The matter of the proposition of the Great Northern railway to offer silver cups to exhibitors of farm products at the fair was discussed and thought very favorably of.

Joe Cannon Will Stay in Race for Speakership. Danville, Ill., Aug. 18.—Despite the declaration of Congressman Langworth that he will not again vote for Cannon for speaker, Cannon will continue in the race according to his own statement made to the Associated Press tonight.

He will not permit himself to become involved in the factional fight. He reserves the right to enter the thick of the fray any time if he believes his policies are endangered.

Let it be known he will do so with reluctance, as he fears a controversy may ensue with the Taft administration.

Should an issue arise it is the belief of Roosevelt's associates that he will stake his future on the outcome and will again become president. It is believed, however, that Roosevelt regards such a decision as a remote contingency.
