SPLENDID RESULTS IN FRUIT GROWING BY MR. SHAFER

(Special Correspondence.)

Creswell, Sept. 9.—On Tuesday, September 8, an invitation was extended to Mr. Shafer, a number of citizens of Creswell, including the writer, C. J. Fuller, Dr. L. D. Scarborough, Judge G. S. Miller and J. L. Clark, took a ride out to the fine home of Mr. Shafer, located two miles southeast of town.

The object Mr. Shafer had in view was to show what can be done in the way of raising fruit, and reclaiming old orchards by thorough cultivation and proper care. Though Mr. Shafer does not claim to be a fruit man, but a stockman, from choice, the results of his work in the fruit line were a surprise to the whole party. We gathered from his peach trees that have only been set out two years, some of the finest Crawford peaches it has ever been our fortune to sample, and we saw new growth on the peach trees which were long and three-quarters of an inch in thickness, and the trees were all rugged and healthy, the ground perfectly clean and by cultivation kept moist.

He has ten acres of cherry and peach orchard set in alternate rows, with the Big, Royal Ann and Centralia cherries and the Crawford and other standard varieties of peaches. Also ten acres more of cherries set out this season, all making a fine, healthy growth.

While looking over the young orchard Dr. Scarborough made him the following offer: That if he would set out the balance of the 50 acres which he intends to set out in cherries and tend it for two years, he, the doctor, would bind himself in writing to purchase the sixty acres at $12,000, or $200 per acre, but Mr. Shafer laughingly replied: "I want to see the benefit of this orchard myself."

He next took us to look at an old prune orchard that I advised him two years ago to grub out.

Here is where the reclaiming comes in. The old prune orchard that two years ago was grubbed up to fern and other weeds, and the trees looking hardly fit for firewood, was as clean as a well-kept garden and loaded with fruit to breaking.

Mr. Scarborough, who is an authority on prunes, estimated that the crop on the 290 trees at 700 bushels, worth 30 to 35 cents per bushel, green.

It has been largely through the influence of Dr. Scarborough that Mr. Shafer is trying the fruit business, and of course he is highly pleased to see such evidence of success. Now, the point we wish to make in this: We have in this part of Oregon hundreds, yes thousands of acres of just such land that can be bought for from $25 to $100 per acre that with intelligent care and cultivation can be made in five years to be worth $200 to $500 per acre, but we are greatly in need of Shafer and Scarboroughs to take hold of it and handle it.

In hopes that more of our farmers who are raising such fine crops of fern and goat weed may be induced to try fruit in a practical, common-sense way, I advise them to make a visit to the fine and hospitable home of T. A. Shafer, and also to take a look through the orchards of Dr. Scarborough. It will pay.

THURSTON ITEMS

(Special Correspondence.)
Thurston, Sept. 9.—The corn crop promises a good return this year, with the delay of the frost, while the potato crop will be short on account of the drought, yet the crop is of a superior quality. There is a large quantity of white beans being raised, also pumpkins and squashes.

Hop picking commenced at the Chesire yard this week. There was a goodly class of pickers at their noon camps, but were cut short of the usual number by the rain.

Mr. Eastman has been appointed administrator of the estate of Mrs. L. Peabody, and on Monday, the 7th inst, he will meet with the appraisers to appraise the property which amounted to $1148. J. J. Totten officiated as magistrate.

There is much improvement up this valley. Mr. Hemelwright has moved his house he purchased with the land adjoining his place to a more suitable location for a residence, and has also moved his feed barn and the dairy barn, which he built two years ago, so as to enlarge the barnyard, and has put a coat of paint on the same.

Mrs. Magnus has built a fine barn on her farm, besides having rebuilt her share of live fence on the east of her place.

Mr. Ives has finished his barn with a coating of paint.

Mr. Meyer has completed a very nice two-story house and removed the older one, making a much pleasanter place than before, and adding much to the appearance of the place.

The Howard brothers are adding quite a large addition to their house, making it a very commodious dwelling, after the Southern style.

Ray Hough and Carl Totten have returned from their vacation and report a splendid time while away, having seen the ocean under a heavy wind and white with foam.

DEMOCRATS OF ILLINOIS MEET AT PEORIA

(Special Correspondence.)

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 9.—The democracy of Illinois took Peoria by storm today. The state convention, to be followed by speeches from William J. Bryan, John W. Kern and Adlai Stevenson, attracted one of the largest crowds that ever attended a political demonstration in Peoria.

As the state convention proceedings were purely of a perfunctory character, the interest in the gathering centered in the speech-making. Mr. Bryan arrived from Chicago under escort of a large delegation representing the Cook county democracy. Mr. Bryan and Mr. Kern are to speak on issues of the national campaign. The address of Mr. Stevenson will mark the formal inauguration of his campaign for the governorship.

Mr. Bryan said in part: "There is no twilight zone between the nation and the state in which the exploiting interests can take refuge from both. There is no neutral ground where, beyond the jurisdiction of either sovereignty, the plunder of the public can find a safe retreat. As long as a corporation confines its activities to the state in which it was created, it is subject to state regulation only; but as soon as it invades interstate commerce it becomes amenable to federal laws as well as the laws of the state which created it and the laws of the states in which it does business."

How strict can these laws be? Just as strict as may be necessary for the protection of the public. Our platform outlines the regulation deemed necessary, and the regulation is specifically set forth in order that our opponents may not be able to scare the public by predicting hurtful legislation. Our platform, unlike the republican platform, says what it means and means what it says.

The platform is drawn between the railroads and other corporations. The railroad, being a quasi-public corporation and, as such, being permitted to exercise a part of the sovereignty of the state, is subject to regulation at the hands of both the state and the nation. This regulation is intended not to cripple the railroads but to increase their efficiency. The people at large are as much interested as the stockholders are in the successful operation of the railroads. Their own pecuniary interests as well as their sense of justice would restrain them from doing anything that would impair the road or reduce its efficiency. The traveling public is vitally interested in the payment of wages sufficient to command the most intelligent service, for life as well as property is in the hands of those who operate the trains, guard the switches and keep the track in repair.

The democratic party would distinguish between those railroad owners, directors and managers who, recognizing their obligation to the public, earn their salaries by conscientious devotion to the work entrusted to them, and those unscrupulous "Napoleons of Finance" who use railroads as mere pawns in a great gambling game without regard to the rights of employees or to the interests of the public. It is in the interest of honest railroading and legitimate investment that the democratic party seeks to ascertain the present value of the railroad properties and to prevent for the future the watering of stock and the issue of fictitious capitalization; and it is in the interest of both the railroads and the public that it seeks only such reductions in transportation rates as can be made without wage reduction, without deterioration in the service and without injustice to legitimate investments. The democratic party insists that in the matter of regulation of railroads both the state governments and the federal government shall act up to, and within, their powers; for nothing else will restore the confidence and good will that ought to exist between the railroads and the people. In dealing with manufacturing and trading corporations the democratic party draws a distinction between those corporations—and they constitute the great majority of all the manufacturing and trading corporations—which are engaged in a legitimate effort to supply what the consumers need, and the very corporations which are engaged in speculation, which seek to take advantage of the public on the one hand, while on the other hand they bankrupt competitors, oppress the producers of raw materials and deal arbitrarily with their employees. If endeavor to protect the innocent corporations by visiting punishment upon those corporations which are guilty of infractions of the moral and the statute law. Here, too, our platform is specific and no one can use its language to frighten any business man whose transactions are fair and whose income is honestly earned.

"No one can contract the plain, straightforward declarations of our party with the vague and ambiguous utterances of the republican leaders and the republican party's candidate without recognizing that our appeal is to the judgment and good sense of the voters who desire justice for themselves and insist upon justice being done by others. Our party, if entrusted with the power, will remedy the abuses which have grown up under republican rule, and yet remedy those abuses with due regard to constitutional limitations and without injury to any legitimate business interest."

Mr. Eastman has been appointed administrator of the estate of Mrs. L. Peabody, and on Monday, the 7th inst, he will meet with the appraisers to appraise the property which amounted to $1148. J. J. Totten officiated as magistrate.

There is much improvement up this valley. MYERS FAMILY HAVE SETTLED THEIR DIFFERENCES

Salem, Sept. 8.—The guardianship proceedings brought against Joseph Myers, the pioneer merchant, by his sons, Henry and Milton, were dismissed today.

The Myers boys paid off their obligation of over $50,000 to their father. The loss of the iron box containing their notes has therefore been of little importance. Amicable relations have been re-established among the members of the Myers family, and though a family reunion has not been held, it is expected that former relations will be resumed in a day or so.

This is the culmination of one of the most sensational family quarrels ever forced upon public attention in Oregon. Because Joseph Myers, over 70 years of age, declared his intention to wed Mrs. Zeonide De Rette his two sons, who had succeeded to the proprietorship of the dry goods store he founded, had him arrested on a charge of insanity.

While the insanity proceedings were pending Myers and Mrs. Du Rette were married. Then guardianship proceedings were filed for the purpose of preventing Myers from squandering his money.

So enraged by these attacks upon him by his sons, Myers determined to teach the boys a lesson, and sent to Salem on August 20 for his safety deposit box, which contained notes given by his sons, Milton and Henry, for amounts aggregating $50,000. His intention was to press payment of the notes.

The box was sent by Wells Fargo express, with a stated valuation of $10 on the box. After the box reached Portland and before it had been delivered to Mr. Myers, who was then staying there, the box was mysteriously stolen. But Myers senior demanded payment of the notes, which payment the sons refused to make unless indemnified against loss by the notes turning up in the hands of innocent holders.

LOWELL ITEMS

(Special Correspondence.)
Lowell, Sept. 9.—Mr. Goodman, our genial road supervisor, is repairing the roads near the Middle Fork school house.

There are a great many people on the go and the roads at this time of the year are thronged with teams and travelers of all descriptions, some enroute to Eastern Oregon, some hunters, some to Kitson Springs and the mines.

The Oregon Eastern surveyors are still camped at the Warner hot springs on Salt creek, and perhaps will be until snow flies on the mountains and drives them out.

Hunters do not report very good luck killing big game so far, as it has been most too dry, although the short rainy spells have put out the forest fires, and from this time on we may look for better hunting weather.

Jake Nest, of Eastern Oregon, is visiting his children at Rush Island. Quite a number of Rush islandites and the Lowellites attended the Dexter church services held by the Rev. Mr. Baker the last Sunday of August and enjoyed the pleasure of two sermons and a sumptuous repast of chicken pie and other dainties too numerous to mention.

Some of the slashings of brush around Lowell have not been burned yet.

The late rains have been a great help to the late potatoes, corn and garden stuff. The fruit crop is good, but there was a light crop of wild berries.

See us for camp furniture of all kinds.

OREGON EASTERN FINAL SURVEY NEARLY FINISHED

Harry Collins, who has been with the Oregon Eastern surveyors in the Cascade mountains above Hazel Dell for the past several weeks, arrived in Eugene yesterday and will remain here for some time. He states that the crew is working on the final location survey and he expects them to finish the work near the summit in two or three weeks. There is a stretch of the work between Lowell and Natron that will have to be done over for some reason or another, and as soon as the work in the mountains is completed this will be done and for construction will be in readiness.

Mr. Collins says it is the general opinion among Rankin's men that work on the railroad will begin in the early spring. They have located an excellent route, with easy grades, and construction work will be comparatively easy.

S. P. MAY PURCHASE

PACIFIC & EASTERN

Medford, Sept. 8.—E. H. Harriman and party were met at the Medford depot Sunday morning by Mayor Reddy and other citizens and given a cordial welcome to Medford. After an auto ride through the orchard sections south of Medford and an inspection of the permanent exhibit building at the depot, the special took the wizard and party to Ashland, from which point Mr. Harriman went south.

The special car of Mr. O'Brien stopped at Medford again in the afternoon, and Mr. O'Brien inspected the terminal facilities of the Pacific & Eastern at this place. Trackside privileges are wanted by the railroad, formerly the Crater Lake Railway, over the Southern Pacific tracks at Medford, and there is a remote possibility that the road may pass into the hands of the Southern Pacific.

The special attention to the tourist travel to the Crater Lake National Park and the fact that 12 miles of track is already laid makes the P. & E. road an object of interest, aside from its prospective timber tonnage.

Mr. Harriman registered at Medford as from Arden, N. Y., although his summer home in the future will be at Pelican Bay, Oregon.

Noah Buoy, an old resident of Creswell, suffered a light stroke of paralysis a couple of days ago. His son, John Buoy, returned from there today and reports him better. His right side and his speech are affected.

J. J. Chetwood, the Goshen farmer who was injured yesterday by being thrown from his wagon on Pearl street in Eugene and taken to the Eugene hospital, is improving and his injuries are not considered dangerous.

NELSON BESTS GANS IN HARD BATTLE

Round 8—Nelson shot two lefts to mouth, starting blood. Gans blocked, Nelson doing all the work. Gans then landed two rights uppercuts to jaw. At close quarters, Gans busy blocking, when Gans sounded. Nelson's round.

Round 9—Dane rushed in and Gans backed away, landing two uppercuts to face. In close fighting the Dane landed on jaw with left. Nelson's right leads were rather low, causing crowd to yell its disfavor. Nelson got in two rights and left to stomach. Nelson's round.

Round 10—Gans landed left to jaw and after elbow Nelson landed right swing to stomach and beat a tattoo on stomach with short arm rights and lefts. Gans landed two uppercuts and Nelson swung elbow, catching Gans on point of jaw. Crowd hooted Nelson, who was cautioned by referee. Round even.

Rounds 11-13—Nelson rushes Gans and has him on defensive most of the time. Gans landed several times in rallies, but failed to do any damage. Gans clinches frequently and is bleeding freely.

Round 16—Gans landed straight left to jaw. At close quarters Nelson did much execution with uppercuts. Both cautioned to break by referee. Gans landed hard rights to stomach, following with lefts to the same place, but could not follow his advantage. Gans' round.

Round 18—Nelson landed left to face. Gans landed left hook to jaw. Gans swung terrific right to jaw. Nelson forced him to ropes, landing several lefts to body. Gans staggered Nelson with two rights to jaw. Round very fast.

Round 19—At close quarters, Gans uppercutting with right to face. Gans landed several times on Nelson's jaw and body. Gans' round.

Round 20—Nelson rushed, landing two lefts to head, forcing Gans

Gans Knocked Out
Round 21—Nelson worked into a clinch and Gans put left to body. Nelson sent rights and lefts to jaw and staggered his man with a rain of blows to body and head. Gans tried to cover up, but Nelson was merciless and rushed him to ropes, landing at will on a practically defenseless man. Gans dropped to mat more from weakness than from force of blows. He tried to get up within the count but was too late. As official time-keeper shouted ten Gans rose, but referee Eddy Smith motioned him away and declared Nelson the winner.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Cox and daughter, of Goldson, were in the city on Monday.

Frank C. Hill, who lives near Springfield, will leave Friday for Olex, Oregon, where he has employment.
