PANAMA STEAMER SUNK IN COLLISION OFF SANDY HOOK

New York, Nov. 26.—The steamer Finance, of the Panama Railroad & Steamship company, was sunk in collision with the White Star liner Gorgie in the main ship channel off the end of Sandy Hook this morning in a dense fog. The Gorgie was slightly damaged.

The Gorgie had anchored near the spot and put off boats to save those on the Finance, and the life-saving crew at Sandy Hook went to the scene, as well as the tug used by the harbor commissioners.

The collision occurred while most of the passengers were at breakfast and many women and children were still asleep. A panic occurred in which many jumped overboard and were picked up by the boats of the Finance and the Gorgie, the crews working nobly with the cooler passengers in the rescue work. All those saved were brought to this city on the Gorgie.

The Finance had 85 passengers aboard, but it is believed that only three were drowned: Miss Irene Campbell, of Colan; Henry Muller, conductor on the Panama railroad, and Policeman Rhiland, of the Canal Zone police.

The following officers, who remained on duty, were carried down in the wreckage: Chief Engineer John W. Puskott; Third Assistant Engineer William H. Todd; Oiler Charles E. Rice.

PORTLAND EAST SIDERS WIN FROM EUGENE HIGH

(From Thursday's Daily Guard.)

The First Half.

Portland kicked off to Eugene. By a forward pass Eugene worked the ball to the ten yard line, where it was lost on a fumble. Portland was forced to punt and recovered the ball on the 40-yard line. Eugene punts, but the punt was blocked on the 15-yard line and after a few line plunges Portland worked the ball over the goal line for a touchdown. Goal was kicked. Score—Portland, 6; Eugene, 0. Portland kicked off to the 45-yard line. Eugene loses ball on yardage; Portland forced to punt but recovers the ball. Eugene punts. Portland forced to punt but recovers the ball. New York, Nov. 29.—Probably the most extensive automobile trip ever undertaken is that planned by Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hoover, who sailed on the steamship Republic today for Algiers. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will spend this winter in touring Algeria and Egypt, with as far reaching excursions into the Sahara Desert as may prove practicable. Early in the spring their car will be ferried over to Italy and for three successive years tours will be made across every country in Europe at least one way. They

SCHOOL BOARD CONVENTION DISCUSSES REFORM IN SCHOOLS

(From Saturday's Daily Guard.)

The second annual school board convention for Lane County was held in the court house this morning. Delegates were present from many of the districts over the county, and listened to addresses on the subject of education.

Besides other matters concerning the district work, recommendations in the changes of the school law of the state were made by the convention. The reforms desired will be placed before the representatives of Lane county to the Legislature.

The main feature of the Oregon school district that has been criticized is the unequal burden of the districts. Education is not only a local concern, but of general importance.

The advanced stand taken by the leading educators of the country, including State Superintendent Ackerman and Dr. H. D. Sheldon, of the state taxation should help equalize the district burdens, especially of those districts which are in poorly settled sections of the country, where the wealth is not great.

Superintendent Ackerman of Salem, Prof. L. H. Trauer, of Madras, and Dr. H. D. Sheldon, of the University, delivered the practical addresses.

SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY WAS FIREBUG

Baker City, Nov. 27.—Through the confession of a sixteen-year-old boy named Golden Ormond, the identity of the incendiary who has been almost a state of terror in Baker City the past five months has been solved. The incendiary is none other than Golden Ormond himself, according to the confession he is alleged to have made to Pinkerton detectives working on the case.

During the period named incendiary fires occurred, three school buildings, one residence, and Standard Oil tanks of the city burned, and one laundry badly damaged, and not destroyed.

The losses aggregate $100,000. Detectives employed by the Pinkerton learned of young Ormond's confession with the teacher and community dates of fires with his diary entries from school furnished what proved a clue which led to the boy's confession.
