

ABSOLUTE CURE OF SKIN ERUPTION

Broke Out on Hips and Legs—Was So Sore, Irritating and Painful that Little Sufferer Could Not Sleep—Scatched Constantly and Kept Growing Worse.

CUTICURA'S EFFECT QUICK AND PERMANENT

"When about two and a half years old my daughter broke out on her hips and the upper parts of her legs with a very irritating and painful eruption. It began in October; the first I noticed was a little red surface and a constant desire on her part to scratch her limbs. She could not sleep and the eruptions grew so sore, and yellow water came out of them. I had two doctors treat her, but she grew worse under their treatment. Then I bought the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent, and only used them two weeks when she was entirely well. This was in February. She has never had any other eruptions since. I used only half the bottle of Cuticura Resolvent and less than a box of Cuticura Soap. Mrs. R. R. Whitaker, Winchester, Tenn., Sept. 22, 1908."

SHERIFF WAS NOT THREATENED BY PRITCHARD

A wrong impression has been conveyed by The Guard's story a few days ago in which it was stated that Sheriff Bown and a deputy went to the place of J. J. Pritchard southwest of the city one day last summer to investigate the matter of the burning of two houses and the killing of a number of horses in that vicinity, believing that Mr. Pritchard's son, Ernest, had committed the depredations. The story stated that the boy threatened the officers bodily harm with a gun and that the officers withdrew, giving the impression that they were frightened out. The facts in the matter are these:

Sheriff Bown and Police Officer Fred Callison drove out to see Mr. Pritchard and interview him in regard to his son, having no warrant at that time for the young man. They wanted to enquire of his father, as in the young man's condition, believing that he committed the acts of vandalism mentioned. As they approached the barn on the Pritchard place the officers asked where Mr. Pritchard could be found. The young man stated that he didn't want to talk to the officers and that they had better go to the house and talk to his father. He had a gun of some kind which he held behind him and made no threatening gestures of any kind, all the while remaining in the barn. Mr. Pritchard was not seen at that time and the officers returned to the city. The next day Mr. Pritchard came to town and a warrant was issued for the boy's arrest but he left and never returned until a few days ago, when he was arrested and examined as to his sanity, but released.

The Guard hastens to correct any wrong impression that the story has given and is glad to give the facts as they exist in the case.

MADAME STEINHEIL ACQUITTED BY JURY

Paris, Nov. 13.—Amidst scenes of greatest confusion and excitement, which required soldiers to maintain order, Mme. Steinheil, accused of the murder of her husband, Adolph Steinheil, the artist, and her stepmother, Mme. Japy, on the morning of May 31, 1908, was acquitted by a jury in the tribunal of the assizes tonight. The accused woman showed remarkable fortitude, but weakened when she learned of her good fortune and swooned. Great crowds stormed the assize building and sympathizers paraded through the streets. The case was given to the jury at 10 minutes of 11 o'clock tonight. In the most sensational trial of French annals. The jury deliberated briefly and returned a verdict of not guilty of murder.

Verdict Spreads Quickly The words "acquitted," pronounced at 12:50 a. m., in an almost inaudible tone by the foreman of the jury, in the crowded assize court room in the Palais de Justice, spread like fire. As Mme. Steinheil stretched out her arms in mute gratitude to the jury that saved her life, the news traveled. The shout, "acquittal," issued from the lips of the hundreds of distinguished spectators in the court room. A hysterical wave of "acquittal" was swept along by the hundreds in the corridors of the Palais de Justice, and rolled—a volume of sound—across the sea of 200,000 people who jammed the courtyard of the palais and filled the surrounding streets for blocks.

All Paris Shouts Approval Cafes, hotels and residences emptied their thousands into the streets to join the mob, wild with excitement, that surged to and fro with but one object—to spread the news. Hysterical Paris, almost universally of the opinion that the "red widow" was guilty, turned a night into day to shout their approval of her acquittal. The courage, brilliancy and cleverness she has shown in her unequal fight against the French system of justice, had won the populace to her, despite its conviction that she was guilty.

MOST OF CLASS OF '09, HIGH SCHOOL, ATTENDING SCHOOL

The High school "news" has published an interesting article showing what its last year's graduates are doing and it shows that the class of '09 was one to be proud of, not only because of the high standards set by it but for the fact that a very large per cent of the class are still attending school. Out of 43 graduates 28 are attending the University of Oregon, one is at Berkeley, two at the Eugene Business college and seven are teaching school. These seven are from a class of 16 in pedagogy, two of whom are still in the High school. The class was taught by George Hug. This is 88 per cent still in school. Of the remaining five, two are at home, one clerking in a store, one craning timber, and one driving a delivery wagon. The last three are only staying out a year or semester in order to earn money to attend college. Further figures could be obtained to show how prominent the 28 now at Oregon were making themselves in student activities, from athletics to debate.

VERY LITTLE HOPE FOR THE RESCUE OF 300 ENTOMBED MEN; SMOKE AND GAS FILL MINE

Cherry Hill, Nov. 15.—Shortly before noon today hope was all but abandoned by the relatives of the three hundred or more men numbered among the victims of the greatest mine disaster in the history of Illinois. That not one man of the hundreds entombed in the St. Paul Company's mine will be taken from it alive is the opinion of those at the scene.

The rescuing party is unable to penetrate deep into the mine on account of the smoke and gases, and no bodies have been recovered. The oxygen helmets of the rescuers are useless in the smoke and gas-choked chambers. Those entering the mine said it is still afire and caving badly, and that every bit of life-giving air was exhausted many hours ago. The fact that no bodies were discovered by the rescuers indicates that when the imprisoned men realized they were penned hopelessly in a pit from which there was no exit, they rushed to furthest end of the vein, where some air might be found which would keep them alive until help came, but in all probability this meagre supply of air was long ago exhausted, in the opinion of experts who are on the ground. The St. Paul Company, owners of the mine, will provide burial for the victims, and a committee has been appointed by President Barling to devise a plan for the relief of the destitute.

SEAL THE MINE TO CHECK FIRE

Cherry Hill, Nov. 15.—Late last night the air shaft, the only opening besides the hoisting shaft, was hermetically sealed in an endeavor to extinguish the flames. All night anxious men and women surrounded the openings of the mine. The women complained bitterly, as the sealing up of the shaft seemed to cut off all air, but the mine officials say this is the only possible chance of saving the men entombed in the depths, because if the fire is successfully extinguished it will preserve the supply of any oxygen which may still be in the mine. If the fire is allowed to go on unchecked it will eat up the oxygen, and the action is considered by experts to be the lesser of two evils. Shortly after the mine was sealed an official stated that carbonic acid gas and steam would be forced to the bottom of the mine through pipes.

THE PRESIDENT LAND THIEVES OPENS THE APPLE FAIR AT SPOKANE

Spokane, Nov. 15.—President William Howard Taft, standing in the White House at Washington today, touched the electric button which formally opened the second National Apple Show in this city. A few minutes later a message of congratulation was received by Howard Elliott, president of the National Apple Show, from President Taft. The show will continue for a week. Prizes aggregating $2500 in cash and a number of other prizes, consisting of silver cups, are estimated that a million and a half apples have been brought together for this exhibition. The Northwestern states are rapidly forging to the front as apple producers, and naturally lead in the quality and quantity of exhibits, although New York, Missouri and other eastern and central states have entered good displays.

Neither one was able to raise the money and they will serve ten and five days respectively in the cooler.

NINETY DAYS FOR CONTEMPT OF U. S. COURT

Washington, Nov. 15.—Ninety days' imprisonment was the sentence imposed today upon Former Sheriff Shipp, of Chattanooga, Tenn., by the supreme court of the United States for contempt of court in failing to prevent the lynching of a negro, Edward Johnson, convicted of assault, whose execution had been stayed by the court.

Williams and Nolan were also sentenced to 90 days and Gibson, Padgett and Mayers sixty days each. Headed by the little group of six men found guilty of contempt, as they took their places before the black-robed justices, was Captain Joseph H. Shipp, the sheriff in Chattanooga, Tenn., where he offended the court. His tall, straight figure, his seamed face and his gray-streaked beard, told of his long service in the army of the confederacy.

Bowed down under his 76 years, Jeremiah Gibson, the jailer, stood with him. With bedimmed eyes he looked upon the long white locks of the chief justice, himself 76 years of age, who would soon pronounce sentence upon him—perhaps send him to prison. He and Captain Shipp had been found guilty of failing to protect a negro, waiting to be hanged on the charge of a heinous crime against a white woman, after the supreme court of the United States had stayed the execution.

Luther Williams, Nick Nolan, Henry Padgett and William Mayers, residents of Chattanooga, found guilty of participation in the lynching of Ed Johnson, formed the rest of the group. Before them all sat the officials of the department of justice. Around them in the little court room were their attorneys and other lawyers, while the three rows of seats for spectators were crowded.

The case today originated in the court's decision in March, 1906, to consider the appeal of Johnson, from a sentence upon him—perhaps send him to prison. He and Captain Shipp had been found guilty of failing to protect a negro, waiting to be hanged on the charge of a heinous crime against a white woman, after the supreme court of the United States had stayed the execution.

The finding of the court was announced in May, just before the close of the last term of court, but all the defendants entered motions for rehearing, which had the effect of postponing the case until this fall. On November 13, rehearing was denied and the six men were ordered before the court for sentence today.

In investigating the case, the supreme court found that Johnson was removed from Chattanooga to Nashville before his trial, because of fear that he would be lynched. He was brought back for the legal execution. When the supreme court stayed the execution, the court has held, Shipp made no effort and gave no orders to have the deputies or others guard the jail, but left the night jailer, Gibson, there alone. That evening a white male prisoner was removed from the upper floor of the jail, leaving only Johnson and a white woman on that floor. The court pointed out that this same man had been removed in the same way at the time of the first attempt to lynch Johnson, which had been frustrated by the removal of the negro.

Shipp lived only a few blocks from the jail, and when he was notified by the trial judge on the prosecuting attorney that a mob was at the jail, went there alone. Although for an hour in the midst of or near the mob, the court held that he did not seek to obtain information so that he could identify any of its members.

The court, in finding Shipp guilty, commented on a published interview alleged to have been had with Shipp. "The people of Hamilton county were willing to let the law take its course until it became known that the case would not probably be disposed of for four or five years by the supreme court of the United States," it quoted Shipp as saying. "But the people would not submit to this, and I do not wonder at it."

The court held that Gibson must have believed that a mob would attack the jail the night Johnson was lynched, but although he was in charge of the jail for more than two hours before its arrival, he made no effort to summon assistance to repel the attack. The testimony of Mrs. Baker, a white prisoner, was to the effect that Gibson had told her be-
