EAGLES INITIATE A BIG CLASS
Fifty-four Eaglets Receive their Pinions at Big Meeting Last Night

Eugene Aerie No. 275, Fraternal Order of Eagles, held a big meeting last night at which 54 candidates were initiated into the mysteries of the order. A membership campaign has been waged during the past few weeks, a special dispensation allowing the lodge to offer a reduced rate for membership having been granted for this occasion. The members of the aerie have worked strenuously and the splendid class that appeared last night was the result. The ceremonies of initiation lasted well along past midnight. During the progress of the work, and afterward, refreshments were served and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

The local aerie now has about 250 members and is in splendid shape financially. Besides owning a lot on Willamette street near Fifth, which is valued at over $5000, the aerie has on hand $1000 in cash and owns its furniture and lodge fixtures.

town shipments took up a part of the surplus.
Eggs were weak and sluggish. A few sales of Oregon ranch are still reported at 40 cents, but 37 1-2 cents is the usual quotation. The large quantity of Eastern eggs on the market has scared some of the holders and shading of prices is reported. The egg market in the East, however, is very firm.

City creameries quote a firm butter market, but some outside brands are barely steady on Front street. Cheese continues in a firm position.
Nothing Doing in Hops
The hop offices were without sign of life yesterday. Most of the local buyers came in from the country to vote and no business was transacted. It is regarded as probable that some developments will occur before the week is ended. The trade looks for a renewed demand from the East, and it would surprise no one if English orders made their appearance.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

PORTLAND MARKET REPORT

Portland, Or., Nov. 5.—"The outlook is for higher butter prices," said a city creamery man today. "In the East the surplus with which the markets were loaded for a time, when large quantities of storage product were taken out, has been largely worked off, and prices are trending upward. If this continues, and there is every reason to believe that it will, an advance in this market is inevitable. It may not come this week, but it is very likely to come soon."
The local market today was very firm, both as regards city creamery and country products, and while there is still a good deal of Eastern butter here, the supply is not such as to exert any serious weakening effect. Home production has fallen to about the minimum for the year, and not until after the first of the year will there be any material increase in the local supply.
Throughout November of last year city creamery butter sold here at 32 1-2 cents a pound, but there was a strong upward tendency during the last month of the year. On December 2 the price advanced to 35 cents and on December 13 it went to 37 1-2.
The position of the cheese market is about the same as that of butter. Many of the Oregon factories have already closed for the season, and it is expected that by the middle of the month operations generally will have been suspended. Dealers report a strong local shipping demand, and higher than current prices are expected soon.
Poultry Prevails Very Large
Poultry receipts were unusually heavy yesterday and the demand was very slow. The result was a weak market all around. Some dealers held chickens at 17 cents, but others cleaned up at 11 1-2 cents. Out-
