

THE GREAT OVERSTOCKED CLOTHING SALE OPENED WITH A GREAT RUSH

From the very minute we opened the doors business began with a rush. Many came in doubtfully thinking that the good news couldn't possibly be true. They quickly saw and spread the good news. The story today contains news about blankets and overcoats. You who have been here buying clothing can come and buy overcoats, cravenette rain coats and Oregon made woolen blankets at equally big savings.

OVERCOAT BARGAINS

During the first days of the sale we were without any overcoats—a fault of the railway it seems. But they are here now and what splendid bargains you'll find them to be. Overcoats and Cravenette Rain Coats cut along the latest lines—made up as well as possibly can be—and you'd be asked to pay at least 50 per cent more than our prices anywhere in town.

OVERCOATS—Exceptional values at 12.50, 15.00, 18.00, 20.00.

CRAVENTTE RAIN COATS—Exceptional values at 9.85, 12.50, 15.00, $22.50.

WATER BOND CASE COMES UP

OCTOBER 20

The Oregon supreme court yesterday made an order advancing three important matters for hearing on the 20th and 21st. One is from Eugene, the case of the city of Eugene vs. the Winamette Valley Company, and relates to water rights and an extension of the system of the company; another is that of Farrell vs. the Port of Portland; involving the validity of an act passed by initiative at the last election giving the port authority to act as a municipality in the issuance of bonds for the improvement of the river and harbor; the third, Long vs. the city of Portland, relates to the tax and vehicle act voted on at the last election. This case will come up on the afternoon of the 21st. Some very important points are involved in these cases and their outcome will be awaited with considerable interest.

Portland, Or., Oct. 8.—Generally poor quality is noted in the local arrivals of tomatoes and for this reason buyers are not willing to pay such high prices as they were when the stock showed better color. There is somewhat of a scarcity in peppers owing to the late frosts which did considerable damage in this line. Niagara grapes are in too liberal supply to command any price and are scarce for good quality. Cabbage supplies are slightly better, but the market is very firm with prices ruling fractionally higher for select quality. Slight Increase of Butter. The trade is holding mixed views regarding the future of the onion market. Generally speaking the price is general that the crop in the south is boldly overestimated and that after the first great rush to market is stopped, it will be found that practically all the California crop has been moved. While some of the smaller local growers seem willing to pile their product upon the market here, the larger producers are not in the market at all, seemingly relying on the southern glut is taken care of. There is a slightly firmer tone in local potatoes owing to the smaller offerings. Prices are thus far unchanged. Chicken Market Holds Dull. In the chicken market trade remains somewhat dull. Receipts are greater than expected and some of the commission men who expected a better market this week, and therefore carried over portions of their supplies, are holding them. Egg market is holding just about steady with quotations. If anything it is a fraction weaker. The market has been invaded by too many cars of eastern eggs and the price of local stock has been boosted too high. Very Dull in Hop Market. While such bear leaders as Herman Klaber of Klaber, Wolf & Netter company and E. Clement Horst, are still said to be taking some of the choicer goods of the state around the country, there is nothing doing in the general market. The general trade reports a lack of outside interest with no orders in sight. Isaac Pincus & Sons of Tacoma are likewise said to have been late purchasers of select quality in the Willamette valley around 7c and 7 1/2c. The following London cable was received by Klaber, Wolf & Netter yesterday: "The demand is chiefly for choice. Choice hops are firm. Other qualities weak. Choice hops are almost exhausted. Nuremberg market continues in a very depressed state."

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for Weak Kidneys, Lame Back and Inflammation of the Bladder. A WEEK'S TRIAL 25c

"Sax market is decidedly weaker, with tendency down." Dressed Meats Are Steady. Dressed meats are coming to the Front street market in moderate way, but just about sufficient for the demand, and the prices that have prevailed for a week are current today. There is little complaint regarding the quality of hogs offered, but a good deal of inferior veal is being sent in. A few muttons have been received the past few days, the best offerings moving at 7 cents a pound. Receipts today were 82 hogs and 75 calves.

Portland Livestock Market. Portland Stockyards, Oct. 7.—The livestock trade in general has changed its opinion regarding the future of the hog market. While there may be some slight lowering of prices from the present level it is not believed that the decline will amount to much. Although there have been several declines in eastern values during the past few days, the market here is holding much better than expected and is only a fraction lower than this market at the present time. The course of local prices depends upon what the eastern markets do within the next week or ten days. A stiff tone there would hold any decline here in check but a lower range east would cause a reaction here. "I find considerable strength in the hog situation where I had not looked for," said Mr. Benson of Benson & Gould. "I have advised that some hogs we expected in the local market would not come at all, for a price better than that basis, Portland delivery, had been obtained here."

Sheep Values May Go Higher. While no change is today shown in sheep market values, Sunday are holding firm. Arrivals are very scant, but the big packers are getting most of their supplies direct from the interior, and therefore the arrivals are not noted in the totals at the yards.

Mapleton, Oct. 6.—Weather nice and cool, health fairly good. Quite a good many coming in from the valley and other parts for outings, pleasure, fish, hunting, etc. We had a short revival meeting here. It commenced last Saturday night and closed Sunday night. A man came from somewhere out in the valley—they call him an evangelist. Well, he preached us all to the bottomless pit of hell, and then went out and left us there. He said there was but one in one hundred (one per cent) that would gain the kingdom of heaven, and they were the good ones. Mr. Editor, as I am safe in saying we have none that are good and perfect, we are all doomed to that terrible place. He further said that all secret orders, communions and down to and even took with the A. F. & A. M., the Odd Fellows and down to and even took with the Christian Science church, that they were all works of the devil, and all of them doomed to hell and damnation. Mr. Editor, you will see at once that we are in a sad and distressing predicament. What shall we do? The Scriptures say there is none good—no, not one. They also say: "He that says he is without sin is a liar and the truth is not in him." Can you send us a preacher that can get us out of that hot place? If so we will pay his expenses and some besides. Some of the Masons and Odd Fellows say they think the evangelist has tried at some time to join them and has been blackballed, and is still a little sore. I will give him all the credit that is due him by saying that I think he was quite windy. The run of fish still continues light. The Co-operative Union Fish Company's cannery at Rose Hill is
