TWO VOICES
A SOUTHERN VOLUNTEER	HIS NORTHERN BROTHER
Yes, sir, I fought with Stonewall, And faced the fight with Lee; But if this here union goes to war, Make one more gun for me! I didn't shrink from Sherman As he gallopped to the sea; But if this here union goes to war, Make one more gun for me!	Just make it two, old fellow. I want to stand once more Beneath the old flag with you As in the days of yore. Our fathers stood together And fought on land and sea The battle fierce that made us A nation of the free.
I was with 'em at Manassas- The bully boys in Gray; I heard the thunderers roarin' Round Stonewall Jackson's way, And many a time this sword of mine Has blazed the route for Lee; But if this nation goes to war, Make one more gun for me!	I whipped you down at Vicks- burg. You licked me at Bull Run; On many a field we struggled. Where neither victory won. You wore the gray of Southland, I wore the Northern blue; Like men we did our duty When screaming bullets flew.
 I'm not so full o' fightin', Nor half so full o' fun As I was back in the sixtles When I shouldered my old gun! It may be that my hair is white— Sich things, you know, must be. But if this old Union's in for war, Make one more gun for me! I hain't forgot my raisin'— Nor how in sixty-two Or thereabouts, with battle shouts. I charged the Boys in Blue: And I say: I fought with Stone- wall. And blazed the way for Lee: But if this old Union's in for war Make one more gun for me!

history is known. It is a fact no longer disputed that most of SIUSLAW PORT the cases of consumption are due solely to infection breathed into the system from the foul air of streets and houses.

Every municipality must begin to wage war on the germ. We would not deny the hospitality of the city to the poor sufferer from the tuberculosis bacillus, but we must prevent the spread of what has been well called the "Great White Scourge." We must end the chances of infection.

The laws against expectoration must be enforced and the deadly typhoid-consumption-pendisease fly must be killed.

The Guard's position on the railroad question is simply this: We favor taking advantage of every opportunity to secure another road into Eugene from any direction, believing that when a second line is secured it will be easy to get others. In other progressive. The passing of this words, it will be the beginning of making Eugene a railroad center, which must be brought about in order to build up a real city here. A town with only one railroad never becomes a very important commercial city, as far as we have been able to discover. For these reasons, we favor the acceptance of any reasonable proposition to build the Siuslaw railroad, as well as any offer Mr. Carver might make for the extension of his Corvallis line to this city. The thing to do is to go after railroads good and strong, and the first man who puts up a proposition that is made in good faith is the one we should do business with and do it quick.

Some individuals seem to have a highly exaggerated notion water outward, and by rall inward of their own value and importance in this world, an estimate a scene of splendid development for often greatly at variance with that held by their contemporaries. Some woman asks half a million to compensate her for a broken heart and the injury suffered by her reputation, while even her most intimate friends must admit that her reputation would not bring fifteen cents even among friends and that nothing less than a seven-ton drop-hammer would ever make any impression upon her heart. As a rule the basis for damages demanded in such cases is entirely imaginary. Even in bona fide cases of mental injury it is rather difficult to estimate the injury in dollars and cents. A remarkable exception was presented by a suit for damages for unjustified arrest in a New York court, which was field in the courts a few days ago. The complainant in the suit claims that in consequence of the worry and humiliation caused by his false arrest he lost twenty pounds in weight. Inasmuch as the man demands $10,000 damages, this would indicate that he estimates himself at $500 a pound. Considering the fact that many a man or woman would gladly pay besides a sister. Miss Birdina, and from $100 to $10,000 to get rid of twenty or more nounds of a brother, Joe. The remains will from $100 to $10,000 to get rid of twenty or more pounds of irksome excess flesh, this estimate seems rather high.

Strange things happen every day and it has come to the Eighth street in Eugene, May 29. point that nobody can feel entirely safe from receiving a medal Eugene couid well afford to pay $50,000 for a new rail. of some kind from some committee or society he has never even died suddenly, being in apparently

WAR AGAINST CONSUMPTION.

The war against the dread disease consumption which is common all over the United States and the European country as well is being waged with great vigor by the medical profession and the layity. Time was when the consumptive was presumed to be a victim of an inherited disease and was looked upon with the pity that one gives to those who suffer for the sins of their father, but we know better now, for it is a well known fact that the trouble is all due to infection and cannot be trnsmitted by heredity. In other words, if we become afflicted with tuberculosis the trouble is due to our own, or some other person's carelessness, says the Sacramento Union in an editorial on this subject.

The strong man who is cut down in the midst of his robust health is not the victim of constitutional weakness on the part of his forefathers, but of a bacterium taken into the system by breathing the infected dust of the streets or by eating a piece of food over which has sprawled a fly that has been feeding on the sputum of a tuberculosis patient in the street.

The dainty woman, destroyed in the midst of her beauty, we now realize is the victim of carelessness on the part of the public, and the hectic flush of the death-dealing disease, we know is but the result of breathing in the particles that came with the wind into a house where the bacillus of phthisis found . congenial lodging.

That we must prevent the fly from bearing the disease . germs to the houses, all admit; but we must do more; we must see that the tuberculosis patient does not spit in the street, we must keep the streets absolutely clean. It can be done and it must be done.

The scourge of the human family today is not smallpox, cholera or buconic plague, but consumption. Consumption is due > to germs, and those germs have been studied so that their life 2.

To have a successful fair it is necessary to get the horsemen interested, and if this part of the program can still be changed, we think it should be done.
