

WHAT GRANDMA AND GRANDPA SAY IS TRUE.

They Say That Pe-ru-na is Good for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Catarrh.

Good Health at Seventy-Seven.

Mrs. S. J. Edwards, Union City, Tenn., writes under date of Nov. 7, 1908, the following:

"On the 7th day of February, 1905, I live, I will be seventy-seven years of age. I enjoy the best of health, thanks to Peruna, and have not had a spell of sickness since I began using it five or six years ago."

"I consider it the grandest medicine on earth, and whenever I feel a little badly a few doses of Peruna put me right. I can do as much work as I could forty years ago. I think all old people, who feel the effects of age, should benefit their health by using Peruna."

All the Best Part of His Life.

Mr. J. R. Prince, R. R. 2, Cattaraugus, N. Y., writes: "I am not very well satisfied with the picture that I am sending you, but when the reader looks at this picture if he could only realize that the original suffered for forty-five years, the best of his life, until your kind advice and prescription came, he would know from whence those wrinkles came. Next month I shall be sixty-six years old."

Nervous Prostration.

Mrs. Martha Avery, 28 Graham St., Leominster, Mass., writes: "Four years ago I had nervous prostration. I employed several doctors. One would say I had catarrh of the stomach and bowels, another nervousness and another enlargement of the liver. My stomach was in a bad shape."

MIXED RELATIONS CAUSED BY PRANKS OF DAN CUPID

FOUND HIS WIFE HAD MARRIED ANOTHER MAN

A well-known Washington newspaper man married his brother's step-daughter, thus his brother becoming his father-in-law and his sister-in-law his mother-in-law. The girl's step-father became her brother-in-law. There is much food for thought in the effort to figure out mixed family relationships complicated by unusual marriages, says the Kansas City Star. One man, William Harris, of Titusville, Pa., committed suicide because he ascertained, so he said, that he was his own grandfather. The man left the following autobiography for the coroner: "I married a widow who had a grown up daughter. My father visited us often, fell in love with my step-daughter and married her. Thus my father became my son-in-law, and my step-daughter being my father's wife, became my step-mother. Soon after this distressing complication arose my wife presented me with a son. This son was my father's brother-in-law and my own uncle, since he was a brother of my step-mother. My father's wife also became the mother of a boy. He was of course my brother and also my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter. Also my wife was a grandmother. I was my wife's husband and grandchild at once. At the same time, as the husband of a person's grandmother is the person's grandfather, I am my own grandfather."

GREENLEAF ITEMS

(Special Correspondence.) Greenleaf, Oct. 29.—The gentle pattering, pattering of the rain is heard again on the roof. The sad news of the death in Portland Monday of Miss Pearl Lamb, each couple. The difficult question at once arose—what relationship was one child to the other? Miss Millie Heckenbough, of Minnesota, was married to her uncle's brother's nephew's brother-in-law, and no one ever has been able to untangle the relationship. One of the governors of Missouri, Claiborn F. Jackson, married, one after the other, five sisters. "When for the fifth time," says Arthur Herkimer, the Missouri historian, "Jackson broached a marital proposition to his father-in-law the old man was so and quite deaf. This is the conversation that ensued: "'I want Lizzie.' "'Hey?' "'I want you—to give me—Lizzie.' "'Oh, you want me to give you Elizabeth, do you? What for?' "'For my wife.' "'For your wife?' "'I want—to marry—Lizzie.' "'Oh, yes; I hear you. You need not arouse the neighborhood.' "'Well, do you consent?' "'Yes, I consent," said the old man as he shook his head and said slowly: "Yes, you can have her, my boy. You've got 'em all now. But for goodness sake if anything happens to that girl don't come back here and ask me for the old woman." Richard Edgeworth, of Sonoma, S. D., a man of 69, married Jennie Barrett, aged 29. At the same time his son, aged 30, married the mother of Jennie, a fair charmer of 41. All four lived on adjoining ranches, and there was a double wedding. The girl of 29 became the step-mother-in-law of her own mother, and the son is the father-in-law of his father's wife.

DATA FOR USE OF MEMBERS OF LEGISLATURE

The research bureau of the department of economics and political science at the University is collecting a great deal of valuable data for the use of members of the legislature at the coming session. The facts on both sides of questions under consideration are gathered from all sources and placed in convenient form for reference. Some of the questions being investigated are the following: "Comparison of the financial provisions of the Oregon State Constitution with those of contemporary state constitutions, and with those of present day constitutions."

"Graphic showing of the development of the different sources of Oregon state revenues."

"Oregon waterpower resources and a desirable state policy."

"Graphic showing of the development of different lines of public expenditure."

"Oregon's public lands policy."

"Oregon's school fund system and system of common school finance."

"Oregon's wagon road appropriations and system of state highways."

"Financial statistics of the railroads of the Pacific Northwest."

The information gathered will also be placed at the service of the public, who may get the results by inquiring at the University when the work is completed.

REGISTRATION IS 521

Every county in the state, with the exception of half a dozen in Eastern and Southeastern Oregon, in which there are no complete high schools, and every four-year high school and academy in the state is represented in the student body at the University of Oregon. The registration is now 521, which is the greatest in the history of the institution, and will be increased 600 by the registration at the opening of the second semester.

Many students enter at this time, completing their work at the mid-year four years hence. The registration of 521 includes only the departments of liberal arts and engineering, and not the departments of medicine and law. If these were included the total would be about 750. Fifty-three students are registered from three outside of Oregon, an indication of the large number of people from other states that are settling in the state. Multnomah county leads in the number of students, followed in order by Lane, Marion, Baker, Clackamas, Jackson, Douglas and Umatilla.

DR. ATWOOD AND SON ARRESTED AND IN JAIL

Drs. C. H. T. Atwood and C. H. Atwood, father and son, who have offices in the Alisky building, and who operate a private hospital at Tremont station, on the Mount Scott car line, were arrested last night about 8 o'clock in their hospital by Deputy Sheriff Bulker and Kelly on a warrant sworn out yesterday afternoon by Assistant District Attorney Fitzgerald before justice of the Peace Olson, which charges them with practicing medicine without license, in violation of the death of Pearl Lamb, a young woman from Eugene, Or., who died at the Atwood hospital on Monday night following the results of malpractice. The accused doctors were taken to the county jail, where they were kept in default of $1000 cash bail, says today's Oregonian.

The arrest of Drs. Atwood was made a little earlier than had been anticipated owing to information which reached District Attorney Fitzgerald to the effect that one of the defendants was preparing to leave for Eugene for the purpose of destroying evidence obtained against them there. The warrant in this case does not charge the defendants with manslaughter, but charges "indecent and immoral acts which openly outrage public decency and are injurious to public morals." This is the same statute as was used in the prosecution of the defendants in the new celebrated Lane-Waymire-Radding case.

District Attorney Cameron said last night that this was the first instance in which an offense of this character had been prosecuted under this statute. He said that he had instructed that the prosecution be brought in this way because if failure in the past of prosecuting officers in securing conviction on charges of manslaughter. The claim made by the Atwoods to Coroner Norden when the investigation in the case was first begun that the malpractice alleged was not effected by them, but by a Eugene physician, is discredited by the prosecution, which makes the claim of having evidence showing that the malpractice was actually done by the Atwoods, and that the statement signed by the girl before she died was made to protect the Atwoods.

"It will be a serious menace to the dishonorable physicians of this community if we secure a conviction on this charge," said Deputy District Attorney Fitzgerald last night. "It will mean that we can proceed against many who otherwise we might have to pass by without hope of reaching. If the Atwoods are convicted it will curtail a great part of the malpractice now being carried on in this city."

"The attitude of the prisoners was one of composure last night at the county jail. 'We believe that some enemy has inspired this attack upon us,'" said the elder Atwood. "If the prosecuting officers of this county are really looking for the malpractitioners of the community they might have looked further than to us. During the past month we have refused to take about 50 cases of this character, which we know have been handled by others in this city. If we were in this line of business why should we have refused to do the work?"
