SERIOUS FIRE IN OREGON STATE PRISON DESTROYS SHOPS

Salem, May 5.—Fire last night destroyed the moulding rooms, machine shops and foundry of the Oregon state penitentiary and badly damaged the nickel-plating establishment and the other work rooms and outbuildings. The loss is estimated at $30,000. No one was injured. The origin of the blaze, which was first noticed at 10:45 by a guard, is not positively known but it is thought that fire smouldered in the cupola of the moulding room after the last blast was released at 4 p. m. No one was in the machine shops or the moulding room at the time and the flames spread and gained strong headway before they were seen by the guard. The prison apparatus was quickly routed out, the trustees were released, and a hurry call sent to the Salem fire department, which responded with all speed. T. J. Ryan, of Boise, Idaho, is in the city.

HENEY AND ATTORNEYS FOR DEFENSE IN WORD BATTLE DURING CALHOUN TRIAL

San Francisco, May 5.—With liberal use of the terms "scoundrel" and "scoundrelism," Francis J. Heney and A. A. Moore engaged in a violent altercation at today's session of the trial of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads. The dispute arose when Moore objected to the form of a question addressed to the witness, Andrew M. Wilson, by Assistant District Attorney O'Garra.

"I do not believe the court should permit this witness to put a different interpretation on his testimony under the guise of an explanation," said Moore. "It puts a premium on scoundrelism." "The court should put a stop to this," said Heney, rising to his feet. "It was done with the purpose of influencing the jury, and it has occurred before. The American Bar Association calls this practice by a name that would not sound very well." Then the fireworks began and the opposing counsel banded hot words until ordered to stop by the court. Later Stanley Moore, son of A. A. Moore, was rebuked by the court for interrupting him in rendering a decision.

PEACEMAKERS SESSION NEARING CLOSE AT CHICAGO

Many Prominent Speakers Deliver Addresses to the Delegates

Chicago, May 6.—"Compulsory peace is an incubator of war; preparation for war is a menace of wars; broken treaties of peace are peace breakers," said Alfred H. Love of Philadelphia, president of the Universal Peace Union, in an address at the last day's session here today of the National Peace Congress. An exchange of formal greetings between diplomatic representatives of various nations and a business session to consider the practical results of the gathering constituted the day's work.

The German Ambassador, Count Johann Henrich von Bernstorff, spoke at a lunch of the industrial club today. Among things he said: "We shall this afternoon have ample opportunity of expressing our hopes for peace from our various points of view. I will therefore now only speak a few words to tender to you, Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Industrial Club, my heartfelt thanks for the kind hospitality you extended to me. Many Americans of German origin have largely helped to make this great city what it is and to draw our two nations closer together in the bonds of friendship. I therefore feel that I am among friends, and your splendid reception has increased my feeling."

"It is natural that the Industrial Club should take much interest in this Peace Congress. Living as we do in the period of industrialism, peace is the greatest interest of industrial nations, as peace is the hand-maid of prosperity. On the other hand, industry promotes the community of nations, because wealth and progress of one country are a source of wealth and progress of all nations. I must not take up more of your time, but I do thank you very sincerely for your kind reception." The deliberations of the peace congress were rudely disturbed when A. M. Simons, a Socialist editor, attempted to secure formal recognition of Socialism. "The Greatest Peace Force in the World." The congress had officially adopted a platform carefully avoiding matters sectional or political and the Simons resolution was tabled by a standing vote, two to one.

Mead, of Boston, discussed "The Arrest in Competitive Arming in Fidelity to The Hague Movement," and Congressman Richard Bartholdt, of Missouri, referred with sarcasm to the inconsistency of a race that insisted that the individual should settle his difference in the courts, while nations settled by the arbitrament of war.
