

Society

When the autumn leaves begin to glow and the chill of winter creeps upon us our social instincts that during the summer months have been partially submerged, are aroused and as a result there is an atmosphere of social activity prevalent.

That golden summer that we have told our eastern friends so much about has surely been with us the past week and this has helped materially in making the social affairs of the week a decided success.

Mrs. Jennie U'Ren was hostess to the Aloha Club on Tuesday of this week. At 7:30 Mrs. Goldsmith took the first prize during the latter part of the afternoon Mrs. U'Ren served a delightful luncheon, assisted by her daughter Esther and Mrs. Will Yoran. The guests of the afternoon were: Mrs. Sigens, Mrs. Frank Hampton, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. W. C. Yoran.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. L. N. Roney, assisted by Miss Neura Richardson, entertained for the former's niece, Miss Nettie Harris of Galatin, Missouri. What was the game of the evening, Miss Ray Woodruff receiving the prize. After dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, the guests repaired to the snazzy veranda where the dreamy waltz and lively two-step reigned supreme.

Those enjoying Mrs. Roney's hospitality were: The Misses Holly Moore, Lela Gilstrap, Ray Woodruff, Eda Humphrey, Nancy Peterson, Hazel Humphrey and Mrs. Burden, Messrs. David Graham, Wilshire Bristow, Gerald Preston, N. L. Fitzhenry, Frank Jenkins, Dr. Beardsley, Otto Gilstrap and C. A. Burden.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Lula Maude Craig, of Ellensburg, Washington, to Mr. Oscar Gorrell of this city, the wedding to take place in the First Methodist Episcopal church in Ellensburg on Wednesday evening, October 26, at 8:00 o'clock. This wedding is a surprise to the many friends of the couple, though in reality it should not be, as it is the culmination of a college romance that began at Oregon.

The Methodist Aid Society met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Woodruff on West Tenth street. Mrs. Will Gilstrap, Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Wheeler being joint hostesses with Mrs. Woodruff. For some time past there has been a contest with have of the society on one side with Mrs. Jepp, and after she was gone, Mrs. Frank Chambers, as leader, and the other half of the society with Mrs. Fred Chambers as head.

The contest was to secure new members and money and the losing side had to give the other a banquet. Mrs. Frank Chambers' side secured 28 members and $290, while Mrs. Fred Chambers secured nine new members and $235. It was at this meeting that the reports were given so they proved particularly interesting. Toward the close of the afternoon the hostesses served refreshments to the guests who were about 65 in all.

Chester Washburne, son of Mrs. Minnie Washburne, was visiting here for a few days this week. He is in the Government Geological Department, being located in Washington, D. C. His many friends were glad to see him once more.

The Kiosche Tilicum girls entertained the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority at dinner on Wednesday and Thursday evening of this week. A four-course dinner was served after which dancing was indulged in for an hour or so. This exchange of hospitality between the clubs is a good thing, helping to broaden acquaintances. The Kappa Alpha Theta girls entertained were: The Misses Frances Oberhauser, Cornelia Pinkham, Mildred Bagley, Hazel McNair, Cecile Wilcox, Ione Lambert, Marjorie Holcomb, Jessie Bibe, Alleen Thompson, Ray Zimmerman, Willetta Wright, Merie McKinley, Jane Knox, Fielda McClain, Ethel Clark, Eva and Adah Allen and Mary DeBar.

The Congregational Y. F. S. C. E. gave a reception to new students on Wednesday evening at the home of Reverend and Mrs. Pinkerton on West Seventh street. Japanese lanterns decorated the exterior beautiful while autumn leaves were used for decorations in the house. Misses Lucile Yoran, Daryl Belat, Maude Beals and Ethel Barnard, the social committee, served themselves splendid entertainers for everyone had a good time. Toward the end of the evening dainty ices were served to the guests.

Mrs. Griggs graciously entertained the Pricella club at her home on East Eleventh street Thursday afternoon. Needlework was the pastime of the afternoon. A dainty repast was served by Mrs. Griggs, assisted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. McVay who is visiting her from Boise, Idaho. Mrs. Griggs' guests were: Mrs. Charles Fisher, Mrs. Chas. Williams, Mrs. Allen, Boise, Mrs. Geo. McMoran, Miss Irene Applegate and Mrs. Holmquist.

The Thimble Club held its regular meeting Thursday with Miss Bessie

Day, Mrs. Frank McAllister and Mrs. Whitson helped with the serving of refreshments to the regular members and guests who were: Mrs. Frank Chambers, Mrs. Fred Chambers, Mrs. Norton, Grants Pass.

Mrs. Morse invited in some ladies to enjoy needlework together on Friday afternoon in honor of her mother, Mrs. Slocum of Slay, Iowa. Miss Veda Quackenbush favored the ladies with several instrumental selections during the afternoon. Those enjoying Mrs. Morse's hospitality were: Mrs. Quackenbush, Miss Veda Quackenbush, Mrs. Lill, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Lake, Mrs. Meyers, Mrs. Fabian, Mrs. G. C. Wright, Mrs.

MRS. GEORGE WESTINGHOUSE JR.

As Miss Evelyn Brockelbank, the daughter of a wealthy Englishman, she refused many offers from titled suitors to wed the son of the American millionaire, whom she met in a romantic manner while touring his father's works, where the young man was working as a mechanic in grimy overalls.

Howe, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. Stratton, Mrs. Fred Fiske, Mrs. Matlock, Mrs. Gates, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Needham, Mrs. Aupperlick and Mrs. Hug.

The Sunshine Club met Friday afternoon with Miss Mabel Kuykendall. The girls enjoy their needlework very much, as it is such a change from study. Miss Libbie Howe is a new member of the club. Late in the afternoon dainty refreshments were served the guests by their hostesses.

The Tete-a-Tete Club met this afternoon with Miss Mabel Kuykendall. The girls enjoy their needlework very much, as it is such a change from study. Miss Libbie Howe is a new member of the club. Late in the afternoon dainty refreshments were served the guests by their hostesses.

Last Saturday evening the East Eugene W. C. T. U. gave a silver medal eulogatory contest in the Deernhorn school house as follows:

Suffrage and the Home, Mrs. Fitzgerald.

Only Three Women Voted, Miss Bertsch.

The Old Man's Story, Miss Stearns. The Relationship of Equal Suffrage to the Liquor Traffic, Mrs. McDonald.

One of the events of the week was the annual reunion of old students and welcome to new students of the Eugene Business College. Early in the evening the crowd began to gather and by eight o'clock the college rooms were a scene of bustle and activity. The tables were set about one hundred and seventy-five people who are, or have been connected with the school, Professor Hooker was present from Creswell. The rooms were elaborately decorated with La France roses, dahlias, ferns and autumn leaves. The college colors were festooned from the ceiling and banners hung on the walls. Throughout the evening punch was served by the Miss Ethel Edmiston and Gertrude Ransom and Mrs. Wilder Farham. A short program was rendered, including an address by Professor Hooker and revival of the College paper, "The Breeze," containing a history of the school. This was followed by greetings and various pastimes, among which was gathering together the words of different proverbs, each person representing a late hour, the trophies being awarded. Supper was served at a late hour. The tables were profusely decorated with the same flowers predominant in the other rooms. The favors were small card board, "E. B. S." pennants. Toasts were given by the following: Mr. Gilbert, toastmaster, Mrs. Hatfield, Mr. Emory, Mr. Ira Manville, Mr. Lloyd Pickard, Mr. Wilderham and others.

The Wednesday Afternoon Whist Club opened its series of meetings with an elaborate banquet served at the elegant new home of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Frazer on West Fifth street on Thursday evening. The house has just been finished and is complete in every detail. The spacious interior was decorated with autumn leaves and cut flowers, the color scheme being carried out in the different rooms. Those present were President and Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Green, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Chessman, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Frazer, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Wilkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Willoughby, r. and Mrs. Charles Littlefield, Mrs. S. J. Wilson, Mrs. M. C. Harms, Mrs. Zieher, Mrs. McIntosh, Mrs. A. L. Peter and Mr. J. M. Williams. Progressive whist was indulged in till a late hour, the trophies being awarded to the following: Ladies' first prize, Mrs. A. L. Peter; gentlemen's first prize, Amos Wilkins; ladies' second prize, Mrs. M. C. Harms; gentlemen's second prize, W. M. Green. Consolation prize, ladies', Mrs. P. L. Campbell; consolation prize, gentlemen's, W. W. Chessman. Miss Anna Watkins and Miss Juanita Wilkins assisted in serving.

FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, Oct. 16.—We have had several seasons now in which the historic has dominated the modes of the day. During the coming winter the styles in millinery will particularly show this influence—in nearly every instance the hat shows a relationship with some idea of the past. The designs have given much time to the study of old pictures and miniatures—some of them by very famous artists and of the most noted women of olden times. Many of the hats of the winter will be reproductions of those which were the fashion of these picture models. For dress hats the picture model will prevail while the more severe type of costumes and those intended for street wear in business hours will incline towards the military silhouette.

For instance there was a hat shown at one of the recent exhibitions which comes under the picturesque type which is known this year as the "Lady Hamilton," which has been copied from one of the Romney paintings which are well known among face pictures. Time and again the Romney model has been used and the novelty of the hat in question was in the method of its trimming. Long plumes are usually the accompaniment of the picture hat, but in this case the large crown was completely formed from great masses of white egrettes. The hat itself was of black velvet with a high, round, full crown and a wide brim that tilts just a little with a suspicion of a droop in the front. For certain features and occasions no hat is quite so artistic or contains so many possibilities as the Romney models.

The Marie Antoinette turban has always been a favorite with many women and the model for this has been taken from Vice Lebon's portrait of that poor queen. For semi-dress occasions the model copied from that picture for this exhibition was an excellent choice. It is rather large and of course has no brim, but the sides of the crown are softly swathed in white egrettes and black velvet. The crown has one odd idea not usually seen; the centre is lightly depressed and in some instances very much so, and then it reminds one of the Scotch Highlanders' cap, especially when the high quills are used. The further ornamentation of the model is carried out by a large drooping egrette that falls from the back forward over the crown. Made in some of the delightful greys that will be worn this fall with a brightly colored egrette, it would be a hat that could be used on many occasions, when a business hat would be too stiff and when the picture hat would be altogether too dressy. For the afternoon suit it would be very appropriate.

The liking for large flowers laid flatly on the side of the brim and against the crown will be seen on a number of winter hats, and one of black velvet having a cascade of short plumes on the left had two beautiful white velvet callias on the right side, the golden stamens giving a touch of elegance not usually seen.

For theatre wear a few toques are shown which are well liked for carriage wear. Often with youthful faces the front is quite pronounced in its opening and filled with beautiful lace and flowers. The idea of the ties under the chin appeals to many wearers who can stand the effect.

Hatpins are now a most important point in millinery for as well as serving the useful they are raised to the ornamental plane. In shapes like white blocks, pear and prism like forms are seen most often. Amber beads with jet close behind, then come horn bone covered with an overlying silver or gold. Hand-painted pins are seen more frequently. The pins set with semi-precious stones are much liked and a bit of sentiment can often be thus attached to so necessary a thing as a hatpin, for the fad for a birthstone has not yet worn out.

duced "The Servant of the House," two seasons ago, has New York seen a play that has created so profound an impression as "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." Jerome K. Jerome's latest work which Eugene Robertson is using as the chief vehicle of his limited America engagement. Crowds are being turned away nightly from Maxine Elliott's theatre where the play is now running. The piece is based on a short story by the same author, published in 1904. The entire action takes place in a London boarding house, in three acts or, as the author has divided them, into a prologue, play and epilogue. The principal character is a lodger occupying a room on the "third floor back, who is a mystery to the other lodgers. In the prologue the character is named for the vices they represent. In the play proper they are designated by proper names, and in the epilogue they are transformed again into idealized types, this time of virtues. The mysterious stranger, long known to his fellow-lodgers, worked the transformation from the types of the prologue to those of the epilogue. The members of Forbes-Robertson's supporting company are Molly Pearson, Halide Wright, Evelyn Leonard, Madge Avery, Kate Garton, Mary Hally, Alison Skinner, A. G. Poulton, Allen Thomas, David Powell, Montague Rutherford and Alexander Cassy.

"The Love Cure" at the New Amsterdam Theatre continues to score successes. Henry W. Savage's pet white rabbit, which is also a medicine—seems to be just as efficacious as ever in leading him to choose operations from Europe that hit off the popular taste in this country.

At the Bijou, "The Master Key" is proving of interest to theatre goers, which is written by a young American educated in England, who has spent most of his life globe-trotting. His father dies and the young man is suddenly placed in control of vast commercial interests. He comes to a halt, but in a strike is in progress in one of his factories, and in order to learn of its cause he becomes one of the workmen. In this disguise he meets a young school teacher, from who he learns something of the lives of the people in his employ. In the cast, Orrin Johnson, Frances King, Frank Hatch, Lenora Oakford, Donald McLaren, Horace James, Justine Cutting, Bennett Southard, Mildred McNeil, Frederick Strong and Margaret and Juliet Shelby.

Money Comes in Bunches, to A. A. Chisholm of Treadwell, N. Y. now. His reason is well worth reading: "For a long time I suffered from indigestion, torpid liver, constipation, nervousness, and general debility," he writes. "I couldn't sleep, had no appetite, nor ambition, grew weaker every day in spite of all medical treatment. Then used electric Bitters. Twelve bottles restored all my old time health and vigor. Now I can attend to business every day. It's a wonderful medicine." Infalible for stomach, liver, kidneys, blood and nerves. 50c at W. A. Kuykendall's.

SCARBROUGH HAS 200 TONS OF DRIED PRUNES

Last Saturday evening L. D. Scarbrough finished drying his prune crop, and 200 tons of dried fruit is what he realized from this season's crop. The yield this year was only half as large as that of last year, owing to the heavy frost which was general throughout the country this spring, but the fruit is of an excellent quality and size, and Mr. Scarbrough is well pleased with the results of this year's crop.

Two weeks were required to gather and dry the fruit. Fifty pickers were employed, 25 men worked in the dryer and four teams were busy hauling from the orchard to the dryer. The fruit was sent to the Allen Fruit Company, of Eugene, for packing and shipment.

Mr. Scarbrough owns two driers, which have a capacity of 12 tons every 24 hours. The largest of the two was planned by himself and it is doubtful if a better arranged building of its kind could be found on the coast. Last year 400,000 pounds of prunes were dried. Part of his largest orchard is composed of young trees, and he states the light crop this year will be beneficial to them.

While Mr. Scarbrough raises other kinds of fruit, he has paid particular attention to prune raising and has been successful. He has spent years in the study of this fruit, and is one of the best authorities on prune culture in the Northwest.—Chronicle.

LANE COUNTY CATTLE RECEIVE MANY PRIZES

B. P. Inman's Herd of Brown Swiss Win Wherever They Are on Exhibition

B. P. Inman and son, Muriel, have just returned to their farm between Elmira and Junction City with their herd of Brown Swiss cattle, which they exhibited at the Seattle exposition, where they took the grand championship for Brown Swiss cows. They had 13 head in their exhibit there, and besides the grand championship for cows they won prizes for old herd, young herd and calf herd, carrying off 26 prizes in all.

This herd has taken prizes at the California and Oregon state fairs and the stock show in Portland, and Mr. Inman and son have won over 100 ribbons at the various exhibitions. They have been raising these cattle for the past four years, and they consider them very valuable stock. They have 18 head all told. Their premiums this year, including cash prizes and all, amount to over $1000. At the California state fair last year they won the silver medal for junior championship cow and the gold medal from the California State Agricultural Society for the senior championship cow. There are two medals yet to come from Seattle.

H. P. Aupperlick sent to this office a number of ripe strawberries grown on his place at Fifteenth and Willamette streets. He and his family have been eating them since they began to ripen early in the summer.

AFFIDAVITS IN COOK CASE ARE COMING THICK

New York, Oct. 16.—Four more affidavits were published today by the New York Globe in connection with the investigation of the Cook's expedition to Mount McKinley. Three were by members of Cook's party, Fred Printz, guide, Walter Miller, photographer, and Samuel Hoeber. Their testimony explains Cook and Barrill were alone together, during the period Cook claims to have reached the summit. All three affidavits have reached the summit in the short time Cook and Barrill were absent from the camp. Blankenship was stationed near Mt. McKinley at the time of Cook's expedition.

Cook Is Honored
New York, Oct. 15.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook came back to New York today as calm and smiling as ever, received the freedom of the city as conferred by the Board of Aldermen, branded as a lie the affidavit which says ward N. Barrill, the guide who says possible have reached the summit of Mount McKinley, and finally, to crown the day, fired the shot that started a 24-hour automobile race at Brighton Beach.

Cook announced tonight that he will organize a party to ascend Mount McKinley and procure the records which he says were left there on his former ascent.

LIVERYMAN BAILEY TAKES TWO PARTNERS

W. F. Haskett and J. M. Younkin, from the East, Buy an Interest in Business

Thos. Bailey, the liveryman, has sold a two-thirds interest in his livery and feed business to W. F. Haskett, and J. M. Younkin, experienced liverymen from the east. Haskett and Younkin have bought property here and expect to make this their future home. The new firm will be known as the Thos. Bailey Livery Co., and will enlarge their stock in all lines and run an up-to-date livery and feed barn.

W. A. Ayers and J. S. Walls have sold to the J. W. Seavey Hop Company 91 bales of hops at 25 1/2 cents per pound.
