WATERS-PIERCE WILL BE HEARD IN COURT AGAIN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—The state of Texas is prepared to put up a vigorous opposition to the plan of counsel for the Waters-Pierce Oil Company for a consolidation of the two cases pending against the company in the supreme court of the United States. Both cases, the main, or ouster, and penalty case, and that for receiver, however, are set for submission to the court tomorrow. Before they are reached on the docket, however, the attorneys for the company purpose to move to consolidate the cases and at the same time petition the court that both cases be heard together. Both motions will be opposed by the legal representatives of the state of Texas. The consolidation of the cases would be a distinct advantage to the defendant company. If the cases were consolidated a reversal of one would carry with it the reversal of the other. If, through some technicality or other, the main case, ouster, by the Waters-Pierce company from Texas and imposing a fine of $1,625,000, should be reversed, then the receivership case would also go back, even though the court might finally decide the federal court receivership in favor of the state and affirm the decree of the United States circuit court of appeals at New Orleans. But if the cases are maintained separate and the main case reversed for any cause and the state receivership case affirmed, then the state of Texas would be in a position to place its receiver in charge of the property. Moreover, if the main case should be reversed and ordered back for trial, at least two years would be required to get it back to Washington for final decision in the United States Supreme Court. If the receivership case was attached, the state's receiver would be held during all the time. If continued separately and affirmed, the receiver would be placed in control regardless of what disposition was made of the main case. A reversal would not then affect the receivership, once it is affirmed. With a full knowledge of these facts, Attorney-General Davidson of Texas is prepared to exhaust legal means of necessary to defeat the scheme of the Waters-Pierce company to have the cases consolidated.

Herman Klaber is not buying, according to the trade, and with the exception of a few straggling lots no business is in sight. Eight cents could still be paid for choice quality, but hops of this grade are hard to get. According to Joseph Harris, the Salem dealer, there is but little doing up that way. There are few orders of any kind in sight and none from the East. Wheat is weaker. A weaker market abroad cost the prices of wheat futures a fraction today on the board of trade and a sale of a car of spot club was made at a fractional advance, the deal being at 82 cents, f. o. b. dock. There was a firmer tone in coarse grains, but buyers and sellers did not get together, although the difference in their views is somewhat narrowed. There was no change today in either the bid or asked price for November oats, but an advance of 1-4 cent was bid for December delivery. While holders held out for $1.60 a while, the asked price dropped to $1.55 later in the session. This is a decline of 2 1-2 c a cental from yesterday. What Causes Poultry Slump. While every one knows the principal reason for the late slump in Portland poultry prices, the primary cause has just been discovered. While of course the lower prices are the result of very heavy arrivals during the past few weeks, these heavy arrivals caused entirely by the high price of feed. With wheat for feed selling around $34 a ton, poultry raisers are not keeping as many hens as they formerly did. Because of the enormous grain price poultry shippers are forced to send the bulk of their supplies to market, for even though eggs are high the producer figures that it does not pay to feed chickens just to get them. Now that the rainy season has started and poultry keepers are forced to look more carefully after the health and wants of their fowls, they are inclined to the opinion that the load is a trifle heavier than they care to carry and for that reason local commission men have been deluged with requests for empty coops to go to the country points, from whence they will be returned with a load of chickens. Causes Small Supply of Fresh Eggs. While egg supplies from local ranches are usually small at this time of the year the decrease in supplies is due to some other cause than usual. The fact that producers are shipping most of their supplies of poultry to market is one reason for the decreased arrivals here. Another reason is the lower prices in effect here at the moment than can be obtained elsewhere. Brief Notes of Wholesale Market. Owing to the rains farmers are not offering potatoes very freely. Price stiffer, with local selling prices about 5 cents higher. Butter market is firm, but some of the outside makers of best creamery are not quoting city prices. Cheese is firm at an advance of 1-2 cent quoted yesterday. Grape supplies from the south are very liberal. Best tokays are selling no higher than $1. Peach market remains easy with nothing moving over 75 cents, and even select quality is sometimes hard to move at that figure. Reports from the lower Columbia indicate that the run of salmon is somewhat increased since the rains started. Dressed meat markets are holding firm with select veal especially in good call. First shipment of Eastern chestnuts arrived this morning by express and is quoted at 25 cents a pound. Lower prices when regular shipments come forward. Portland Livestock Market. Portland Union Stockyards, Oct. 15.—Following a lower range of hog values in the East and a much weaker tone, both of which have been predicted of late, hog values locally are from 15 to 25 cents lower, with nothing selling over $6.85, and the general run of stuff hardly able to bring more than $6.75. Wants of killers have been curtailed somewhat by the recent high values because hogs went beyond a good packing basis. "Chicago is weaker and lower for hogs," says Lee M. Lacy, of Hunt & Lacy, "and this is the reason for today's drop in hog values locally. The interests of the Eastern and Western hog markets are so much alike at this time that when one is hit by lower prices must of necessity cause a decline in other sections." Heifers Bring a Better Price. With the improved demand for cows and heifers, both lines the bringing a better price in the local market. The general run of good cows is showing an advance of about 10 cents from the low point, although the high mark is as yet undisturbed. Heifers are selling as high as $3.50, but the general price for good stuff scarcely ranges above $2.25. Even this is an advance of about 25 cents over quotations ruling in the yards. Sheep values show no change on stock ruling in the yards for shipments. Hogs—Best east of mountains, $6.75 @ $6.85; ordinary, $6.75; block, $6.75 @ $6.85; ordinary, $6.75; blockers and China fat, $6; stockers and feeders, $5. CITY NEWS

One of the hardest showers ever seen here fell this morning and the streets were almost flooded for a few minutes. E. M. Warren has donated to the Commercial Club a number of jars of preserved cherries, peaches, gooseberries and currants for display at the promotion department. Simon Klovdahl and John Gold returned to Eugene last night from Waldo Lake, having completed the head gate in the cut for A. R. Black's water reservoir for irrigation in the Willamette valley. A carload of box shooks for the Allen Fruit company and a car load of wire fence for Moon & Tingley were among the freight shipments into Eugene today. The ladies of the Altar Society of the Catholic church will hold a basket social in the parish hall on Thursday evening. They expect all their friends to attend and enjoy a pleasant evening. Civil Engineer Simon Klovdahl and John Gold returned from Waldo lake yesterday. They have been engaged on A. R. Black's irrigation reservoir project there during the fall and summer. The are light at the intersection of East Eighth and High streets has not been burning the last two nights. The residents in that vicinity have been complaining on that account as the nights are now very dark during the rain storm. Jay McCormick's valuable Llewellyn setter had to be killed by L. Bonney, city dog license collector, last night on account of being poisoned. A good deal of rat poisoning is now being put out over the city, and dog owners should look out for it. Another hard storm last night, the rainfall being even greater than during the night previous. The streams are rising slowly, although there is no prospect of a freshet, the ground being so dry that a great deal of the rain soaked in. The postal cards recently ordered by the Commercial Club from Chicago, bearing a map of Western Oregon, with Lane county in red and Eugene in large letters, have arrived and are on sale at Eaton's, Schwarzschild's and Gilbert's. In addition to the cards there are 4000 on enameled paper for inserts in Nobody's Magazine. The three hobos turned over to the police officers yesterday by the trainmen who found them in a box car loaded with merchandise were turned loose by Chief of Police Farrington last night, but this morning he received a wire from railroad headquarters at Portland requesting him to hold them. Of course the message came too late, as the hobos were then well on their way out of the city and county. O. P. Coshov, of Brownsville, left for Hood River, on a visit with his son Robert and family, and to attend the Hood River apple fair, to be held this week. This is worth going to, it being said that Hood River is the best apple raising country in the world, the apples from there commanding the highest price of any raised.—Albany Democrat. A number of Eugene people are subscribing to the fund to insure the success of the Pacific National stock show and race meet at Portland next fall. Among them are the following, each man taking one season ticket at $5 each: Alton Hampton, S. H. Friendly, John F. Kelly, A. C. Dixon, Webster Kincaid, F. E. Dunn, Jack Rodman, Dr. T. W. Harris, George Fisher, F. M. Wilkins, A. C. Woodcock, John H. Hartog. A Taft Republican Club will be formed at a mass meeting next Friday evening at the University. It will be organized under the leadership of Walker G. Winslow of Salem, an alumnus of the University, who is now national organizer for Oregon, Washington and Idaho. Mr. Winslow will be assisted by State Secretary C. N. McArthur, Representative Allen Eaton and Attorney L. E. Bean. In addition to the nickelodeon Berger-Beas building, on the upper floor will be installed the camera-phonograph, newest in talking and moving pictures. This machine is now perfected and produces all the latest operas. Mr. Harris leaves Saturday for San Francisco to make his arrangements. There will be installed an electric stairway to take patrons to the upper floor, the same as are in San Francisco. All that is required is to step on the stairway and it carries the people to the upper floor. The first opera to be produced will be "The Merry Widow."
