

WATERWAYS CONGRESS MEETS IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Dec. 9.—One of the most notable gatherings ever assembled in the history of the country in the interest of the development of waterways was called to order today, when the National Rivers and Harbor Congress met in fourth annual convention. Senators, representatives, diplomats, captains of finance, governors of many states, and others in high official life were present. Representative Joseph A. Ransdell, of Louisiana, and president of the congress, delivered an address on the need of immediate legislation looking to the improvement of the waterways of the country, and advocated the committal of congress to a broad, liberal policy of waterway improvements and an annual river and harbor bill carrying not less than fifty million dollars. Other notable speakers followed.

CONSERVATION COMMISSION

Washington, Dec. 9.—The National Conservation Commission today began a conference with the governors of the different states, with the probable result that some concrete plan will be mapped out for the conservation of the nation's natural resources. More than thirty states were represented by their chief executives.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—With upwards of 2,000 delegates in attendance, coming from nearly every state and territory of the Union, the the government to make provision annually for river and harbor work and carry it forward on a systematic scale, instead of leaving the river and harbor bill as a "pork barrel" measure with which to dump a few million into congressional districts where it will do the most good on the eve of an election.

President Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana called the meeting to order. The business sessions of the convention will continue three days, papers and addresses will be presented covering practically every phase of the subject by men familiar with the problem of inland waterways. An elaborate programme of entertainment has been arranged for the visitors.

The congress will discuss waterway projects and harbor improvements in all parts of the country. Particular attention will be given, however, to the plans for deepening and improving the Ohio and Mississippi rivers for commercial navigation. Another leading subject of discussion will be the development of the proposed inside passage along the Atlantic coast, so that warships, scattered at different Atlantic stations, could run under shelter to rendezvous.

Foremost among the scheduled speakers at the congress are Andrew Carnegie, Ambassador Bryce of Great Britain, who will present a review of the waterways and canals of the United Kingdom and their relation to trade and commerce; Ambassador Nabuco of Brazil; Major J. A. Ockerson of the Mississippi river commission; Governor W. F. Frear of Hawaii, Secretary of the Interior Garfield, Horace McFarland, president of the National Civic Federation; Governor N. B. Broward of Florida, who is president of the National Drainage Association; Admiral

KANSAS CITY FANATIC WOULD LIVE TO KILL MORE POLICEMEN

Kansas City, Dec. 9.—"I am not going to die. I am going to get well and live to kill a few more policemen," was the assertion of Louis Pratt, the self styled "Adam God," a religious fanatic, who is lying here in a hospital, having been wounded in a battle between his followers and the police late yesterday afternoon. As a result of the fight Pratt's 13-year-old daughter, Lulu, and a policeman, Albert Dalow, are dead, and two other policemen are in a critical condition.

Pratt is full of resolution that he will live, though his chance for recovery is considered slight.

BAND'S CHIEF AT LARGE

James Sharp, known as "Elijah II," the real head of the little band of religious enthusiasts, is still at large. His wife, who is confined in the city jail, and Mrs. Pratt, with two daughters, spent the night in the matron's room at police headquarters.

Sharp organized the religious band in North Dakota two years ago, and has been traveling about the country since.

MRS. PRATT'S STORY

Mrs. Pratt and daughter Mary, aged 11, tell a story of complete trust in Sharp and his wife, whom they refer to as Adam and Eve. They express full belief in all their teachings. The death of Lulu Pratt seems to affect them but little. They say "She died for the Lord."

Mrs. Sharp states that they had no religion until six years ago, when her husband announced that they were not living right and that he had a revelation of the faith of God. They began reading the Bible and a week later Mrs. Sharp got the revelation "that the spirit of God came to us the same way it came to Adam, David and to Christ." They sold their farm, gave the money away to people who needed it and started out to preach travelling through Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Minnesota and Canada, living on the gifts from converts and others. Last summer they started from White Earth, Mont., and went down the Missouri in a house boat, preaching at the cities and towns. They went armed many months owing to "persecution." Yesterday's riot was the result of police interference at a street meeting of the fanatics.

Story of the Riot.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 8.—In the very shadow of the City Hall in this city and less than a half-mile from the business center, a riot in which religious fanatics and police were the participants, and in which 100 shots were fired, this afternoon resulted in the death of one policeman and a little girl, the fatal injury of three and slight injury of two others.

The Dead.

ALBERT O. DALBOW, a patrolman.
LOLA PRATT, aged 13.
Fatally injured:
John Sharp, known as "Adam God," a street preacher.
Michael Mullane, policeman.
Patrick Clark, a police sergeant.
Slightly injured:
Harry E. Stege, policeman.
George M. Holt, probation officer.

The trouble occurred at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when the streets were crowded with persons. While the battle was in progress the participants traversed an entire block, the final stages of the fight being enacted directly across the street from an entrance to the police station.

Resisted Officer.

Officer Holt accosted the woman who was attempting to secure contributions, and inquired as to the identity of the children. The woman replied sharply that the officer "had better attend to his own business."

"Adam God," whose long, flowing white beard and hair gave him the appearance of a patriarch, threatened the officer with physical violence. Officer Holt never goes armed and he found himself at a decided disadvantage when the preacher and his companions displayed revolvers. He stood his ground, however, and "Adam God" struck him a heavy blow behind the ear, making an ugly wound, with his big revolver. Holt started for the police station for assistance and as he moved away the preacher tried to shoot him, but Sharp was so excited he dropped his revolver when he attempted to draw it and when he picked it up and snapped it at the officer, the cartridge failed to explode.

Meet With Volleys.

Officer Holt rushed into the police station and warned the officers to prepare for trouble. The police sergeant ordered Patrolmen Dalbow and Stege to go out and arrest Sharp and his followers.

The religionists were within 50 yards of the police station when the officers stepped into the street. They served notice that they would "break right under the waves of the police station, and the police could not prevent them." The officers were not prepared for the volley of bullets that met them immediately. Dalbow was instantly killed, and a bullet passed through Stege's arm.

General Battle Follows.

Other officers rushed into the street, and a general battle ensued. But the officers were unable to shoot without endangering the lives of innocent persons. Lieutenant Clark was shot in the eye and Patrolman Mullane was shot in the back.

In the meantime a shot had been fired and policemen were appearing from all directions. The officers crowded in on Sharp and his followers, firing as they went, but taking great care not to injure any of the children, and when the firing ceased "Adam God" lay fatally wounded, shot through the head and body.

The children who, in the early part of the firing, tagged at the garments of the officers and tried to hamper their efforts, ran into the Poor Man's Mission, where they were later taken in charge by the officers.

NO MORE CHEAP TIMBER CLAIMS UNDER LATEST RULING

Should the chief of Field Division deem the appraisal too low or too high, he will require the appraiser, within 20 days, to resubmit the estimate with such modifications or explanations as he may deem proper, when the schedule will be either approved, or forwarded to the local land office with a statement of his objection. If the local land office approves the appraisal they will sign a certificate to that effect, but if they sustain the objection of the chief, they will return the papers, and another appraisal will be made by a different officer. This applies where the land has been approved by an employee of the General Land office. Whenever an appraisal by a forestry employe is disapproved, the papers must be sent to the Commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington for his action.

Final Proof Method Unchanged. Whenever a satisfactory price has been agreed upon, and the applicant has made full payment to the local officers, he must submit final proof in the manner now required by law, including publication of notice in a local paper for 60 days. If, after all requirements have been fulfilled, no protest or contest is pending, the applicant will complete his final entry and get patent. Of course protest may be filed at any time before patent issues.

According to the new regulations if an applicant swears falsely in his application or sworn statement, he will be liable for indictment and punishment for perjury, and if he is guilty of perjury or any minor false swearing or attempted fraud in connection with his efforts to perform any act or make any payment or proof as stipulated, his application will be disallowed, and all moneys paid to the Land office will be forfeited, as well as his rights under the timber and stone act.
