SAN FRANCISCO CELEBRATES FULL REHABILITATION OF CITY

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—Rejoicing over its rehabilitation, after its almost complete destruction by earthquake and fire, San Francisco is making merry today with guests summoned from all the world to participate in the festivities of a carnival week. Ostensibly the celebration is to commemorate the discovery of San Francisco Bay by Don Gaspar de Portola, but the celebration is really more in honor of those who have rebuilt a greater city on the ruins of the old.

The warships of five nations joined with those of the United States in welcoming Portola on his arrival today, and he was greeted on shore by many thousands of citizens of all lands.

For five days the carnival spirit will reign and day and night the town will be given up to pleasure.

President Taft sent a message of congratulation and good will, and all over the world those who admire the pluck and energy of San Franciscans in reclaiming the Pacific coast metropolis from the wreckage left by the earthquake and fire are toasting the city and its future welfare.

From the opening pageant of the entrance of Portola to the city, the ceremonies attendant upon the presentation of the golden key of the city and the introduction and reception by the queen to the final merriment making on Saturday night, San Francisco will be en fête and every hour of the day and night will be crowded with incident and mighty spectacles. A cloud of flags and bunting give the city a gay aspect today, and at night an unprecedented illumination will bathe the city in a great flood of light.

Governors and distinguished men from nearly all of the western states and official representatives from foreign nations are here and are being entertained with true San Francisco hospitality. The visitors will have no reason to complain of neglect or cold treatment, as did some of the foreign representatives at the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York.

Miss Vergilia Bogue, whom the celebration committee decided to be the most beautiful girl in California, is the queen of the festival. She is the daughter of Virgil C. Bogue, the distinguished engineer who built the Arroya Railway in Peru, the famous railroad among the clouds in the Andes, said to be the greatest engineering project ever undertaken. At present he is directing the engineering works on the Western Pacific. Miss Bogue is 23, and as beautiful as she is accomplished. She has written two books, and the latest, entitled "The Strength to Yield," is said to be even more startling than "Three Weel."

It is a most sensational novel, even to the point of danger, although it does end right. An Italian artist with an American wife, are the leading characters, and their tropical love-making, according to those who have read the story, is in keeping with the Mediterranean atmosphere of the setting.

FRESHMEN WIN FOOTBALL GAME THIS AFTERNOON

The University freshmen won over the Eugene High school football team this afternoon, but not without some hard work, and not before the High school lads showed the freshmen a few tricks in the art of football.

The freshmen kicked off and after a series of fumbles the freshmen made their first touchdown after five minutes of play by line bucking. Score 5 to 0. High school kicked to the freshmen's 15-yard line, and the ball was carried to the center of the field and on toward the High school's goal, the High school getting the ball on their own 15-yard line where they failed on an on-side kick. The High school received the ball on a forward pass, then drove through the freshmen line for five yards and made yardage by line bucking. They were forced to punt and the ball was carried back to the High school's 30-yard line. The High school got the ball and made yardage. High school punted and the Freshmen returned the ball to the 20 yard line, and finally broke over the line for the second touchdown, but failed to kick goal. Score: Freshmen 10; High school, 0.

In the second half the score was 8 to 0 in favor of the freshmen, making a total of 18 to 0.

EARL F. STRONG WRITES FROM HARVARD

Former Guard Employee and University Student Tells of Old College

Earl F. Strong, who graduated from the University last June, and who was employed as reporter for The Guard for two or three years, writes to a friend from Harvard College as follows:

"Harvard appears to be all that tradition has made it be to the mind of this Western lad. Very many things here are strange—strange but not from an architect's or artist's point of view. The traditional is the key to Harvard's buildings, so far as I can see. For instance, many of the class rooms are veritable barns built two hundred years ago. The desks are mere planks, penciled and carved by a hundred classes. Some that I would hesitate to put my horse there. Yet these worn benches and desks are as carefully preserved as the gold of a bank vault. Such is also the condition of the dormitories. The rooms occupied by Emerson, or Lowell, or Rufus Choate are said to be uncomfortable and inconvenient. Yet the rent on these rooms is high, merely because of the associations.

"This appears to be the spirit of Harvard, and it is not such a bad thing, for while a proper price is put on most things, one cannot but remember that there are things of more consequence than gold or silver or precious stones.

"If you take law for your profession, or medicine, come to Harvard. The graduate departments are as good as the country has. But Oregon undergraduate life seems as profitable as that of Harvard, judging from the samples I have seen."

LAND GRAB PLOT STIRS COOS BAY

North Bend, Or., Oct. 13.—The dispatches published in the newspapers revealing the game being played in townships 24-9 and 24-10, in Coos and Douglas counties, whereby some one is preparing to pinch the most valuable timberlands in the state by placing fake settlers in corporation-built cabins, created a sensation here today among those who have taken claims in township 25-10.

This is an equally rich township, which the mysterious Daniel McDonald now seems to threaten.

A number of these intervenors today declared their intention to erect cabins on land upon which they had claims.

The intervenors have received notice from Farrin & Farrin, their lawyers at Marshfield, to erect cabins on their land as soon as possible. S. C. Winsor, the cashier of the Bank of Oregon, is urging immediate action, advising the intervenors to act in union. Township 25-10 has been filed on almost entirely by North Bend people.

If McDonald tries to erect cabins on these lands he will have his hands full, for his right to build cabins will be fought to a finish. Nothing new has developed as to whom McDonald represents. It is rumored that he was at one time president of the Western Federation of Miners, and has been the chief agent in settling several important strikes.

The story that he represents the Southern Pacific Company is not credited as much as that he represents a big lumber syndicate. A federation of unions and is playing a big game against capital.

PORTLAND BANK WRECKER MUST SERVE FIVE YEARS IN OREGON PENITENTIARY

Salem, Oct. 13.—The supreme court handed down an opinion today affirming the decision of the lower court in the case of J. Thoburn Ross, convicted of violating the state banking laws. Ross was president of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, of Portland, and the failure of the bank several years ago revealed a state of affairs which was taken cognizance of by the district attorney of Multnomah county. As a result Ross was convicted on various counts and sentenced to an aggregate term of five hundred years in the penitentiary.

The decision today reverses the extreme sentence, but affirms a sentence of five years, which Ross will now have to serve.

INDIANA ABOLISHES HAMMER THROW IN FUTURE TRACK MEETS

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 13.—What is considered a forward step in athletics has been taken by the Indiana High School Athletic Association. This is the decision to abolish the hammer throw on the ground that it is dangerous. The action comes as the result of numerous accidents connected with the event, at least one of which in this state has proved fatal. There is also a sentiment in favor of abolishing the mile run.

INSANITY COMPLAINT IS FILED AGAINST JOS. MATLOCK, JR.

He Was Bound Over in the Justice Court This Afternoon on Criminal Charge

Jos. Matlock, Jr., charged with assault with intent to commit rape upon Clara Nirschl a few nights ago, was bound over to the circuit court by Judge Bryson, of the justice court, this afternoon, after several witnesses had been examined. He is now in the county jail and his bail was fixed at $1000. A large crowd had gathered in the justice office in the city hall to hear the testimony, but before the examination began the court room was cleared, and no one except the witnesses and others connected with the case, not even the newspaper reporters, were allowed to remain in the room.

This morning, before the examination, E. D. Matlock, a brother of the accused, filed a complaint charging him with insanity. Deputy District Attorney G. F. Skipworth filed a motion to postpone the insanity examination until October 22.

Tommy Smith went to Portland this morning and from there will take the steamer for San Pedro, to join his mother.

LEBANON-CRABTREE EXTENSION RUSHED

Lebanon, Or., Oct. 13.—Work on the Lebanon-Crabtree extension of the Southern Pacific railroad is progressing rapidly. About two miles of grading has been completed and more men and teams are being added daily.

At the Hayden Bros. camp, on the Claypool farm, about 150 horses and mules and 60 men are at work; at the Dollarhide camp there are about 100 horses and mules and 40 men.

Fifty horses, with two engines and a number of teams, are preparing to construct the huge steel structure, which will be when completed one of the largest and longest bridges in this part of Oregon.

Two camps were established Sunday, one just inside the city limits, which will begin grading from the river to the present terminus of the road, and the other on the Chamberlain farm, just across the river, where a big cut will be made. The excavation for the piers is progressing, and work is expected to begin on the centre pier next Monday.
