at 75 cents per hundred pounds, and it is probable that this price will prevail throughout the season. The Portland, Eugene & Eastern Railway, where they pick by the box, will pay 40 cents per box, which is equivalent to about 75 cents a hundred.
