We are pioneer in the wholesale jobbing field and know what we are facing. The small but appreciable of our confidence in entering the field as the first of Eugene's jobbing concerns may be displayed by merchants in being fast in their orders. There is a good field here, and you will find that within a short time—not long—we will be followed by other important branch houses and wholesale concerns.

Mr. Glafke is an acquaintance of Manager Freeman, of the Commercial club, of some thirteen years standing, and the latter says that the Glafke organization means an era of big things which will come in the wake of this successful establishment of this house.

The establishment of the new jobbing house in Walla Walla, W. Glafke, a few years ago, was the direct cause of an increase of 108 percent in the business of the Interstate line managed by me in that city.

The announcement of the new enterprise was received with satisfaction generally. Many commented upon it as a helping wedge for the campaign Eugene will make for equal distributive rates, and eventually terminal rates upon the building of the road to Siuslaw.
