NELSON'S GAME BATTLE MAKES HIM HERO OF FIGHT INSTEAD OF WOLGAST

San Francisco, Feb. 23.—The lightweight championship battle at Richmond yesterday is the sole topic of conversation today among sporting men today. The name on their tongues, strange to say, is not that of the new champion, Wolgast, but of Nelson, whose gameness and hard struggle against inevitable defeat was the feature of the match.

The attendance at the fight is estimated at from 13,000 to 15,000, and the total receipts $37,500, which leaves a good margin for the promoters, as it is estimated that the fight cost $20,000. Nelson was guaranteed $12,000, win, lose or draw, with $1000 for expenses. Wolgast received $3750.

The moving pictures will prove valuable, and Nelson bought a 35 per cent interest in them for $750.

Nelson gives his conqueror due credit, but maintains that he trained too long and that he was down to weight too soon.

Wolgast has not made any definite plans, but indicated that he would take a long rest. The new champion justifies his cautious fighting when Nelson was apparently helpless by saying that on account of the well-known endurance of his rival, he feared to take any chances of a knockout.

FIRST WORLD'S AEROPLANE SHOW.

The distinction of having been the first of its kind in the world's history marked the recent aeroplane show held in Antwerp, Belgium. At the show were exhibited all kinds of flying machines of the heavier than air and the lighter than air varieties. Some of the best known aviators sent their machines to the show, and it attracted large crowds.

DESPERATE FIGHT WITH INFURIATED NEGRO CAUSES DEATH OF TWO YOUNG MEN

New York, Feb. 23.—Harrison Higbee and Leslie Lord, young men socially prominent in Northern New Jersey, were probably fatally wounded today by an infuriated negro in the smoking car of a Jersey Central train in which they were riding to their homes in Newark.

Accompanying Higbee and Lord were Gale Young, of New York, and his cousin, Roger Young, of Newark. Soon after leaving the station the negro, who was accompanied by another man and woman of his race, accused the young men of making remarks about the woman. Lord was about to reply, but Higbee told him to keep quiet.

"Don't you tell me to keep quiet," yelled the negro, as he leaped to his feet. "I'll quiet you," and drawing a revolver, he opened fire. One bullet entered Lord's stomach, another Higbee's breast. Gale Young and Roger Young leaped upon the negro, who continued to shoot, causing a panic among the other passengers, who stampeded to the door and behind the seats. Gale Young went down from a blow on the head, but Roger held onto the negro, who had emptied his pistol, and who was so powerful he dragged Roger Young with him to the platform. Young held on, and when the negro leaped from the train, which was going twenty miles an hour, Young went with him. In striking the embankment Young's grip was broken and the negro disappeared in the darkness.

His companion also leaped from the train and got away.

SENATOR BROWN OF NEBRASKA ATTACKS HUGHES

Takes Issue With the New York
Executive on Income
Tax

Tax

Washington, Feb. 23.—Admitting that he had a "greater respect for New York in the senate than for New York out of the senate," Senator Brown, of Nebraska, author of the income tax amendment, today joined the debating society composed of Governor Hughes on the one side and some of the members of the United States senate on the other. Mr. Brown spoke in the senate to the resolution of Senator Borah directing the senate committee on the judiciary to make an inquiry concerning the legal effect upon state securities by the adoption of the income tax amendment to the constitution. He devoted his efforts especially to demonstrating that the New York governor had been wrong in his assumption that the amendment would have the effect of laying a burden on the states.

Accepting the governor's pronouncement as an evidence of opposition, Mr. Brown declared that, in his antagonism, Governor Hughes stands alone among all the governors who have addressed their legislatures on the subject of the amendment.

"Alabama, Ohio, Virginia, New Jersey and other states have governors who not only favor conferring the power," he said, "but favor the proposed amendment which, if adopted, confers the power. It cheers our hearts to read in the press that President Taft agrees with the governor of New Jersey, who, in a message to his legislature on February 7, and since the New York message was transmitted, took immediate and direct issue with the governor of New York."

Asserting that the perpetuity of the government of this nation depends on the co-existence of state and federal authority, Senator Brown said that neither could be destroyed by an amendment to the constitution. If that must result at all, it must come through revolution and he did not believe revolution to be in sight.

BOOK-KEEPER STEALS FUNDS OF CAMBRIDGE BANK

Defalcation Wipes Out Capital and Surplus Entirely

Boston, Feb. 23.—The National City Bank of Cambridge closed its doors today by order of the controller of the currency at Washington, and a bank examiner is now in charge.

Accounts Are Short
Washington, Feb. 23.—A shortage

CHARLES EVANS HUGHES.
Governor of New York, whose views on the income tax law is attacked by Senators Brown and Borah.

of $144,000, in individual deposits, caused the closing of the National City Bank of Cambridge, according to information received by the controller of the currency. It is not known here who is responsible for the shortage.

Later—Geo. W. Coleman was the name given at the office of the controller of the currency as bookkeeper of the National City Bank of Cambridge, whose defalcation caused the closing of the institution. He has fled, and his shortage more than wipes out the capital stock of $100,000 and the surplus and dividend profits, amounting to $39,450, thus making the bank insolvent. A receiver will be appointed.

Coleman Has Skipped
Boston, Mass., Feb. 23.—George W. Coleman, bookkeeper of the National City Bank of Cambridge, closed today, has been absent from Cambridge for several days. The last heard of him he was in Kansas City.

Lionel R. Webster has resigned as judge of the Multnomah county court and Thomas J. Cleeton will be appointed as his successor. Judge Webster's long expected letter of resignation reached Governor Benson at Salem this morning, and shortly after came the announcement that Mr. Cleeton will be appointed. Mr. Webster will retire from office on March 1.—Portland Journal.

QUAKER CITY IS MORE QUIET THAN YESTERDAY

Few Cars Are Running and the Public Declines to Ride

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 23.—With the adoption of more military rule today there is much less disorder, but otherwise the street car situation has undergone little change since yesterday. Under heavy police protection the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company is operating a limited number of cars, but the service is uncertain, and the public is not patronizing the cars to any extent.

Advertisements in the newspapers by the transit company calling for three thousand men have appeared, and this is taken as indicating that the company and the city are about to make a determined effort to increase the service. If the police cannot handle the expected disorder, an appeal will be made to the government.

No effort has been made to bring about a peaceful settlement of the strike, both sides being strong in their determination to fight it out. There was little talk today of a general labor strike, and such a radical move is not looked for at present.

Serious Riot at Noon
A serious disturbance occurred at the noon hour at the Baldwin Locomotive Works, where 10,000 workmen are employed. As these men were returning to work they congregated at Fifteenth and Spring Garden streets and hooted the passengers and crew of every car that passed. A riot call was sent in and the mounted police drove the men into Broad street. While this was going on there came from the windows of the shops a hailstorm of rivets, bolts, iron bars, and other missiles. The rioting became bolder and one hundred foot police appeared, when there was a fusillade of shots, the weapons being pointed upward.

Finally the mob slowly dispersed.

Two Oregon Agricultural College students, Joseph Hallock and John Cook, have rigged up a wireless telegraph station and are receiving messages daily. They catch messages from all stations as far south as San Francisco, and north as far as the middle of British Columbia. These young men made practically all of their instruments, and constructed their station unassisted.

One day last week the real estate deals in the Rogue river valley totaled $674,400. The next day or two $100,000 more sales were reported.
