S.S.S. NATURE'S CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

The conditions and causes which produce Rheumatism all suggest a healthful vegetable remedy as the surest and safest cure. The disease is brought about by the accumulation of uric acid, an irritating, pain-producing property in the blood. This causes a weakening and souring of the circulation which then becomes unfit for nourishing the body, while the deposits of uric acid in the nerves, muscles, joints and bones produce the pain and agony of Rheumatism. To treat the trouble with medicines containing potash or other strong minerals, is simply adding another poison to the already weak, diseased blood, sapping it of its remaining vitality, and perhaps in the end making a physical wreck of the sufferer. The one safe and only cure for Rheumatism is S. S. S. It is nature's remedy for this disease, made entirely from healthful vegetable ingredients extracted from the roots, herbs and barks of the forest and fields. S. S. S. goes down into the blood and removes every trace of the cause of Rheumatism, cleanses and purifies the circulation, and restores health and comfort to those who are suffering from this painful disease. There is but one way to be sure you are not dosing your system with mineral medicines, and that is to take S. S. S. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free.

FAMOUS OIL CASE GOES TO SUPREME COURT OF NATION

Washington, Nov. 30.—Another step in the government suit against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana goes on record today, when the counsel for the government applies to the supreme court for a writ of certiorari, thus bringing the famous rebate case before the highest tribunal. This is the case in which the court of appeals reversed Judge Landis' fine of $29,240,000 against the corporation.

The government in its petition for a writ of certiorari advances as its principal prayer the importance of the interpretation by the supreme court of the United States of certain clauses in the railroad rebate law. It is pointed out that several rections of the Elkins law are not sufficiently explicit in view of the conflicting court decisions and that the court of last resort should for the benefit of all concerned take jurisdiction of the case and give a construction which will be final and binding upon all inferior courts.

The officials of the department of justice who are most closely identified with the Standard Oil suit have found upon an examination that the supreme court refuses to grant writs of certiorari in cases decided by the United States circuit courts of appeal unless the questions at issue involve the interpretation of the constitutionality of the law. The government contends that under the rate filing one circuit court of appeals may place one construction upon it, and another court in another circuit a conflicting construction, and that it is possible that nine different constructions may come from the nine circuits. The complications that could arise have been used for their full effect in the petition of the government and the officials of the department of justice are confident that the court will grant the request for a construction of the law.

FULL DETAILS OF FISHER MURDER

Shot in the Back by Disreputable Portland Lawyer

Portland, Nov. 28.—A tragic feature of the slaying of Ralph B. Fisher, chairman of the grievance committee of the Oregon State Bar Association here today by J. A. Finch, the disbarred lawyer, second only to the killing itself, was the unexpected visit to Fisher's office of Mrs. Fisher.

When Finch entered Fisher's office and with the words, "Hello, Ralph," on his lips fired the fatal shots, Fisher was waiting for his wife and baby son. Fisher's body had been taken away from his office but there were other ghastly evidences apparent which conveyed to Mrs. Fisher that her husband had been slain.

Fisher has practiced law in this city four years, coming here from Woodburn. His wife was a sister of Thomas B. Kay, woolen manufacturer of Salem. Fisher was 28 years old. He was the man who drafted the resolutions of sympathy to Mrs. Francis J. Heney sent by the bar association. Finch was born in this state and studied law in Albany, while working for a newspaper.

Fisher conducted disbarment proceedings against Finch which resulted in his suspension for a year and it was Fisher's refusal to sign a petition urging Finsher's reinstatement that caused today's attack to be made.

Finch was either out of his mind when he shot Fisher, or he is playing a deep game, using his knowledge of the law to help him in his present dilemma. While he asserted in the most emphatic language that he did not see Fisher at all today and consequently did not kill him, he talks perfectly frank on all other subjects. He does not plead forgetfulness, on the other hand when the officers who examined him tonight declared to Finch that he had been seen in Fisher's office and had been arrested in the Mohawk building and other matters connected with the tragedy, he becomes very excited and told them they were "damned liars." He insisted that he is not insane. He says that the news that he was disbarred was a great shock to him. He denied that he had been drinking excessively since that event.

The tragedy occurred in Fisher's private office 322 Mohawk building, Third and Morrison streets. Miss Verna Burkhardt, Fisher's stenographer, was the only witness, and she fled screaming from the room. The assassin emerged deliberately from the room where lay his victim and was about to take the elevator when he was seized by Dr. Leonard, who detained him.

Attorney Chester V. Dolph, who was with Dr. Leonard and others, followed Finch to the elevator shaft, disarmed him with little difficulty, though he offered resistance. He insisted on being permitted to descend, but instead was locked in an office on the third floor and held until the arrival of the police. Finch was at once taken into the office from which the sulphurous smoke was still pouring and looked down upon the prostrate form he had slain. He gazed coolly and apparently unmoved upon the bleeding figure, uttered not a word, turned and walked out in custody of the officers.

"I wouldn't speak to him, and I'll get the rest of the bunch," he said to one of the officers who rode in the patrol wagon with him.

At the city jail he positively denied the murder to District Attorney Cameron. He had been in his own office nearly all day, he said, and had not been near Fisher's office. He talked confusedly and at times unintelligently, apparently under the influence of either drugs or liquor. Fisher, at the time of his death was seated at the desk in his private office, awaiting the arrival of his wife and baby. Only a few moments before the entrance of the assassin the wife had called him by telephone telling him she would be down presently and would bring the baby. Miss Burkhardt, who witnessed the tragedy fell into a swoon after hysterically fleeing down the corridors of the building. Mrs. Fisher, who, with the baby, arrived at the office as the coroner was removing the last vestiges of the crime, was overcome by the ghastly spectacle.

"It was horrible to see, and still more horrible to think that I might have stopped him if I had seized the weapon," said Miss Burkhardt tonight. Just as he entered th erear door when I stood holding it open he drew a shining revolver from his pocket. He began shooting so quickly I could not scream a warning and I was not sure Fisher ever knew who it was who shot him, for just as he glanced up the man fired.

"But the face of the slayer will haunt me forever. It was drawn and horribly distorted. And there was a look of demoniacal triumph as he saw Fisher fall from his chair. But I could not stand it and ran screeming for help."

Fisher Wants Leniency.

Ralph Fisher, as prosecutor for the grievance committee, took the matter in hand at the instance of the committee and immediately interested himself in the case to promote if possible the welfare of Finch, whom he believed was repentant for the moves he had made and whom he believed would do better in the future if allowed leniency from the court. He sent a letter to Chief Justice Bean in which he asked for the consideration of the court in Finch's case and made an eloquent plea in behalf of the man who he was prosecuting for the committee.

Married Salem Girl.

Ralph Burtress Fisher, shot by James Finch in Portland yesterday, was well-known in Salem, having married Miss Bertha Lolita Kay, sister of Thomas B. Kay, and one of the prominent young women of the city, says the Salem Statesman. Fisher was born in Polk county, Oregon, 28 years ago, and came of Oregon pioneers. When he was quite young they moved to Monmouth, where he went to school with his brothers, Frank and George. His father conducted a livery stable there and was quite prosperous.

Ralph Fisher graduated from the normal school at Monmouth in 1899 and took up the profession of teaching, acting as principal of the Woodburn schools for some time when he went away, studied law in Troy, Ida., and was there admitted to the bar. He had been in the law business there for four years with offices in the Mohawk building.

Salem attorneys and his friends here held Fisher in the highest esteem and nothing but praise is heard for his character and his ability.

OREGON HIGH SCHOOL DEBATING LEAGUE BULLETIN

The Guard is just in receipt of the November number of the University of Oregon Bulletin, containing the list of officers, constitution and by-laws, propositions for debate, bibliographies, debate libraries and announcements of the year 1908-9 of the Oregon High School Debating League. The league consists of 34 schools, divided geographically into five districts. The Eastern Oregon district comprises the high schools of Baker City, Crook county, Elgin, La Grande, Ontario, Pendleton, Sherman county, and Union; Columbia river comprises Astoria, The Dalles, Gresham, Hood River, Newberg, Tillamook, Woodburn and Yamhill; Central Oregon district, Albany, Brownsville, Cottage Grove, Eugene, Jefferson, Junction City, Lebanon, Salem and Silverton; Southern Oregon district, Central Point, Grants Pass, Klamath county and Roseburg; Coos Bay district, Bandon, Coquille, Marshfield, Myrtle Point and North Bend.

Saturday evening about 5 o'clock Lawrence Melvin Bond, son of a merchant of Coburg, aged 14 years, was shot and instanly killed by Lee Smith, a youth of about the same age, as they were out goose hunting. The killing was accidental, and Coroner Gordon, who went to Coburg to investigate the matter, deemed it unnecessary to hold an inquest.

Young Bond and Smith were in company with George Smith, father of Lee, George Drury and Professor Maxwell. They were all along the McKenzie river bottom, a mile west of the railroad bridge. The boys were ahead of the others and suddenly noticed a flock of geese. They crawled up to within shooting distance of the geese and both fired. Bond fired a second shot and suddenly arose, just in time to receive the full charge of shot from young Smith's gun as he, too, fired a second shot. The shot entered the back of the head and death resulted two hours afterward..

Young Bond was a bright lad and was liked by all who knew him. He was a pupil in the eighth grade of the school at Coburg. Young Smith naturally feels very badly over the accident.

The funeral was held today and the body interred in the Coburg I. O. O. F. cemetery.

HITCHCOCK MAY GIVE FULTON AID

Hot Springs, Va., Nov. 28.—A dispatch to the Washington Post says in part:

"Senator Fulton is here to offset any influence which his colleague, Senator Bourne, may have exerted during the past week upon Mr. Taft. Mr. Bourne is in favor of the election of Governor Chamberlain. Mr. Fulton, on the other hand, does not believe a Democrat should be chosen, since the Republicans have a large majority in the legislature. Mr. Bourne has been hoping to persuade Mr. Taft to express himself in favor of Mr. Chamberlain's election. His colleague hopes that the president-elect will not only not be influenced in such a way, but may take the exactly opposite position.

Logic of Situation

"The logic of the situation is that, if Mr. Taft expressed any opinion at all, it should be in favor of Mr. Fulton. The latter senator was advocating the nomination of Mr. Taft when Mr. Bourne was insisting that President Roocsevelt should be nominated for a second elective term. Mr. Fulton worked hard in co-operation with the state organization during the campaign, and the state gave the Republican nominee a tremendous majority.

"Mr. Fulton had a long conference with National Chairman Hitchcock this afternoon and subsequently the two men saw the president-elect. It may be safe to assume that Mr. Taft will not inject his personality into the Oregon situation, in pursuance of the policy he already has announced of not taking part in purely state controversies. But undoubtedly the sympathy of Mr. Hitchcock is with the senior senator and this may signify a great deal in the event he decides to exert himself in Mr. Fulton's behalf.

Many Eugene fans will remember Terry McKune and Teeley Raymond, who played in the old state league several years ago. The Oregonian sporting editor has this to say about them: The Portland fans will remember Teeley Raymond, formerly shortstop of the Los Angeles team, and later a member of the Portland Club during the short shrift of D. E. Dugdale in this city. Teeley was a star in the I. I. I. League last season, and rumor has it that Miquel Lynch and "Cupid" Dugdale are about to grab him for the Seattle Club next season. It must be that the muchly touted Terry McKune failed to deliver the goods and is to be sent back to "Dug's" farming ground, St. Paul.

NOTED ROBBER IS SOON TO BE TRIED

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 30.—The officials of the Hennepin county jail are keeping close watch on Frank Shercliffe, the noted desperado, who is about to be tried on the charge of having been implicated in the robbing of a Northern Pacific train at of this year. Shercliffe, who is a many of many aliases and has a long record of crimes in all parts of the country, was located and arrested at Knoxville, Tenn., a short time ago. The authorities of Colorado and of Minnesota made requisition for the prisoner's extradition and the request of the Governor of Minnesota was honored.

The charge upon which Shercliffe is about to be tried is based upon the confession of Owen Ball, now serving a sentence at Stillwater, who stated that Shercliffe had been his partner in committing the robbery on the Northern Pacific train in April. It is charged that Shercliffe and Ball boarded the train at Minneapolis and, after the train had covered a few miles, entered the Pullman sleeper and held up the occupants. Ball was arrested in Marshalltown, Iowa, charged with the hold-up. He confessed and implicated Shercliffe.

In Colorado Shercliffe is wanted on the charge of having murdered and robbed John Walsh, a saloonkeeper in Leadville. He was arrested in Lansing, Mich., when he tried to dispose of some stolen gems in May of this year. He was taken to Colorado, tried and convicted of murder and sentenced to twenty-five years in the penitentiary. On the way to the penitnetiary at Canyon City Shercliffe escaped from the sheriff and was not heard from until he was arrested at Knoxville, Tenn. The Colorado authorities are awaiting the outcome of the impending trial with great deal of interest, as it is understood that Shercliffe will be immediately extradited to the Colorado authorities, in case he should be acquitted of the charge in connection with the Northern Pacific train robbery.

Shercliffe, alias Cunnings, alias Reynolds, etc., began his criminal career at the age of seventeen, by robbing a safe in Aurora, Ill. He shot at the officers, pursuing him, but was captured. He was convicted at Geneva, Ill., August 17, 1886, and sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the Joliet penitentiary under the name of John Cummings. He was discharged August 4, 1888.

According to the statement of the police authorities Shercliffe was arrested at Gallatin, Mo., under the name of Charles Reynolds, charged with robbery, but he escaped from the sheriff by holding him up with a revolver.

The next sentence was one year in the Utah penitentiary, December 3, 1890, for a burglary committed at Ogden. He later escaped, but was recaptured and served his term, being discharged March 11, 1892.

Shercliffe will also be remembered in connection with the diamond robbery on a Sioux City & Pacific train, on November 4, 1892. He boarded the train at Omaha, and as it neared California Junction, Ia., entered one of the coaches and attacked William G. Pollock, who resisted and was shot down by Shercliffe and robbed of unmounted diamonds valued at $20,000. After the robbery Shercliffe signalled the train to stop and made his escape.

It is believed that Shercliffe was concerned in the Wachorsch diamond robbery in San Francisco, on January 1, 1893, when $5,000 worth of unmounted stones and jewelry were forcibly taken from a show window. Shercliffe was arrested at Gilman, Col., on July 23, 1893, and burglars' tools were found in his possession. He was later taken to Logan, Ia., tried and convicted of the Pollock robbery and on September 22, 1893, was sentenced to serve seventeen years in the Fort Madison penitentiary. He was paroled from that institution on November 29, 1900, but was arrested in December of the following year on the charge of having violated his parole. He tried to escape, but was shot in the heel and was taken back to Fort Madison, to serve the rest of his term. He was discharged the latter part of September, 1904.

After the Northern Pacific train robbery in April Shercliffe was traced through several states of the Middle West, but he managed to elude the police authorities, until he was located in Knoxville, Tenn. When the officers tried to arrest him, Shercliffe drew a revolver and shot at them. He was finally overpowered and great care was taken to prevent his escape. At first he fought his extradition, but submitted when he found that he was to be extradited to Minnesota and not to Colorado.

PIONEER WOMAN PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

(From Monday's Daily Guard.)

Mrs. A. C. McGee, an early pioneer of Oregon, died suddenly at her home near Donna station, on the Mohawk, some time last night. She had been suffering from paralysis for the past two years and a half and was bedfast all the time, but the day before she died she was in as good health as usual. She was found dead in bed this morning when the family arose.

Mrs. McGee was born in Missouri about 72 years ago and came to Oregon across the plains in the early fifties. She first settled in Marion county, then came to Lane county, settling near Springfield. She has lived in the Mohawk for the past 35 years. She leaves three children, J. R. McGee, at home, Mrs. L. W. Waller of Philomath and Mrs. Luella Yarnell of Salem.

The funeral will be held at the family home on the Mohawk Wednesday at ten a. m., and the remains will be interred in the Gager cemetery near Natron.

TESTIMONY OF ARCHBOLD CONTINUES

Executive Head of Standard Trust Still On the Stand

New York, Dec. 1.—The thread of the narrative of the building up of the Standard Oil Company carried Archbold's testimony through the liquidation stage and brought it up to the holding period of the New Jersey company. It is expected the direct examination of Archbold will be concluded today and will be followed by several days of cross-examination by the government.

It is expected that William Rockefeller will be the next witness.

RIGHT-OF-WAY AGENT FOR OREGON EASTERN IN EUGENE AGAIN

Major Edwards, right-of-way agent for the Oregon Eastern railway, the Harriman line which is projected from Eugene over the Cascades and through Klamath Falls to Weed, Cal., is in the city again, having arrived Saturday from San Francisco. When seen by a reporter this morning the major stated that the object of his visit here at this time is to finish up a few small unsettled matters concerning the right of way for the line. He expects to be here about a week. While he is not in a position to state positively, Major Edwards thinks that construction work on the new railway will begin early next year.

ANOTHER HOTEL PROJECT IS LAUNCHED

Talk of a new hotel in Eugene has been rife for some time past and several projects have been talked of, but the one that seems to have the best prospects for materialization is that of a 100-room building at the corner of West Eighth and Olive streets. F. E. Dunn has taken an option on the corner lot owned by William McFarland and it is intended to erect a four-story building there and use the two upper stories of the Dunn-Wilkins three-story block, now in course of construction and which adjoins the McFarland lot, in connection, making a splendid building for a hotel. If the project goes through, it is intended to put up a hotel that is modern in every particular. The plans for the Dunn-Wilkins block show that every room is well lighted and it will be splendidly arranged for a hotel. There will be sixty rooms in that portion of the building and forty in the new structure on the corner.

Mr. Dunn hopes to be able to announce within a very short time a successful consummation of his plans. In that case it is probable that the work of putting up the building on the corner will commence as soon as possible thereafter.

CUTICURA CURED MOTHER AND BABY

Southern Woman Suffered With Itching, Burning Rash—Drove Her Nearly Crazy—Her Baby Had Sore on Neck, and Two Other Babies Had Skin Troubles—Calls

CUTICURA A STAND-BY THAT NEVER FAILS HER

"I just can't say enough for the Cuticura Remedies, I can't find words high enough to express my thanks to God for hearing of the wonderful remedies. My baby had a running sore on his neck and nothing that I did for it took effect until I used Cuticura. My face was nearly full of tetter or some similar skin disease. It would itch and, after scratching, it burned so that I could hardly stand it. Two cakes of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment cured me. Two years after it broke out on my hands and wrist. I cured it for a while, but it came again in the summer. Sometimes I would go nearly crazy for it itched so badly. I used ten dollars' worth of so-called blood medicines which did no good at all, then I went back to my old stand-by, that had never failed me. One set of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent did the work. One set also cured my uncle's baby whose head was a cake of sores, and I know of another woman's baby who was in the same fix and nothing else did any good. I speak a word of praise for Cuticura whenever I see a case that needs it. Mrs. Lillie Wilcher, 770 Eleventh St., Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 16, 1907."
