SOUTHERN OREGON COMMISSION CO.
W. H. McCORQUODALE, PROP. 95 FRONT ST., PORTLAND, OREGON

NEWS OF INTEREST OF COTTAGE GROVE

The Cottage Grove Glee Club is the name of a new musical organization which will shine prominently in musical circles here. The club is now organizing and new members added daily. At present there are the following: L. S. Bisby, Worth Harvey, Lorenzo Sanford, Ray Dean, Edwin Finnerty, Hugh Currin, Marvin Jordan and A. F. Seidman. They are under the leadership of Frank Wooley, who has had experience with glee organizations before. They have ordered some fine music and will practice in the L. O. O. D. building.

C. C. Woodward, late of Colorado, who purchased the McQueen and Ostrander corner lot on Main and Third streets last fall, will entertain bids for the building of a new modern two-story brick thereon at an early date. Contractors should get busy and put in their bids, as Mr Woodward desires to begin work as soon as settled spring weather comes.

Stewart & Porter have plans for a fine new warehouse immediately back of their brick building on Main street, and rock is now being hauled for the foundation. The warehouse will be only one story, but will have over 3000 square feet of floor space. The growing business of the occupants of their building requires new store rooms and they propose to keep up with the Times.—Western Oregon and Leader.

PORTLAND MARKET REPORT

Portland, April 1.—Egg storing is being carried on actively now, but operations are not yet on a commercial basis, and as it is probable the flush season may pass without the customary amount of stock being put away. The current consumption here and in the north is taking care of nearly all the receipts, and leaving but a comparatively small surplus for cooler use.

Receipts are heavier than at any time this season, but the demand is good and prices are on a firm basis. The general quotation yesterday was 21 cents, with 20 and 20½ cents quoted on large lots. There were good orders in from Seattle and other Puget Sound cities, and it is believed the north will continue to want Oregon eggs for a long time to come. The spring shipments to Alaska will start in the coming month, and it will take many cases, besides those now stored at Seattle, to fill these orders. After that will be the regular market buying, which, in the case of Seattle, will no doubt be considerably increased during the exposition months. The shipping demand, in connection with the steady requirements of the Portland market, can be counted on to absorb all the eggs produced in territory tributary to this city. For this reason it cannot be figured out how eggs will be any cheaper than they are now.

At the same time, there is no chance for prices to get very high, as the Eastern market will keep values in check at this end.

Potatoes Both Weak and Firm

Both weakness and firmness is noted in the potato situation at this time. In the south prices are practically no higher than here and this has discouraged buying at country shipping points, but on the other hand local jobbing trade in potatoes was scarcely ever better than today. For best stock the trade is holding out firmly for $1.75 here and this is the extreme top in the south. While buyers may be easier in their views regarding the outlook for potatoes, producers are inclined more than ever to believe they will eventually obtain a higher price. In some sections growers have made up their minds not to accept more than a fraction or two under 2c a pound, and it will take a complete revolution of conditions to cause them to change their ideas.

Portland Market is a Big Factor

Recent events in the potato market show clearly that the Portland market is a very big factor in the potato situation of the Pacific coast. While a few years ago the city was scarcely considered in the price-making in the southern markets, today the high declines there scarcely affect the local market. Portland is consuming many more carloads of potatoes than formerly.

The first new California potatoes of the present season made their appearance in the Front street markets today, being quoted at 6c a pound. Came from San Francisco by steamer.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture the average value received by farmers for potatoes December , 1907, was 61.7c per bushel, and on the first of each month of 1908 the value was as follows, beginning with January: 63.4c, 69c, 70.4c, 73.3c, 71.3c, 77.8c, 83.6c, 78c, 74.8c, 69.2c and 70.6c. The value January 1 of this year was 72c, February 1, 73.3c, and March 1, 80c.

Grain Market Strong

All the grain markets were strong yesterday. Barley was in particularly good demand and up to $32 was quoted on feed.

There was some inquiry from California for milling bluestem at $1.20, but holders held out strong for $1.22½@$1.25. Better prices prevail in the interior even than here, as is shown by a sale of bluestem at Spokane at the equivalent of $1.27 at tidewater. Holders of f. a. q. bluestem are asking $1.17½@$1.18.

Active Trade in Butter

City creamery butter moved actively at the new price of 32 cents. Some outside creamery was offered at 30 cents, and one or two brands were held at 32. California butter was quoted at 30@31c.

There were good receipts of poultry, but the demand was strong for all descriptions and prices were very firm.

McNeff Buys Olequa Hops

No business was reported yesterday in the Oregon hop market, but McNeff Bros., of this city, bought 150 bales from George Bertran, of Olequa, at private terms. This purchase entirely cleans out the Olequa section.

Polk County Mohair Pool

Dallas, Or., March 31.—At a meeting of the Polk County Mohair Association, held here, the date for the sale of the mohair pool was set for Tuesday, April 13.

The size of the pool this year cannot yet be estimated, as a number of the mohair men of the county have not yet reported their fleeces.

PORTLAND LIVESTOCK MARKET

Portland Union Stockyards, April 1.—While there was considerable weakness in cattle values today and killers were unwilling to offer within 25c of the previous top for steers and cows, the market is not showing any change in quotations because receivers did not move shipments at the offered values.

The local livestock situation presents a most interesting study at this present time. It is but a repetition of what has occurred at several periods of the present season. Killers who were very short of cattle during the scarcity period quickly overfilled themselves when supplies again became plentiful. The result was all that could be expected from buyers—they temporarily withdrew from the market at the high prices and not caring very much to land supplies, offered a lower range simply to discourage shipments until the surplus could be cleaned up.

This surplus is not a very heavy one, and from present appearances it will not take long to get rid of it. The former strength of the cattle market has simply suffered an eclipse owing to the surplus, but as soon as the clouds or big holdings are cleaneed up the situation will very likely show its former activity and strength.

Some of the liberal run of cattle yesterday was carried over until today and the lower price offering.

Hogs and Sheep Are Firm

While cattle prices are temparorarily weak with killers offering a lower range hogs and shee pare quoted firm with former prices generally maintained. Run of hogs for the day was 287 head, compared with 107 head yesterday and none since last Friday. The sales were generally reported at the former range.

The following is the general range of values on stock ruling in the yards for late shipments:

Hogs—Best east of mountains, $7.25; ordinary, $7.; blockers and feeders, $5.75.

Cattle—Best steers, weighing 1200 pounds, $5.25@$5.50; medium steers, $5.50@$5.75; poor steers, $4.75@$5.25; best cows, $4.50; medium cows, $4.25; bulls, $2.50@$3.50.

Sheep—Best grain fed wethers, $5.50@$5.75; best hay fed wethers, $5@$5.25; lambs, $9; straight ewes, $4.25@$4.75; mixed lots, $5; sheared sheep, 75c to $1 less.

HARRIMAN AND HILL ARE AGREED

San Francisco, March 28.—A most important conference between Harriman and Louis Hill took place yesterday at Burlingame, at the close of which it was announced that a complete agreement had been reached.

The railway magnates spent the entire afternoon together, and tonight both departed. Harriman went south, while Hill will return north.

Hill said after the meeting that there was no hostility between the two big systems, but that they were working in complete harmony.

He also said all misunderstandings concerning the Portand situation had been settled satisfactorily. All difficulties growing out of the construction of the North Bank road had been adjusted and an understanding had been reached as to the building of certain lines in connection with the Portland terminal. Hill said:

"All this talk of conflict between the Hill and Harriman systems is rubbish. For more than nine years the two systems have been working in harmony, though business rivals. During the conferences just concluded the get together spirit has prevailed, and there have been no serious differences. Neither side has anything to gain by destructive competition."

The impression prevails among men who have come in touch with both magnates that an alliance has been concluded which is only one step removed from a merger between the two systems.

STATE FAIR STAKES $22,000

Two Purses of $500 Each, and $1000 for Consolation Race

Twenty-two thousand dollars in purses have been hung up by the Oregon state fair commission for the race meet to be held during the fair September 13 to 18, inclusive. The schedule calling for the purses was adopted at the meeting of the commission at Salem Tuesday.

There are two big purses of $5,000 each. They are the Greater Oregon and Lewis and Clark purses, and it is expected that large fields will enter both races. The main race will be for $4000, with a consolation race for the other $1000 to all non-winning starters, providing there are no less than eight starters in each of these races

HARRISBURG NEWS.

(Special Correspondence.)

Harrisburg, March 31.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Steward and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Steward and family left this morning for their old home in Minnesota. They have lived north of Harrisburg for about six years and will be greatly missed by their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahon will leave for Astoria in the morning, where they are going to make their future home.

Mrs. C. A. Pryor and family arrived today from Eugene and will visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Pryor.

The property just opposite the livery stable, which belonged to Dan McClain and was listed with the Pryor-Canter Co., was sold Tuesday to R. A. Githens.

The postoffice is now established in the Holt building and the new quarters are a great improvement and Postmaster Morris is proportionately grateful.

The building vacated by the postoffice has been rented by Wright & Marguth and will be used to house their auto stock and other machines.

J. R. Cartwright returned from Newport on the 1:30 today.

A. J. Hill returned home today from a trip north.

FLURRY IN FRONT STREET

A Portland commission house, the Southern Oregon Commission Company, offers to give any shipper the name of any customer to whom his produce was sold, so that the customer can find out exactly what price was received. The company also gives access to its books so the shipper can ascertain for himself just what returns he is entitled to. This is a radical change from the traditional policy of secrecy heretofore followed by the Front street commission men, and the advertisement of this new offer has created quite a stir.

Editor Eugene Guard: Being anxious to see our shipping facilities improved and also anxious to see the right man elected to look after the money that is to be raised by taxes for the improvement of the mouth of the river, I hope that it may be fixed by petition, or some other way, so that the people will vote for it. As it stands now, I shall vote against it. dludl

FAMOUS CARDINAL IS SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS OLD

Rome, March 29.—Cardinal Giraloma Maria Gotti, prefect of the propoganda and undeniably one of the ablest as well as one of the most famous members of the Sacred College, was seventy-five years old today. Beyond receiving the casual congratulations of some of his ecclesiastical colleagues, the eminent cardinal, whom nine out of every ten well-informed Catholics believed would be the successor of Pope Leo XIII, allowed the seventy-fifth anniversary of his birth to pass unnoticed, for he still adheres to the austere life prescribed for the Carnelite order of monks to which he belongs.

The origin of this extraordinary man was an extremely humble one. His family belonged to the lowest social strata of Italy. The elder Gotti was a dock laborer, with little learning and no ambition. The son, however, disclosed a phenomenal devotion to religion, and at the age of 14 he entered the Barefoot Carnelite order, and soon proved so apt a scholar that he was soon transferred to the house of the order in Rome. Little by little he rose from one post to another, always making an advance with every new change, until he became superior of the mother house of the society and was finally chosen superior general.

While he was in this position of power the pope sent him to Brazil, where he showed administrative ability of the highest order. He spent three years in Brazil and succeeded in his mission to reorganize the church there. Upon his return to Rome he was created a cardinal. Since then his ability as a diplomat has been evidenced on more than one occasion. His knowledge of canon law is asserted by many to be superior to that of any other member of the Sacred College. He is a distinguished orator, and speaks French with perfection, and Latin with as much grace as did the late Pope Leo XIII.

In his private life Cardinal Gotti is very modest. He lives in a palace overlooking the forum of Trajan, but he is still the barefoot monk, at least in spirit. His sleeping apartment is furnished like that in which he slept during the years when he was an ascetic and student, and he uses no display save that which is positively imposed upon him by the rules regulating the life of a cardinal.

THE UNCHANGEFUL SEX

(The new fashion which is to follow the Directoire style demands a smaller and much lower waist above an ample skirt.)

And so the stern decree is uttered, Phyllis!
No more in dainty sheath-like gowns arrayed,
Slender and graceful as the daffodil is,
Shall I behold your classic form displayed,
For you who own Dame Fashion's sway must tremble
At thought of meriting her slightest frown,
Even though she may bid you resemble
A tulip upside down.

Your waist must show a notable compression,
And must be lowered in no small degree,
And though I do not ask for a confession
Of how the feat is done it puzzles me,
Youth, I am well aware, is most elastic,
But you, as fashfon changes her design,
Seem to be miraculously plastic.
I would the gift were mine.

My tailor is a man of understanding,
And I have often seen him much distressed
On finding that my figure was expanding,
For he loves to make me look my best.
But yet the fellow never pulls or pinches;
He cannot mould me to his will, 'tis clear,
Only, when calling out my extra inches
He drops a silent tear.

Words to Freeze the Soul

"Your son has consumption. His case is hopeless." These words were spoken to George E. Blevens, a leading merchant of Springfield, N. C., by two expert doctors, one a lung specialist. Then was shown the wonderful power of Dr. King's New Discovery. "After three week's use," writes Mr. Blevens, "he was as well as ever. I would not take all the money in the world for what it has done for my boy." Infallible for coughs and colds. It's the safest, surest cure of desperate lung diseases on earth. 50c and $1.
