

SOCIETY

Many things contributed make Eugene one of the nicest home places in Oregon. It is delightfully situated for business purposes and its many excellent schools bring a better and more cultured class of people than are usually found in a place this size. Truly one of the distinctive features of Eugene is the social side. The townspeople are very hospitable and do all in their power to make the newcomer feel at home.

The Commercial club and the Merchants' Protective association have done much to bring about ideal conditions. While these associations are in no way especially organized for social purposes, they are able to meet in a business way all the men who come here, and this sooner or later leads to social relations.

However, the ladies' auxiliary of the Commercial club was organized solely for social purposes, and has taken a prominent part in assisting the club in welcoming strangers. Meetings are held every two weeks in the parlors of the Commercial club, and to these meetings every stranger is invited. Another women's club that has done much to promote the intellectual and social side of Eugene is the Fortnightly club. This group of ladies was instrumental in securing our public library; in making many city improvements and in bringing good lecturers and musicians to the theatre.

The Women's Republican Patriotic League, besides being a social and a literary club, is prominent in all affairs that affect the welfare of Eugene. Through its work and co-operation, the rest cottage was built in the public squares for the convenience and comfort of out-of-town people.

Besides these three larger clubs, there are scores of smaller circles, all devoted more or less to social life. Whist, bridge and needlework clubs meet every week or so, thus keeping the ladies of Eugene in close touch with one another. Lodges of all orders have chapters here and do much for the community at large. Through the many guilds, brotherhoods, young people's societies, etc., of the different churches, much good both spiritually and socially has been accomplished.

The greatest social activity, however, is found among the Universities and High school students. The High school, though it is in the shadow of the University, has added greatly to the society life in Eugene during the past two years. They have their receptions, dances, informal affairs, and all are carried out exceptionally well.

The University has become the home of clubs, sororities and fraternities. Nearly every student connected with the University is a member of some organization, hence he is being continually thrown with his fellow students in a social way. The formal parties given by the students are of social importance throughout the state and bring many society young people from Portland, Salem and elsewhere.

This last week three of the Eugene churches have held their annual bazaars. This has made the number of social events considerably less than it would have been otherwise, as the most earnest and faithful workers for these bazaars are Eugene's most prominent society women. The Presbyterians held their chrysanthemum show Monday evening and Tuesday afternoon. The flowers on display were beautiful in size and color. Some of them were hot-house plants but the most of them were grown out of doors and were vastly fine advertisements for the wonderful things that the Oregon climate can accomplish. The ladies of the aid society served ices and cakes both evening and afternoon, and the whole affair was a success from both a social and a financial standpoint. Mrs. Bruce Garrison was awarded first prize for the finest single blossom for the finest single blossom. The prize for the second best collection was given to Mrs. David Lane. Mrs. McCullough won the first prize for the most beautiful bouquet and second for the single flower. Mrs. Carrie Williams was awarded the prize for the second best bouquet.

On Thursday afternoon the W. R. C. needle club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Stickle and Mrs. Jennie Higgins at the home of the former, 859 Willamette street. A large flag out on the porch waved us a welcome from out of the storm and small flags and bunting made bright and cheerful the rooms inside, and steadily gave an object lesson of loyalty to principle and service. Twenty-two ladies were present and soon our new president and business director, Mrs. Ludford, passed the needles and accessories, which were soon in service. The invited guests were: Mesdames, Moses Andrews, Gates, Andrew Stavrud, Robert McCullough. Refreshments, delicious and bountiful, were served by the joint hostesses and voluntary assistants in courses, in strict violation of the law of the club, but duly appreciated and enjoyed. The lights were turned on, which called attention to the time for the car, resulting in a speedy departure for home. To the hostess a pleasant time, repeated by all present.

The eight freshmen girls at the Kappa Alpha Theta fraternity house gave a surprise birthday party on Friday evening for Miss Jane Knox. It was a strictly informal dancing party, but the girls had had clever little programs made and the whole affair was carried out in a most pleasing manner. The young men were invited to share with the Theta girls in enjoying the good time and were as follows: Messrs. Alfred Clark, William E. Lowell, Harry Black, Homer Jamison, Norton Cowden, Charles Taylor, Wallace Benson, Jack Shattuck, R. D. Fisher, Harry Stine, Claud Still, Glen Storie, Ben Chandler, Dean Walker, Ralph C. Earl, Fortmiller, Vernon Vawter, Charles Reynolds, Robert McCormack, Elmer Paine, Sidney Henderson and Ernest Brooks. Cecil Cole, Alva Grout, Mrs. McAdam and Mrs. Bancroft were the patronesses for the evening.

The Chi Omega girls are giving a formal dancing party this evening in honor of a number of out-of-town guests who are spending the week end with college friends. Those who are enjoying the hospitality of the girls this evening are: Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Snodgrass, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goodrich, Misses Ruby Crichton, Helen Cate, Mrs. Darrel Bristol, Kate Kelly, Ruth Plummer, Anna Boaler, Gretchen Klosterman, Agnes McLaughlin, Mrs. Frank Tomlinson, Mrs. A. Klosterman, Messrs. Thomas Burke, Jack Young, Earl Jay, Dick Barbour, Harold Bean, Dick Slight, Wallace Benson, Robert McCormack, Howard Rigler, Wallace Mount, Frank Jenkins, Harold Young, Harry Stine, Harold Warner, Karl Metzloff, Ralph Newland, Howard Gray, Martin Hawkins, Merwin Rankin, Lyle Brown, Colter Meek, Ralph Cate, George Otten, Ormand Rankin and William Hayward.

Mrs. P. L. Campbell entertained informally on Thursday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Sargent, of Worcester, Mass., who has been here in Eugene visiting with her sister, Mrs. H. D. Sheldon, for the past two weeks. The ladies brought their needlework and enjoyed a most pleasant afternoon. Those present were: Mrs. I. M. Glenn, Mrs. A. F. Sweetser, Mrs. H. D. Sheldon, Mrs. Sargent, Mrs. E. E. DeCoo, Mrs. Wilkinson, Mrs. Minnie Washburne, Mrs. F. E. Dunn, Mrs. M. G. Campbell and Mrs. Charlotte Zieher. Light refreshments were served at the close of the evening by Miss Lucia Campbell.

A very pretty informal dancing party was given Friday evening by the Lambda Rho girls at their beautiful new sorority house. The rooms were artistically decorated for the occasion with ferns and many-colored chrysanthemums. Those girls have been the hostesses at several dancing parties this winter and those who have been so fortunate as to be invited to them can testify to the success of them all. Mrs. Jessup and Mrs. Beals were the patronesses Friday evening.

The Thimble club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Kays at her cozy home on south Willamette street. An unusually good time was enjoyed by the ladies present and the afternoon passed all too quickly. The special guests of the club for Thursday were Mrs. S. J. Wilson, Mrs. M. C. Harris, Mrs. Jerry Horn, Mrs. E. E. Mink and Mrs. W. G. Allan. A delicious luncheon was served at the close of the afternoon by Mrs. Kays, assisted by Mrs. Alex. Cockerill and Mrs. M. C. Harris.

Mrs. Lee Travis was the hostess to the Tuesday Evening Whist club this week. Mrs. Hayes was the guest of honor and proved herself to be an adept at the evening's game by winning the first prize given the ladies. Mr. J. H. Goldsmith won the gentlemen's prize. Elaborate refreshments were served by Mrs. Travis to her guests about eleven o'clock. She was assisted in serving by Miss Nellie Beaufield.

Mr. Chester Washburne, older son of Mrs. Minnie Washburne, a graduate of the University of Oregon, with the class of nineteen five, gave a lecture on "Petroleum" in McClure hall Thursday evening. Mr. Washburne has been in the employ of the United States government in geological work for the past four years. He is spending a two weeks' vacation in Eugene.

The ladies of St. Mary's Guild of the Episcopalian church held their annual bazaar in the parish house Wednesday and Thursday of this week. It was a success from a financial standpoint, the proceeds having already netted about two hundred and fifty dollars, and Mrs. Spencer, the secretary, has not yet handed in her final report.

The Brotherhood of the Methodist church entertained the similar organizations of the other churches of the city Tuesday evening in the church parlors. A union business meeting was held, followed by the musical program. During the evening punch and wafers were served.

The Bridge club met this afternoon at the pleasant home of Mrs. C. S. Dillon. The meeting had been arranged for Tuesday afternoon, but was postponed on account of the numerous bazaars. This completes the end of the series which was begun several weeks ago.

Mr. Frank Mathews, a former Eugene boy, and Mrs. Catherine Bellers were united in marriage on November 14th at Willows, California. They will be at home to their many friends after December 1.

The invitations to the wedding of Miss Ruth Eddings to Mr. C. H. Cunningham, of Portland, on November 30th, have been issued.

The Assembly club will give its second dancing party Tuesday evening, November 22nd, at eight o'clock at Watson's hall.

SONS OF OLD ELI HOLD HARVARD TO NO SCORE

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 19.—Yale came back today sufficiently to hold a stronger team to a scoreless tie for the first time in the history of the Yale field. The Harvard team was not aggressive enough to get to the goal line of Yale, although in the last period the crimson had a good opportunity for a field goal from Yale's 15-yard line. Harvard chose to rush and lost the ball on a fumble. This was the nearest Harvard came to scoring. A few minutes later Yale, by good kicking, got the ball on Harvard's 35-yard line, and in the last two minutes of play Captain Daily failed at a field goal by twenty feet. Yale played a wonderful defensive game, but could make few gains in succession through the Harvard line. Clear followers of the game gave Yale the contest, while the Harvard followers were bitterly disappointed. An immense crowd was present. Final score, Harvard, 0; Yale, 0.

The following was the line-up of the teams:

Yale—Kilpatrick, l. e.; Scully, l. t.; Fuller, l. g.; Morris, c.; McDevitt, r. g.; Paul, r. t.; Brooks, r. e.; Howe, q. b.; Field, l. h. b.; Daly, r. h. b.; Kistler, f. b.

Assurance is had that he will do his best to make the same. President Howard Elliott, of the Northern Pacific, will be the principal speaker at the league convention. Definite plans with respect to his address have been made, the Northern Pacific magnate delaying his departure East a week and a half to attend the function of the Oregon boosters. ## JUDGE LANDIS REFUSES TO SIT IN CASE OF GOVERNMENT AGAINST PACKING TRUST

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, of the United States district court, announced to the attorneys appearing before him seeking a change of venue in the case against the Chicago meat packers, that he would be unable to hear the case, in respect of argument for or against such a course.

The packers are charged with conspiracy to restrain trade, and with having formed the so-called beef trust, in the shape of the National Packing Company.

In announcing his inability to sit in the case, Judge Landis gave no hint of his possible action on the change of venue argument. It lies within his power to refuse certification to the circuit court, and instead to transfer it, as dean of the district court, to another district court. Shortly after the announcement he put the case off until November 23 for further arguments.

Judge Landis later explained his refusal to sit in the case. "Considering the character and nature of the defendants, average and proximity in point of time, my employment as a member of this bar as agent of the department of justice, at least the beginning of the period respecting which the grand jury heard evidence, regardless of every technical proposition involved, it becomes obvious I cannot hear the case. I will send the case to my colleague in the district court, Judge Carpenter."

EUGENE HOTELS MUNICIPAL LEAGUE ALL CROWDED EVERY NIGHT ORGANIZED IN EUGENE

The fact that all of the hotels of Eugene are crowded with guests, and some of them are turning guests away is an evidence that Eugene is attracting many home-seekers and prospective investors. Never in the history of the city, say the hotel men, was there so many transients here.

At the Osburn, the new hotel, which a few knackers predicted would be a losing venture for years to come, every room in the house has been occupied nightly for the past week. Most of the guests here are traveling salesmen for wholesale houses, but there is a sprinkling of capitalists and men of more than ordinary means from different parts of the country seeking investment in lands in this vicinity.

At the Smeeds, which is conceded to be one of the best conducted hostels in the state, every one of the 42 rooms has been occupied for some time, and at the Griggs, where there are 64 rooms, the house is full all the time. Many are turned away every week on account of lack of accommodations. This is a popular stopping place for theatrical troupes.

The Hoffman, with its 30 rooms, is full all the time, and Landlord Johnson "farms" out a large number of his guests to different lodging houses about the city.

So it is with the lodging houses and many private boarding places. Strangers are everywhere and most of them are looking for homes. The Guard looks for unprecedented activity in the realty market in the early spring.

An association having for its object the development of the higher municipal life of the city has just been organized under the name of the Municipal League of Eugene. The purpose of the organization, as stated in its constitution, are four-fold: First, to investigate fully the conditions pertaining to all phases of the life of this community; second, to report its findings to the people; third, to co-ordinate the different agencies in the civic betterment of Eugene; and fourth, to effect such improvement in common welfare as seems feasible.

The membership of the league already numbers upwards of fifty, and it is expected that this number will be materially increased within the next few months. Membership in the organization is open to all men who would add to the higher municipal life of the city.

As stated in the by-laws, the work of the league is to be carried on through committees, of which there are ten in number, as follows: Public utilities, municipal organizations, finance and accounting, sanitation and public health; streets, parks playgrounds, and plans for the future city, recreation and moral welfare, education, schools and libraries, public order and safety; charities and corrections, and civic operation.

The officers of the league are as follows: President, Professor F. G. Young; vice-president, Rev. W. B. Pinkerton; secretary-treasurer, H. E. Holmquist. These officers, together with Dr. F. W. Comings and Dagald Campbell, constitute the executive committee.
