The last event was given last evening. German whist was again the pastime. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. R. McMurphy, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Wetherbee, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hollenbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Livermore, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Yoran, Mr. and Mrs. J. Goldsmith, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Page, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Roberts, Mrs. S. L. Wilson, Mrs. Eleanor Ekere and Mr. Edward Caryl. Mrs. Kays was ably assisted in entertaining and serving by Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Bellman, Mrs. Goldsmith, Mrs. Page and her daughter, Miss Myrtle Kays. The decorations consisted of Oregon grape and butter cups were tastefully arranged throughout the various rooms.

Mrs. L. R. Edmunson entertained on Thursday afternoon for her little daughter, Margaret Jane Edmunson, who was one year old on that day. In a juvenile contest Master Stanford Bartle received the prize. Miss Harriet Patterson and Mrs. L. M. Travis assisted the hostess in serving refreshments. Toys appropriate to the occasion were given the children as favors. The following little ones, accompanied by their mothers, were present: Priscilla, Ruth Tidball, Beatrice Metcalf, Kathryn Metcalf, George Titus, Betty Korine Pratt, Raymond Carmichael, Claire Gilbert, Carol Roberts, Agnes Luckey, Helen Jepp, Gordon G. Goodpasture, Gould Bryan Travis, Frederick Travis, Winnifred Griffith, Alexander Seavey, Evelyn Muth, Olive Adams, Elmer Adams, Dorothy Bartle, Stanford Bartle, Roy Bryson, Donna Edmunson. The other guests were Miss Nellie Bauffield (Portland), Miss Emma Travis, and M. J. Edmunson.

Thursday night was Shrine Night at the Eugene Theatre. The event was the appearance of Lillian Russell in "Wildfire." A section of one hundred and fifty seats were reserved for the Shrine and their guests. The red box was quite a distinguishing feature in the audience. After the performance a most enjoyable luncheon was partaken of by the members of the party.

Mrs. Idaho Campbell received a few friends at her home on North Pearl street, Friday evening, in honor of the Misses Laura and Winnifred Miller. A pleasant evening was spent socially, after which refreshments were served. The guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas, Prof. and Mrs. S. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. James Gray, Prof. and Mrs. T. Cloran, Miss Laura Miller, Miss Winnifred Miller, Miss Morgan, Miss Perkins, Miss Burgess, Miss Sue Dorris, Dr. Smith, Miss Angeline Williams, Miss Ida Patterson, Miss Harriet Patterson, Miss Netta

FADS AND FASHIONS

(Guard Special Service.) New York, April 17.—Easter, with its usual fashion parade, is a thing of the past, and to many who had expected radical and revolutionary changes of line and style the display was in a large measure, disappointing. Changes there were many, but they were of subtle character and in many cases only noticeable to the close and experienced observer. A general review of the styles displayed during this year's Easter parade seems to confirm the correctness of the prediction that no radical changes would be made in

QUEEN WILHELMINA OF HOLLAND.

The wish for an heir to the throne has long been uppermost in the minds of the people of Holland, but several times when the royal guards stood by their guns ready to thunder the glad news from the palace the hopes of the people were dashed to earth. Queen Wilhelmina probably enjoys more sincere affection on the part of her subjects than any other ruler in Europe. She is now twenty-nine years of age. She was married to Duke Henry Frederick of Mecklenburg-Schwerin on Feb. 7, 1901.

were served. The guests were Mrs. Freeland, Mrs. Barbour, Mrs. J. D. Kress, Miss Zeigler, Miss Keeney, Miss Florence Thrall and the Misses Abels.

The Westminster Guild of the Central Presbyterian church met with the Misses Clubs this afternoon. After the study of a bible lesson and a social hour, refreshments were served.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church met on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. F. J. Hard, on 11th street. It was a cup and saucer social, each lady presenting the society with one. It was decided after much discussion, not to divide the aid at present. Mrs. Hard, assisted by Mrs. Collier, served refreshments. There were about sixty ladies in attendance.

Mrs. M. J. Duryea entertained the Aloha club on Friday afternoon. It was the first meeting of the club since Lent and was most enjoyable. At which Mrs. Nelson won first prize. Mrs. McMorran assisted Mrs. Duryea in serving. The guests were Mrs. Geo. McMorran, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Griggs and Mrs. Parkhurst from Illinois.

One of the social events of the season occurred at the Graham hotel at Cottage Grove, when Mrs. Fred Russell, of Dorena, Mrs. A. H. Abrams and Mrs. T. C. Long, of that city, entertained nearly fifty Cottage Grove ladies in the parlors of the hotel. The rooms were tastefully decorated with Oregon grape and wild flowers, arranged for the occasion. The guests were among the most prominent of Cottage Grove. From the hours of 2 to 5 o'clock the number of beautifully gowned ladies were right royally entertained.

Those present were: Mesdames Aubrey, Burkholder, Briggs, Burrier, Brund, Chambers, Compton, Conner, Dubrille, Dennis, Eakin, Delore, Hemenway, Almond Hemenway, Hall, Herrin, Hard, Will Hart, Kime, the present spring and summer season, but that the extreme rigor of last winter's styles would be considerably modified and toned down to reasonable limits.

There were a great many dresses which scarcely showed any deviation from the lines in vogue during the past winter season, but, although most of them were pretty, they seemed to be just a trifle out of style. Some of the frocks had been slightly remodeled to bring them into closer conformity with the demands of the present fashion and these clearly indicated the trend of the new direction.

The most striking feature of the Easter display was, undoubtedly, the seemingly endless variety of ideas as to details of cut, materials, ornamentation and trimmings. There were extremes, even to grotesqueness, in some of the costumes worn by some of the more daring ultra-fashionables, but these were exceptions. Most of the costumes were in good taste, however, extreme neither in scantiness nor in fullness.

To sum up the result of the observations it may be said that the clinging front and side lines with slightly shortened waist line and straight falling front will be retained during the spring and summer. That will be welcome news to a majority of women, as this style is generally becoming. But women whose development is rather too voluptuous to meet the requirements of the Directoire style will rejoice to find their clinging skirts widening almost imperceptibly into rippling folds toward the bottom instead of closely defining every line of their limbs, and will rejoice still more enthusiastically to find narrow but soft fullness introduced in the back of the skirt, so that here too the exuberant lines of her figure are toned down and hidden.

Judging from the latest importations from Paris, displayed in the fashionable shops there is considerable liberty as to the position of the waist line, but bouffancy, except in the most summary of materials, is

Eggs will cook much more evenly if the frying pan is covered.

To clean linoleum, wash first with a little warm water, and polish by applying milk.

Neuralgia headaches can often be cured by applying to the forehead a poultice made of scraped ginger and hot water.

Cold sores can be cured the quickest by constant applications of pure rosewater. Add a few drops of camphor if you have it handy.

A few trays of charcoal set on the floor and shelves of a damp cellar will make the air pure and sweet, and take away the musty smell.

Celery may be kept fresh several days if after it has been cleaned and washed it is put in an ordinary glass fruit jar, covered tight and placed in a cool place.

When cleaning paint, do not use hot water, as this destroys the varnish, and will cause the paint to wear off. The water used should never be more than barely lukewarm.

In canning fruit use the extra juice that cannot be put in the jars to make jelly. Add enough dissolved gelatin to the juice to make it mold when cold. Serve it with whipped cream.

Do not throw away old and bent tacks. They are useful in cleaning jars and bottles. Half fill the jars with hot soapsuds, put in the tacks, shake the bottle vigorously and then rinse with clear water.

Wormwood boiled in vinegar and applied as hot as can be borne on a sprain or a bruise is an invaluable remedy. The affected member should afterward be rolled in flannel bandages to retain the heat.

The brown streak around the neck, which is often caused by wearing high collars may be completely removed by using frequently the juice of cucumbers, or by trying thin slices of cucumber about the neck when retiring.

To take off stains on tan boots, apply a paste of Fuller's earth and methylated spirit, and rub it off when it has become dry. Two or three applications may be necessary. Afterward polish the boots in the usual manner.

Home-made wine, to be good, should never be tapped for drinking until it is at least one year old. At the end of that time it should be bottled and allowed to remain for another year, if possible, to have it in fine condition.

The white spots so often seen on finger nails are due to bruises, and can be promptly removed by applying a mixture of refined pitch and gum myrrh. Put it on the nails before going to bed and rub it off with a little olive oil in the morning.

One good way of sterilizing milk is to place the bottle or can containing it in a vessel of water in the fire and allow it to remain there until it reaches 180 degrees Fahrenheit, keeping it at this temperature for half an hour before setting it aside to cool.

Handsomely decorated china plates, when not in use, should be carefully put in piles, with round pieces of cotton flannel between them. The pieces should be cut large enough to reach beyond the rim underneath the plates or saucers, as these are particularly liable to scratch the glazing of the plates upon which they are resting.

Working a row of featherstitching. Strips of this same lace were run vertically through the yoke about an inch apart. They were edged the same with featherstitching, and on the plain muslin were worked in satin stitch and eyelet embroidery tiny sprays of forget-me-nots. This tucked dress with pointed yoke closes in the back. The pattern is cut in three sizes—one, three and five years of age. To copy it for the average person requires 24 yards of material 27 inches wide or 2 yds. 54 inches wide.

SPRINGFIELD PEOPLE TO VISIT EUROPE

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snyder were over from Eugene Sunday looking after their property here. When asked if he had fallen heir to was true, he said that it was exaggerated a little that it was only $8,000. Even that was quite acceptable and on the strength of it they will make a trip to the old country, leaving here in July and will be away six months. Fred says while there he will get another allowance and with what he has, he will have a nice little nest egg. On their return he will buy a farm and retire from the butcher business.

The American hotel has again changed hands, Mr. and Mrs. Fay retiring. The new proprietor, being J. D. Smith, from Lebanon, who took possession last Sunday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Fay conducted this popular hotel only a few months, but during their short stay succeeded well in maintaining the good reputation of the house, aside from their guests made many staunch friends in the community who regret their departure.—Springfield News.

PRETTY YOKE DRESS FOR BABY.

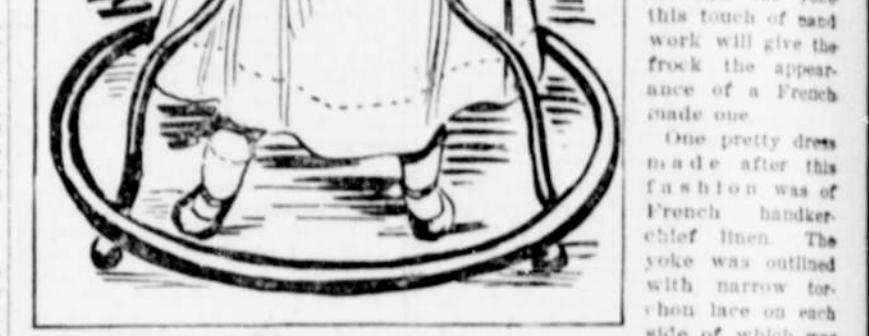

WHENEVER it is possible small children should be kept in white. The busy mother, however, may find this difficult, as frequent changes are necessary if they are to be kept clean and neat. In this case there are many of pretty little plaid and striped gingham, percales, lawns and dimities that will make up prettily and not show soil so readily as would white. Dresses of this character can be used for morning.

Several frocks can be made from the design shown in the illustration, and variety can be given by different arrangement of trimming. This little frock is very plain and easily made. At the lower edge just above the hem a row of Valenciennes insertion and a few narrow tucks may be arranged and the same idea carried out on the sleeve bands and collar.

Still another form of trimming which will be pretty and dainty is featherstitching and French knots. These should also be carried out on the hem, cuffs and collar, and if a shallow pointed yoke is outlined with featherstitching both in the back and in the front and French knots scattered through the yoke this touch of hand work will give the frock the appearance of a French made one.

One pretty dress made after this fashion was of French handkerchief linen. The yoke was outlined with narrow torchon lace on each side of which was worked a row of featherstitching. Strips of this same lace were run vertically through the yoke about an inch apart. They were edged the same with featherstitching, and on the plain muslin were worked in satin stitch and eyelet embroidery tiny sprays of forget-me-nots.

This tucked dress with pointed yoke closes in the back. The pattern is cut in three sizes—one, three and five years of age. To copy it for the average person requires 24 yards of material 27 inches wide or 2 yds. 54 inches wide.

KASPARILLA

This sterling household remedy is most successfully prescribed for a "world of troubles." For derangements of the digestive organs it is a natural corrective, operating directly upon the liver and alimentary canal, gently but persistently stimulating a healthful activity. Its beneficial influence extends, however, to every portion of the system, aiding in the processes of digestion and assimilation of food, promoting a wholesome, natural appetite, correcting sour stomach, bad breath, irregularities of the bowels, constipation and the long list of troubles directly traceable to those unwholesome conditions. Kasparilla dispels drowsiness, headache, backache and despondency due to inactivity of the liver, kidneys and digestive tract. It is a strengthening tonic of the highest value.
