ing season's crops. The land lies south of Salem and near the town of Turner. It is level and has just enough slope for proper drainage, the slope being about 10 feet to the mile. There is not a hill or obstruction of any kind and water can be carried to every foot of it without the use of flumes.

Project Held Feasible. E. G. Hopsen, supervising engineer of the United States reclamation service, and his assistant went over the ground and passed on the riparian rights before the project was undertaken by Hartman & Thompson. In an exhaustive report he declared the project the finest to be found on the Pacific coast from the standpoint of feasibility, economy, transportation, nearness to market, fertility of soil and accuracy in delivery of water.

The acreage includes nearly seven miles of ground along county roads and it is intended to cross-section the land so that eventually there will be 25 miles of the county roads, giving each tract road frontage. Under irrigation the soil will produce large crops of small fruits, vegetables, root crops of all kinds and alfalfa, of which several crops can be raised in a season. This makes the land especially well adapted for dairying.

Canal Now Being Built. The intake from the North Santiam river is less than two miles from the nearest land to be irrigated. The main canal is now under way and the constructor is under bond to complete the whole project by June 1. As a matter of fact, water will be on some of the land by May 15.

The canal is of sufficient size to water 20,000 acres and the company is in a position to take over more acreage as soon as it is ready to handle it. It may decide to sell the water to owners of surrounding land. When Hartman & Thompson first broached the project it was intended to finance it on a smaller scale, it being thought $50,000 would handle the project. About $75,000 was subscribed the first day, so the scope of the project was enlarged and the event was increased to $100,000. Even this was over-subscribed to the extent of $24,000 and it was necessary to refuse some subscriptions and reduce others.

Among the stockholders are T. B. Wilson, L. Mills, John F. Stevens, J. P. O'Brien, W. W. Cotton, Dr. E. A. Fierce, R. M. Tuttle, W. P. Oids, W. B. Ayer, C. S. Jackson, B. S. Jesselyn, D. C. Henry, Tom Richardson, E. G. Hopsen, F. I. Fuller, John H. Hartog and Hartman & Thompson. Mr. Hartog will handle the property and have direction of the sales department for Hartman & Thompson.

LEGISLATIVE GRINDING AT STATE CAPITAL. Creation of a high school fund, into which all corporation licenses and inheritance taxes were to be diverted from the general fund and apportioned among county high schools, the state, Thompson and Mahoney, who supported the bill, changed their votes so as to move a reconsideration of the measure.

No Holidays. Against the opposition of some of the representatives from the interior counties of the state Neuner's bill, abolishing school holidays, passed the house today by a narrow margin.

County Division. Creation of new counties is taken out of the hands of the legislature and a new method of procedure is prescribed in a bill introduced today by Representative Eggleston. The bill provides that when a petition of 50 per cent of the legal voters of the territory, proposed to constitute the new county, has been filed with the secretary of state, the governor shall appoint three disinterested residents of the territory, all of whom shall be taxpayers and one of them a surveyor and civil engineer who shall make an investigation of the territory to be included in the new county. This committee is required to file its detailed recommendations with the secretary of state. If the committee reports adversely on the creation of the county, that will settle the question. If the report is favorable, however, the governor is directed to order a special election unless a general election will be held within six months. In that event the question shall be submitted at the general election. Only voters residing in the territory will vote on the question and the bill must receive 75 per cent of the total cast before the new county can be created.

Good Roads Win. Under a running fire of opposition the Good Roads association bill won the preliminary skirmish in the legislature when it passed safely through the committee of the senate in the senate this afternoon, but at the same time came out well riddled with amendments, some of them making important changes in the proposed act. Thronging the senate lobby throughout the afternoon a great delegation of enthusiasts from Portland and other points watched the proceedings with keenest interest and frequently applauded speeches with so much enthusiasm, continual reprimands from the chair were required.

The bill under consideration today was that providing for a state highway board—senate bill 42—as introduced by the senate considered the bill, section by section, after a strong fight had been put up against the first section by Barrett of Umatilla and Dimick of Clatsop. The first division arose over the creation of a highway board, and for a time it appeared as though the senate would split squarely on this proposal and thus virtually kill the whole intent and purpose of the bill.

$515,258 Sought for Varsity. State Capitol, Salem, Or., Jan. 24.—Appropriations aggregating $515,258.92 for the University of Oregon for the ensuing biennial period are asked in two bills introduced in the house today by the Lane county delegate.

CITY NEWS

(From Wednesday's Daily Guard) Dr. George Wall was called to Cottage Grove today to see Henry Lincoln, an old resident there, who is quite ill from heart trouble, complicated with ailments due to old age.

A letter was received at the First National bank yesterday from Vice-President S. B. Eakin, who is at La Grande, saying that he had not suffered from his asthma for ten days, and he intimated that he might be home in two weeks, but not to stay.

In the circuit court case of the Central Wisconsin Trust company vs. Walter S. Hidden, to recover money, a demurrer was filed by the defendant today on the ground that this court has no jurisdiction in the case. Thompson & Hardy are attorneys for the defendant.

C. C. Sturtevant, the Crow merchant, who is in Eugene today on one of his regular business trips, says snow was falling fast when he left home this morning. Crow is considerable higher than Eugene and it often snows in that vicinity while it is raining in the valley.

David Link, clerk of the local camp of the Modern Woodmen of America, today received a draft from the head camp for $2000 in favor of Mrs. Nettie Whitall, whose husband, who was a member of the order, died just a month ago and carried that amount of insurance. This is a quick return.

The Southern Sawmill company, limited, has begun suit in the circuit court against M. Kitz to recover $1625.75, together with interest at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from September 15, 1906, on a promissory note. L. M. Travis is attorney for the plaintiff.

The People's Warehouse, a corporation, today filed in the circuit court, through its attorney, L. M. Travis, a suit against Arthur V. and William G. Galt to recover $1817.78, together with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from January 9, 1908, on a bill of goods.

County Commissioner Hemphill and A. N. Striker drove to the Stafford bridge across the Mohawk today to inspect the damage recently done to the structure by high water. They found the bridge in a very weak condition, and if a freshet should occur before the damage is repaired the structure would stand a good chance of being washed away. It will be necessary to drive about 45 piling to form an abutment to protect the structure.

Dr. Joseph Schafer, of the University of Oregon, who has published several books and papers on the earlier phases of Oregon history, has just been invited to contribute an article on Oregon for the new Cyclopaedia of American Government about to be issued at New York by D. Appleton and Co. This work is under the editorship of Professor A. C. McLaughlin, of Chicago, and Professor A. B. Hart, of Harvard. The article will summarize the earlier political history of the state and enlarge upon the things that are characteristic or new in the Oregon system of government as now operated.

Mrs. Allie Lyons today began suit in the circuit court against Gert Livoree on divorce on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married in Eugene on June 1, 1909. Mrs. Lyons alleges that beginning three months after their marriage her husband as often as once a day would fall into a fit of passion, curse her and call her vile and indecent names. She also alleges that he struck her. Finally, during the month of March, 1910, being unable to stand such treatment longer, she was compelled to leave him and has since lived separate and apart from him. Greenman & Slattery are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Linn W. Nesmith, while looking through a lot of old papers which belonged to his grand-father, J. W. Nesmith, who was United States senator from Oregon in the early sixties, found some old certificates of stock in the Lake Superior Silver Lead company, one made out to General U. S. Grant and two others to Senator Nesmith, each for five shares at the par value of $100 each. Linn says he does not think they have any value farther than that the one made out to General Grant contained his signature. The certificates were made out in 1864.

Gilbert Tyson, brother-in-law of the Hampton brothers, who has been very ill at Cottage Grove, is improving rapidly, according to reports received from there.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO THE FARMER

More and Better Poultry. Portland, Or., Jan. 26.—The Oregon Agricultural College experiment station has published a bulletin on the "Productive Qualities of Fowls." It is a lecture delivered by Professor James Dryden at the poultry section of the graduate school of agriculture at Ames in July, 1910.

This bulletin seems to some of the thinking poultry raisers to be contrary to the latest and most tried ideas of the poultry world. Taking it for granted that the poultry raiser will be glad to hear the ideas of a practical poultry raiser, I have attempted to answer a few of the statements in the bulletin. Not taking exceptions to Professor Dryden, or that he isn't sincere in his statements, but he has not had quite the experience that a practical raiser and fancier has.

JUDGE THOMPSON SAYS NO GRAFT AMONG ROAD SUPERVISORS

County Judge Helmus W. Thompson, in speaking of the article in the morning paper of today, headed "County Road Work a Source of Graft," declared emphatically that the article does not at all reflect his sentiments, as he has not been able to discover cover graft or dishonesty among the road supervisors since he assumed the duties of his office. As soon as he has time to prepare the necessary figures, he promises to submit a statement showing that the wages received by the supervisors are not at all exorbitant. Judge Thompson has the utmost faith in the supervisors. He believes that none are guilty of graft and that each is trying to serve the people to the best of his ability.

NEWS OF IRVING AND VICINITY

The many friends of Emmett Zumwalt are pleased to learn he is improving for he has had a long Mr. J. O. Stockton has sold their nice little home to a gentleman from Canada. They will continue to stop in Irving until the spring when they will return to Michigan, their former home.
