KETCHEL KNOCKED OUT IN TWELFTH ROUND BY JOHNSON

Colma, Cal., Oct. 16.—At 2:50 this afternoon there was $40,000 in the box office. The arena holds 10,000 and thousands more are on the outside who cannot get in. Johnson weighs 196, Ketchel, 176. Johnson entered the ring at 2:57 and Ketchel a moment later. The principals met in the centre of the ring and gripped hands. Both claimed they were fit for the battle.

Round 1—The men did not shake hands. Johnson towered above his adversary several inches. The champion hooked Ketchel in the stomach; Ketchel sparred to make the black lead, and Johnson shot his left to the face twice; Ketchel forced Johnson against the ropes but the black avoided any blows. Both fighting cautiously. Ketchel appeared nervous.

Round 2—They clinched and the referee pried them apart; Johnson shot a straight left to the nose. He repeated it and Ketchel uppercut Johnson hard to the jaw with the left. The champion rushed in, landing rights and lefts on the body; Ketchel slipped to the floor with considerable force but was up quickly; Johnson toyed with his smaller opponent. Ketchel showed a grim determination as he took his seat.

Round 3—Both swung rights and lefts, Ketchel landing on the body. Johnson uppercut twice to the face and clinched. Johnson putting in several short arm rights and lefts to the stomach. Ketchel uppercut the negro in the face as the men broke from the clinch. Then Johnson swung his right to the jaw just as the gong sounded.

Round 4—Johnson rushed in, forcing his man to the ropes, and placing his arm around Ketchel fairly carried him to the centre of the ring. Ketchel missed a terrific right for the jaw. Johnson backed away, Ketchel following. Ketchel constantly teased the black in an effort to make him lead. Tame round.

Round 5—Ketchel opened with a left to the body; Johnson landed two weak lefts to the face and then sent Ketchel's head back with straight lefts to the nose. Ketchel showed great cleverness in blocking. Johnson flung two lefts to the face. Neither showed damage as the round ended, Johnson having a shade the best of it.

Round 6—Each missed swings. Ketchel landed left to body and jaw, Johnson countered to stomach. Johnson landed Ketchel's gloves so hard as to knock him to the floor, but he was up in an instant for a warm reception, Johnson landing right to the jaw and left to the face. Johnson had good lead when round ended.

Round 8—Johnson's smile had faded. He lead tow lefts to Ketchel's face and the fighters roughed it and clinched. Johnson landing left and right to face as they separated. Ketchel missed a terrific right swing and almost went through the ropes. Johnson land left on jaw. Ketchel missed another terrific left. Ketchel ran to the corner smiling and cheered by the crowd.

Round 9—Closed in each landing short arm rights face. Champion put four stinger on the face but Ketchel did not break ground. Ketchel rushed, planting left on ribs, Johnson countering with the left to jaw. He repeated it, and the men clinched. Johnson broke it up with a nasty straight left to the face. The champion had honors as the gong sounded.

Round 10—After a clinch, Johnson sent two light lefts to stomach and quickly shifted to jaw, connecting twice, which started Ketchel spitting blood. Johnson kept up a continual tatoo on Ketchel's body and face, the white man not being able to land an effective blow. The round closed with Ketchel very worried.

Round 11—Ketchel whipped on left to kidneys but missed two hard swings to the jaw. Ketchel landed a terrific right almost to the jaw and they clinched, seemingly content to rest. Ketchel forced the fighting, seeking to follow up his slight advantages but the negro was too clever and Ketchel's face got some more pounding. He looked badly when he went to his corner.

Round 12—Ketchel rushed, sending his right for the jaw, but struck the negro's arm and the big fellow fell flat on his back. Ketchel rushed as soon as Johnson was on his feet, but the tricky champion, waiting for him, swung hard to Ketchel's jaw and again to the body. Ketchel, fainting as Johnson caught him hard with his right to the face, the white man went down like a shot and lay bleeding from the mouth. He made a weak effort to rise, but could not, and was counted out.

It was Johnson's fight all the way through.

TWO PRESIDENTS EXCHANGE VISITS WITH CEREMONY

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 16.—With cannon roaring a sequence of salutes, with soldiers everywhere and pomp ceremony seldom, if ever, before witnessed in this country, President Taft of the United States and Porfiro Diaz of the Republic of Mexico met here today and exchanged formal greetings of good will and friendship. The meeting was behind closed doors in the director's room of the Chamber of Commerce and only two assistant secretaries to President Taft were there to report the addresses of the executives. After having received Pres. Diaz on American soil, President Taft himself crossed over the international border and returned the call of Diaz at Claudad Juarez. He then returned to the United States to review a military parade in this city this afternoon. Tonight he will cross into Mexican territory for the second time to be the guest of President Diaz at Juarez.

Vague rumors of a possible demonstrations attending the meeting of the two presidents caused the authorities, both civil and military, to be extra precautious on both sides of the line, to protect the executives. While President Taft and President Diaz were in the directors' room, the members of their party informally were introduced.

The meeting of the presidents was intended to be a simple and informal recognition of the friendly relations of the two countries. The journeying to and fro of the presidents and members of their party, were attended by a military display which was impressive of authority. President Taft, being escorted by cavalry, artillery and infantry, while President Diaz was attended by three thousand Mexican soldiers.

President Taft arrived at 9 o'clock, and had breakfast at St. Regis hotel, as the guest of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce. Following a review of school children he proceeded to the Chamber of Commerce to meet President Diaz, whose approach was greeted by a salute of 21 guns fired by the American forces. He was met at the border by Secretary of War Dickinson, General J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff of United States army, Brigadier General Meyer and Governor Campbell of Texas.

After a meeting of the presidents had occurred and a light luncheon partaken of, Diaz withdrew from the American territory with a departing salute of 21 guns. Then came Taft's visit to Mexican soil and when he alighted from his carriage on the Mexican side of the line it was the second time in the history of the United States that a president of the United States had left its borders. Roosevelt set the precedent when attending a dinner given by the President of Panama on Panamaian territory.

Taft's only militant attendant was Captain Butt, his aide. The simple ceremonies over, Taft returned to the United States territory to head a parade five miles in length, concluding at Carnegie Square, where he reviewed the parade and made a speech.

Tragedy Over Flag.

Just as President Taft was stepping aboard the train, Noll Morgan, a boy said to be part Mexican, stabbed an American schoolmate, Lawrence Wimber, to death, in a quarrel over the possession of an America flag. The incident caused much excitement in the great crowd.

HONORS FOR FORMER EUGENE YOUNG MAN

Professor G. A. Warfield Gains Recognition for Scholarship in North Dakota

A North Dakota paper has the following concerning a former young man, whose mother and sisters live in Eugene:

According to information received Saturday eveing George Warfield, professor of history and social science in Dakota Wesleyan University, will, the coming year, carry on the work of investigating social conditions and philanthropy in the state of Missouri under the Russell Sage Foundation. The appointment takes the form of a fellowship in social research under the Foundation and comes as a recognition of work done by the professor while in the summer quarter of the University of Wisconsin this summer. The research is done under the auspices of the Washington University of St. Louis, Mo., and the appointment came from Thomas J. Riley, director of the St. Louis school of Philanthropy. The investigation will cover a study of the poor and needy classes over the state of Missouri, and an analysis of the most practical method for their relief along sociological lines. The work will also involve a study of the conditions in the surrounding states and in the larger cities of the country. The expenses of the research work will be bourne by the Foundation. At the end of the year Prof. Warfield will submit the result of his year's work in a report which will be his thesis for a degree in Washington University and which no doubt will be used as a basis for future study in sociology and philanthropy. The task is an important one and was awarded to Professor Warfield because of the advanced standing he holds in social science. He has been granted a leave of absence for the year from the University.

ROSEBURG THINKS RAILROAD IS SURE

Promoters Give Bond to Insure Building Within Two Years

Roseburg, Oct. 14.—At a joint meeting of the committee from Roseburg and Coos county in this city last night a contract was signed for the construction of an electric railroad between Roseburg and Marshfield via Myrtle Point and Coquille by the Coos Bay and Inland Railroad represented by F. J. Kuettner and Jacob Haas, of Portland. The contract provides that the company deposit $50,000 in cash with the committees as trustees and a like sum in stock, pending delivery of a bond to secure the company's agreement to build the line within two years after the survey and the securing the right of way. Kuettner and Haas are now in Portland to have the contract executed by the company's officers, whose identity is not divulged. On account of this secrecy local sentiment is against the public subscription of $25,000 demanded by the company to defray half the cost of the survey. It is feared the project is a move of the Southern Pacific to block the independent steam line project by the Oregon and Idaho Developement Congress and for which surveys are being made.

OBITUARY.

Geoge M. Hammitt was born June 20, 1864, and died September 30, 1909, aged 45 years, 3 months and 10 days. He was born near Eugene, being the fourth child.

With his parents he moved to their home on the Mohawk about twelve miles from Eugene. Early in life he went to the Couer d'Alene mines where he spent several years. He also spent several years in other mines in the Western states. In 1892 he came for a visit with his parents after which he returned to the mines in British Columbia and Montana. In 1901 he was called home by the death of his father and the serious illness of his brother Paul, who died a month later. Shortly after this he visited Alaska, from there he went to the Panama Zone.

Of late years he has lived in different parts of California, mostly in San Francisco and Downisville, near where he died.

He was kind hearted, jovial disposition and a general favorite of all friends and relatives. He leaves a kind, loving mother, who will greatly miss his frequent letters home. Also several brothers and sisters, all of whom were present at the funeral.

Near Salem yesterday afternoon five convicts employed at road work near the Home for the Feeble-Minded Institute, two miles southeast of the city, overpowered their guards, took two automatic revolvers from the guards and $70 in cash, stole a horse [illegible] and made their escape, traveling south. The break for liberty evidently had been carefully planned. There were 15 convicts in the gang, but only five were in the plot to escape. The others made no effort to get away.

SPRINGFIELD AND VICINITY

DAVID FITZGERALD COMES UP MISSING

Friends of David Fitzgerald are mystified to know of his whereabout. For the past eight months he has been in the employ of the Booth-Kelly Co. at Wendling and is a professional machinist by trade. About a week ago he resigned his position with that company and came to Springfield where he disposed of some property here in order to purchase land in the northwest. Last Wednesday he left here in company with Mr. and Mrs. John Hines for Portland. There he met John Brown who formerly owned land east of Springfield, and the two gentlemen remained together till Thursday morning when they separated to meet in the evening at the home of Mrs. Ida Catrell, at 121 1-2 Russell street. Fitzgerald failed to make his appearance and in the morning Brown became uneasy and commenced a search for him. Since that time nothing has been seen or heard of him and the entire Portland police force have made a systematic search, but in vain.

The three gentlemen, Fitzgerald, Brown and Hines were bound for Prince Rupert to purchase land and were to meet in Seattle. It is said that Fitzgerald is addicted to the drink but has not touched liquor for several months and as he had some money on his person it is feared by his friends that he has been imbibing too freely and has met with foul play. Mr. Hayward received a telegram yesterday afternoon requesting him to notify the First National Bank not to honor any drafts or checks signed by Fitzgerald until further notice.—News.

MRS. COLLINS FREED BY TRIAL JURY

It Is Held That Woman Who Killed Her Husband Is Demented

Mrs. Kate M. Collins was last evening acquitted of the charge of murdering her husband. The jury in Judge Gatens' department of the Circuit Court, which heard her case, killing Dr. Roy A. Miles Collins being the charge, brought in a verdict of "not guilty on the ground of insanity" at 5:10 o'clock last evening. The jury was out exactly an hour and a half, the case being submitted to it at 3:40 o'clock. At no time did any of the talesmen vote for conviction. The first ballot stood six for acquittal, and six for not guilty because of insanity. Two jurymen stood out for not guilty until five o'clock, when the jury came in for further instructions. The talesmen wanted to know if a verdict of not guilty on the insanity ground were returned, what disposition would be made of Mrs. Collins; whether she would be summarily examined and sent to the asylum at Salem, or whether she would be given her liberty. Judge Gatens declined to inform the jurymen upon this point, saying that it was for them to do their duty, no matter what disposition would be made of the accused woman.—Oregonian.

YOUNG JOS. MATLOCK IN SERIOUS TROUBLE

Charged With Assault With Intent to Commit Rape—Examination Next Tuesday

Jos. Matlock, Jr., is under arrest, charged with assault with intent to commit rape, and he will be given a preliminary examination before Judge Bryson, of the justice court, next Tuesday.

It is alleged that young Matlock followed a girl by the name of Clara Nyrahl last evening and when she had reached a point opposite an alley on East Seventh street, according to her story, he grabbed her and tried to throw her to the ground, tearing her clothes in the scuffle. The girl, who was badly frightened, screamed and Matlock desisted. One of The Guard carriers passed about that time and this probably had something to do with his ceasing to annoy the girl. Later Matlock was arrested and placed in the county jail.
