Those Who Have Used Pe-ru-na Are the Only Ones Who Really Know

Many a matron has lengthened the days of her comely appearance by taking Peruna. To be beautiful, the body must be kept clean internally as well as externally. Peruna produces clean mucous membranes, the basis of facial symmetry, and a clear, healthy complexion.

MISS NETTIE E. BOGARDUS

MRS. GEO. C. WORSTELL

MRS. O. D. ROBINSON

Internal Catarrh.

Mrs. George C. Worstell, 11 River Road, Clarksburg, W. Va., writes:

"I trust that no one will think from this that I want my name in public for any cause only to let sufferers know where they may find relief from many ailments.

"I can truly say I have been much benefited by the use of Peruna. I feel better than I have for two years. It is the best medicine that I know for internal catarrh.

"I have taken medicine from the doctors and found no relief; but when I began taking Peruna I could see that before I had finished taking the first bottle it was doing me good."

Pe-ru-na Tablets.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have incessantly labored to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous labors have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

Pe-ru-na Prolonged Her Life.

Mrs. O. D. Robinson, 43 St. Felix Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I have taken Peruna and it did me more good than all my two years' treatment by special physicians. I can really say that I feel like another person. No more swollen feet and limbs. No more bloating of the abdomen. No more shortness of breath. No more stiff and sore joints. You have no idea what your treatment has done for me. It certainly has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me.

"O, such a blessing I have received through your kindness, doctor, and the assistance of the medicine which you have so kindly prescribed. I am able to work since I began your treatment, but before I was not able to help myself, much less work for anyone else. All praise is due to Dr. Hartman and his treatment."

My Sister Advised Me to Try Peruna.

I Took Your Treatment and My Appetite Returned Speedily.

I Gained Strength and Flesh and Am in Perfect Health.

I Am So Thankful Your Medicine Has Done Me So Much Good.

—So Says Miss Julia Butler,
Of Appleton, Wis.

Sick Headache.

Miss Nettie E. Bogardus, R. F. D. 21, Westfield, N. Y., writes:

"I have been a great sufferer from sick headaches, but am now entirely free from that trouble. I have not felt so well in ten years as I do now.

"I would recommend Peruna and Manalin to all sufferers. I will say, God bless Dr. Hartman and his wonderful remedies."

Weak, No Appetite.

Mrs. Ruth B. Brent, Holmes, Ill., writes:

"I was in poor health three years ago. I kept getting worse, and I finally was so weak that I could not sit up all day. My feet and hands were always cold. I had no appetite.

"I consulted one of the best doctors, who said I could not be cured. I was nervous, my heart would flutter, and I had a pain in my left side and also had chronic constipation.

"I got a bottle of Peruna and one of Manalin and wrote to you for advice. While under your treatment I gained three pounds a month.

"I took several more bottles of Peruna and now I am well. I am able to do all my housework—cooking, washing, ironing, baking and mending.

"Everybody compliments me on looking so much better than I used to, and now I have a girl baby six months old, as fat as she can be.

"She is what I call a Peruna baby, for I know if it had not been for Peruna she would not be here."

For Suffering Women.

Miss Esther Lee, 302 Madison Street, Topeka, Kas., Secretary Triple Tie Social Club, writes:

"Fourteen months ago I began to be troubled with internal catarrh, which left me pale, weak and nervous. I decided to give Peruna a trial.

"To my great relief I found that my general health improved. I kept growing stronger, and within three months I was in my usual normal condition. I cannot recommend Peruna too highly to suffering women."

JURY SAYS HARRY TABOR IS NOT GUILTY

The jury in the Harry Tabor manslaughter case returned a verdict of not guilty this afternoon about 1:30 o'clock after having been out over two hours. According to the evidence in the trial the jury concluded that the shooting was done in self-defense, hence the verdict of acquittal.

To those who followed the evidence at the trial all the way through, the verdict was not unexpected, and expressions of satisfaction were heard on all sides after the jury had come in and the verdict was read. Tabor received the news of his acquittal quietly and stated that he was confident all the time that such a verdict would be rendered. The case went to the jury shortly before 11 o'clock this forenoon. Judge Harris' instructions to the jury were lengthy and explicit. In part they were as follows:

Instructions of Trial Judge Harris.

The defendant has introduced evidence which the defendant claims tends to show that the deceased made threats against defendant at various times; that the reputation of the deceased as to being peaceable and law abiding citizen was bad; that deceased had a violent temper; that deceased has a special animus against the defendant; that at the time of the shooting the deceased was advancing upon the defendant in a threatening manner and with his hand upon his revolver, and that defendant believed the deceased was about to assault him with the weapon.

You have a right and it is your duty to take any testimony tending so to show into consideration in determining the question whether or not the defendant believed and had reasonable grounds to believe that he was in imminent danger of being assaulted by the deceased with a dangerous weapon, and if you find that the defendant believed that he was in imminent danger of death or great bodily harm at the hands of deceased and the defendant had reasonable grounds for such belief, then, I instruct you that the defendant had a right to act upon that belief and the killing of the deceased would be excusable, and it would then be your duty to find the defendant not guilty.

In determining the question whether deceased or the defendant was the aggressor at the time of the encounter, you have a right to take into consideration the threats, if any, the deceased made against the defendant, both those which were communicated to the defendant, if any, and those which were not communicated, if any, and also as showing the motive of the deceased, if any, and the nature and character of the assault made by the deceased, if any was made.

In determining the question whether the deceased was the assailant, you have a right and it is your duty to consider any evidence introduced by the defendant tending to show that the deceased made threats against the defendant; that deceased had a special animus against defendant; that deceased had a violent temper, and any unfriendly acts of the deceased towards defendant.

It is conceded in this case that the defendant and the deceased were both upon the land under the control of the defendant, and that Harry Tabor was in a place where he had a right to be, and, being upon his own premises, if you find that deceased assailed him or was about to assail him with a deadly weapon and apparently seeking his life or to do him great bodily harm, he was not obliged to retreat or consider whether he could safely do so; but he had a right to stand his ground, and meet the attack in such a way and with such force as, under all the circumstances, he at a moment honestly believed and had reasonable grounds to believe was necessary to save his own life to protect himself from great bodily harm.

The defendant had a right to act upon appearances, if these were such under the circumstances and surroundings as to reasonably imbue his mind with the belief or apprehension that it was necessary to act as he did, in order to avert an impending felonious assault, if any, upon him, whether actual or apparent, and if you find that he did act upon appearances under the surrounding circumstances, which reasonably imbued his mind with the belief or apprehension that it was necessary to act as he did in order to avert an impending felonious assault upon him, whether the danger was actual or only apparent, it would be your duty to acquit the defendant.

The killing of a human being is justifiable when committed by any person to prevent death or any great bodily injury being committed upon him. Homicide can be excused or justified on the grounds of necessity alone. The necessity must be apparent, actual, imminent, absolute and unavoidable, or the defendant must, from all the circumstances, have honestly believed it to be so. To excuse homicide, the party must act upon an honest and well founded belief that it is necessary to take life to prevent great bodily harm. It must be danger so urgent that the killing is absolutely or apparently necessary; imminent and apparent danger means such overt actual demonstrations as would make the killing apparently necessary to the preservation from death or great bodily injury. The danger must be unavoidable according to the facts and circumstances as they honestly appeared at the time to the accused; but it is not necessary that the danger should in fact have existed at the time, if the defendant had reason to believe and did believe that it existed. Actual and real danger to the defendant's comprehension as a reasonable man, as it then appeared to him in good faith is sufficient. That is to say, a person may safely act in good faith on appearances. His guilt must depend upon the circumstances as they appeared to him at the time. But the apprehension must be on good ground, sufficiently to reasonably satisfy the mind from appearances that death or great bodily harm was about to be inflicted upon him. If under all the circumstances the defendant had reasonable grounds for apprehension, the killing would be jusifiable, even though the appearances were false, and there was no design on the part of the deceased to take life or do great bodily harm. But whether or not there was such reasonable appearance of danger, and whether or not the defendant honestly and in good faith acted upon it, and under the circumstances had reason to believe that he was in imminent danger of death or great bodily harm, is a question for the jury to determine from all the facts and evidence in the case.

I have instructed you that you have a right and should consider any evidence tending to show that deceased was turbulent and violent, along with the other evidence in the case, in determining whether the defendant acted under a reasonable apprehension of imminent peril; but it is no excuse for homicide that the person killed was a bad man because in the eyes of the law it is as great an offense to kill a quarrelsome and brutal man as it is to kill a mild and inoffensive man. And unless the circumstances show that the defendant acted in self defense, or was in imminent danger, or believed himself to be in danger of death or great bodily harm, the bad character of the deceased will not avail the defendant.

The defendant in this case has offered evidence tending to show his evidence as a peaceable and law-abiding citizen. The defendant has a right to show his previous good character as a circumstance tending to show the impossibility of his guilt. This evidence you will weigh and consider in connection with all the other evidence in the case in determining the guilt or innocence of the accused, and, when so considered, if there exists in your minds a reasonable doubt as to his guilt, it will be your duty to acquit him.

If, however, you believe from the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant committed the crime in question as charged in the indictment, then it would be your duty to find the defendant guilty, even though the evidence satisfied your minds that defendant, previous to the commission of the alleged crime, had sustained a good reputation as a peaceable and law-abiding citizen.

The defendant has the right to come upon the witness stand and testify in his own behalf; and when he does so testify, you are to weigh his testimony under the same rules as you do that of other witnesses, and you have the right to take into consideration the interest he has in the termination of the case. When weighing the testimony of any witness you have a right to take into consideration the interest, if any, that such witness has in the termination of the case.

BRIBER SUICIDED BY CUTTING HIS THROAT

Queenstown, Nov. 19.—John Krause, said to be connected with the Pacific States Telephone Company, of San Francisco, committed suicide today in his cabin on the steamer Adriatic while the vessel was coming from Cherbourg to this port. Krause cut his throat. He was traveling alone.

San Francisco, Nov. 19.—John Krause was formerly employed as special agent of the Pacific States & Sunset Telephone Company since merged into the Pacific States Telephone & Telegraph Company. Louis Glass and Theodore V. Halsey, of the same corporation, were indicted for attempts to bribe supervisors to vote against granting a franchise to the Home Telephone Co., a rival corporation. Krause appeared as a witness against Glass, who was convicted and is now out on bonds pending an appeal. Halsey has not yet been tried. Krause was also a witness against Glass and Halsey before the grand jury which returned the indictments, but was himself not indicted.

DR. ROBERTSON HAS CHANCE TO RECOVER

Salem, Nov. 21.—Although pierced through the right lung with a bullet from a footpad who waylaid him last night, Dr. C. H. Robertson is resting easy today with good chances for recovery. A man giving the name of Homer Black, claiming to be from Bakersfield, Calif., is under arrest on suspicion.

Attorney F. M. DeNeffe is in Portland for a few days.

FAIR OPENED AT COTTAGE GROVE THURSDAY

Guard Special Service.

Cottage Grove, Nov. 19.—The first annual harvest fair to be held by the Cottage Grove District Fair Association opened this morning under very favorable auspices. Heavy rains during the past two days have ceased. The program of the day opened at 10 a. m. with music by the band in the bandstand, on the corner of Main and Fourth streets, after which the band formed at the head of a parade and marched to the fair grounds at the end of Fifth street, about a quarter of a mile from the business section of the city.

At the grounds have been erected a pavilion, poultry building and stock sheds.

President Thomas Pierce, of the association, opened the exercises at the grounds with an address at 10 a. m. He explained the object of the association and told of the trouble experienced in getting buildings, etc., arranged in time to hold thte exhibition at this time.

The program arranged for the fair is very extensive and consists of both daily and evening attractions.

Tomorrow is designed to be the big day of the fair. It is designated as W. O. W. day, and then the city will be turned over to the Woodmen of the World of Lane county, and especial pains taken to make the day attractive and instructive to the members of the order as well as to all who attend the fair. There will be a big log rolling and drills by different teams in the order. In the evening will be children's night and the pupils of the Cottage Grove schools will take part in exercises to be held in the pavilion at the fair grounds.

The display of apples, pears, quinces and other fruits is very creditable. The exhibit of canned fruits shows fine quality and a great variety. The dairy section display is small, but shows excellent quality. The showing of livestock is not as large as was anticipated, but some of the finest stock in this county is on exhibition and includes several breeds of cattle, sheep, goats and swine, and also some horses.

The biggest thing on the grounds is the exhibit of poultry. This section shows fowls of nearly every known variety, and includes chickens, ducks, geese and turkeys, as well as several kinds of pet poultry.

The people of Cottage Grove are expecting a large crowd the next two days and those having the affair in charge will do everything possible to fittingly entertain all who come to the fair.

The attendance today was not up to expectations, owing to the sloppy condition of the roads. People in Eugene will miss one of the features of the fall if they do not attend the Cottage Grove fair. It is instructive in more ways than one and Eugenians owe it to their neighboring city to show an appreciation of the efforts put forth to hold an exhibition of the character of the one now being held here.

It is the intention of the management of this association to make the fair a permanent institution and hold a fair each year hereafter.

Officers and Committees.

The officers and committees in charge of the fair are as follows:

Officers—Thos. Pearce, president; H. F. Wayne, vice-president; C. C. Hazelton, sec.; Ben Lurch, treasurer.

Directors—Andrew Brund, F. D. Wheeler, C. H. Burkholder, Ben Lurch, Henry Veatch.

Committee on Exhibits—J. I. Jones, B. F. Phillips, F. H. Rosenberg.

Committee on Prizes—Thomas Pearce, Ben Lurch, F. D. Wheeler, C. H. Burkholder, Henry Veatch, C. C. Hazleton.

Fancy Work and Culinary Arts—Mrs. F. D. Wheeler, Mrs. Dr. Job, Mrs. H. O. Thompson, Mrs. Henry Veatch.

HOME FROM FOUR MONTHS' TRIP EAST

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Littlefied arrived home on this morning's train from their trip East, returning by way of California. They left Eugene four months ago, and first went to Everett, Wash., where they visited for five weeks. They then took in Spokane and went from there to Princeton, Idaho, where they visited Mr. Littlefield's brother, then going on to Minnesota, visiting in several cities in that state with friends and relatives. Chicago was their next objective point and after seeing everything of interest in the windy city they turned westward toward home, coming by way of Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and other California cities. They report good weather in the Middle West, with no rain to speak of, and in California everybody was praying for rain, the country being literally burned up. As to business conditions in the East, Mr. Littlefied stated that everything seemed to be picking up, factories were resuming operations and everybody had hopes that normal conditions would soon prevail again. He states that in all his travels he failed to find a town in Eugene's class that was making the improvements and growth that this city is enjoying.

SCHMITZ BONDSMAN WAS NOT IN COURT

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—William J. Dingee, one of the sureties for former Mayor Schmitz, was not in court this morning for the inquiry into his present qualifications to act as bondsman. The subpoena has not been served upon him and the matter went over until Wednesday.

JUNCTION CITY NEWS NOTES OF INTEREST

J. R. Hill returned home Saturday from Idaho and Washington, where he had gone in quest of land. He purchased two farms within two and one half miles of Palouse, Washington, although on the Idaho side. One tract contained 240 acres and the other 160 at $59 per acre. The latter place he has leased at a rental of $500 per annum, the renter to pay the taxes. The other will be managed by Byron Spencer, who expects to move to that place next spring. Mr. Hill, however, will continue to reside here.

Married—In Eugene, November 14, 1908, Miss Hattie Cook and Henry L. Boyle, Rev. D. L. Morgan officiating. This wedding was quite a surprise although the event was suspicioned by intimate friends. While the groom is practically a stranger here, the bride was born and raised in this vicinity and has many friends. She has been a clerk in the postoffice for some time past and proved a very accommodating and efficient, official. May their pathway through life be bright and rosy.

L. C. Wilhelm, better known as "Doll," is confined to his room in the hotel with a broken leg. Friday at about the noon hour he and "Sandy" Peterson were engaged in a friendly scuffle in Eccleston's place, when in some manner Wilhelm's leg was broken near the ankle. He did not know at the time that his injury was serious until he attempted to stand on his feet. Dr. Lehrbach adjusted the bone, and as Mr. Wilhelm is healthy and robust, he will be able to be out in due course of time.

Oscar Mais has sold his residence property on the east side to James Starr and possession was given at once. The consideration was $775. This is a nice place and Mr. Starr will find it a pleasant home.

G. E. Simmons, who has been conducting a store in the Workman building for some time past, has packed up his goods and moved to Springfield. He would not have left this place had he been able to secure a desirable location.

The reservoirs of the city water plant were cleaned out Tuesday. No dead babies or anything of that nature were found—nothing but sand.

Mrs. A. R. Martin will officiate as deputy postmaster since the retirement of Miss Hettie Cook, provided she can get along with the postmaster.—Times.
