WALDO LAKE

(From Friday's Daily Guard.)
As forecasted by The Guard last summer, F. H. Ray and his associates, of Helena, Mont., have purchased a large interest in A. R. Black's Waldo Lake reservoir, irrigation and power enterprise.
Deeds filed for record today show that for the consideration of $35,000 A. R. Black has sold and transferred to F. H. Ray the undeveloped portion of his Waldo Lake enterprise. Mr. Black reserving an interest therein to the extent of 38,500 acre feet of developed reservoir capacity and all addresses and interests therein right to the use of $8,500 acre feet of water from the reservoir. The deeds have been in escrow in the bank until the final payment was made.
As soon as the weather will permit, Mr. Ray and his associates, who are well posted on irrigation development and the benefits to be derived therefrom, will proceed to develop the balance of the Waldo Lake reservoir capacity, and store flood waters for future use, for power purposes and irrigation. Sufficient development on those lines will enable the Willamette valley to support a larger population than Southern California, and will also encourage and hasten the building of competing railway lines to Eugene.
Three Years' Missionary Work
Mr. Black has strongly advocated irrigation in the Willamette valley and diligently prosecuted the work of this enterprise for over three years under adverse conditions. He has been ridiculed for advocating irrigation in this valley and for spending money on what many have seen fit to term a foolhardy undertaking. He has also undergone many hardships in the construction work in the mountains. That he persevered under such conditions and brought the enterprise to the present degree of success entitles him to much credit for his foresight and energy.
Mr. Black's resolution of said 38,500 acre feet of water annually is amply sufficient to irrigate 20,000 acres of land in the Willamette valley. There are over two million acres of arable land in the Willamette valley which irrigation will greatly benefit. The commercial advisability of irrigation in this valley is no longer a question. It will be a great and lasting benefit, establish a foundation upon which new developments will be made and insure permanent prosperity. The following paragraph plainly illustrates that flood water stored in a reservoir sufficient to annually irrigate 20,000 acres of land in this valley is a very valuable property.
Store Flood Waters
Water rights for irrigation from the United States reclamation works are sold at an average price of $36.65 per acre. The Willamette river is a navigable stream and the United States government will not permit the diversion of water for irrigation or other purposes. The entire low water flow of the Willamette river is applied to power purposes, which is a beneficial use, and has become a vested right. The courts respect and uphold vested water rights based on priority of application to beneficial use, hence the great value of flood water stored for future use is self evident. Notwithstanding the above, the entire Willamette valley can be irrigated without transgressing upon vested rights by storing flood waters, which now run to waste to the ocean. In reservoirs in the foothills on both sides of the valley, and toward the head of the streams. The precipitation in eight months of each year is amply sufficient to fill such reservoirs. It is common money advice to construct such reservoirs on account of the great future demand for irrigation in this valley. The people will eventually be compelled to do so in order to support the increase in population in the Willamette valley by production from the soil.

TEXAS PREACHER CAUSES EXCITEMENT

Geo. Clark, a Methodist minister who has been preaching at Gardiner, during excitement in town and along the line today in a plenty, says the Cottage Grove Western Oregon. Sheriff Fenton, of Douglas county, got this man at Gardiner, who is wanted in Texas for bigamy and obtaining money under false pretenses, and upon his request, and payment of necessary expense, took him to Salem to see the governor. He was given the cold shoulder at that place and the sheriff was returning him to Roseburg, when the ex-preacher gave him the slip at Junction City. Description was wired to Marshal Snodgrass, of this city, who got this man as he came through town. Sheriff Fenton was notified and got him here, taking him to Roseburg with a pair of steel wristlets for ornaments. There is $200 reward, a part of which Marshal Snodgrass will receive.

DISTRICT FAIR

The District Fair Association is progressing with the district fair which will be held in Cottage Grove this month. A list of the premiums has been arranged, which appear on the local page of the Western Oregonian. The various committees have worked hard and diligently to make this a grand success and from the present indications, it will. A meeting was held in the Commercial club rooms last Friday evening in regard to business connected with the fair, and a very good report was given. Farmers should bring their exhibits and enter in the exhibit. There are a lot of blue ribbon producers in the vicinity of Cottage Grove, and we should like to see some of their products on display.

CROW NOTES

(Guard's Special Correspondent)
Crow, Nov. 9.—Mrs. S. Emerson has sold part of her farm at Hadleyville to Richard Corryell.
Lucy E. Johnson and family have moved to the Nighwander farm.
After visiting friends and relatives here, Richard Hayes has returned to Heppner.
Mrs. Calloway, Miss Alta Calloway and Mrs. C. C. Hinton were guests of Mrs. V. C. Jenkins one day last week.
Mr. Huffman, of Portland is again visiting Miss Grace Crow, at her home here.
After visiting a week with her sister, Mrs. A. J. Kraal, Mrs. B. D. McLean went to Hale last Wednesday to visit her parents.
Homer Hayes left a week ago for Eugene, where we hear he has employment at Berger-Bean's hardware store. He has a large circle of friends here who miss him greatly.
Albert Rieck spent Saturday and Sunday in Eugene.
Charles Hartwig has nearly completed farming on J. A. J. Crow's place.
We have now had one week of Rural Free Delivery and are much gratified with the improvement. Our carrier, Ingle Seals, is most courteous and obliging. However, we are sorry to notice that several of our neighbors on the route do not patronize it. If they could but realize that to become permanent the route must have a certain amount of patronage, and that when the patronage justifies, we may have a daily delivery, they would surely feel it their duty to help along a good thing by helping themselves.
