

ADDITIONAL SOCIETY

Mrs. R. M. Murphy will entertain the Woman's Aid society of the Congregational church Tuesday afternoon of next week.

Miss Glee Turner was hostess to the L. S. Club Friday evening at her home on West Sixth street. A pleasant time was spent in playing games, after which dainty refreshments were served. The members of the club are Misses Christine Jensen, Lois Green, Edal Frasnich, Willetta Moore, Ruth Ray, Dorothy Nent, Olive Gibson, Mary Moore and Glee Turner. The guest of the club was Marguerite Whitton.

Complimentary to Mrs. W. S. Hadden, who is leaving Eugene to make her home in Portland, Mrs. Minnie Washburne gave a farewell luncheon at her home on East Eleventh street. The guests present were Mesdames W. S. Hadden, H. D. Sheldon, Arthur Collier, Adelaide Liddle, Frank Page, E. L. Fletcher and Miss Eaton.

Mrs. C. T. Long of the St. Francis entertained informally Thursday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Silva of Portland, who is visiting Mrs. D. E. Wildersheim. The invited guests were: Mrs. George Nettle, Mrs. Geo. D. O'Connor, Mrs. J. C. Bigger, Mrs. Queenie Howe, Mrs. George McMoran, Mrs. Laura T. Harris, Mrs. David Auld, Mrs. J. D. Buell, Mrs. Julius Goldsmith, Mrs. D. C. Freeman, Mrs. J. P. Howe, Mrs. W. L. Hayward, Mrs. Wm. Taylor, Mrs. Creed U. Hammond, Mrs. D. E. Wildersheim, Mrs. Minnie Mayers.

After cards dainty refreshments were served. First prize was won by Mrs. J. C. Bigger, the consolation by Mrs. Silva.

At Irving.

Irving, Feb. 11.—Tuesday, Feb. 7, was the 86th anniversary of the birth of W. A. Potter, and quite a number of his friends gave him a happy surprise, by gathering in early in the evening, bringing well-filled baskets of good things to eat. The time was spent in social chat, until refreshments were served, after which there was music. Mrs. Hockaday presided at the organ, and a number of guests assisted in rendering several numbers of sacred songs, closing with "Blest be the Tie that Binds." Then adieu was said, and the guests departed, having wished the host many more anniversaries. Those present were: R. W. Riley and wife, Taylor Stockton and wife, E. A. Bond and wife, J. D. Hockaday and wife, E. W. Zumwalt and wife, H. A. Small, wife and two children, Mrs. Mary Wimmer, Mrs. M. N. Gent, Mrs. Wm. Klusman, B. F. Bond and wife, Bee Huston and Leonard Huston, W. A. Potter and wife.

At Cottage Grove.

The Antlers Club entertained the ladies last night, and "It was the nicest of the season," according to the verdict rendered. A splendid musical and literary program was rendered, the bass solo by Mr. F. H. Hall being among the most appreciated. Games of various kinds were indulged in, followed by refreshments.

The Antlers Club, notwithstanding the fact that it is still in swaddling garments, has a membership of forty-five, all of whom are affiliated with some Elks' lodge. An Elks' lodge can not be organized in cities of less than 5,000 population, and therefore it is impossible for Cottage Grove to have one. The club is the nearest approach, and is appreciated by its membership. Its members hold cards in lodges scattered over the United States, yet a large majority are of the Eugene lodge. The Antlers club is purely a social organization. —Sentinel.

The Antlers Club has issued one thousand invitations for its big ball, which will be given on Washington's birthday. The Armory will be handsomely decorated for the occasion, purple and white being the predominating colors. Music will be furnished by a ten-piece orchestra. The Elks of Eugene, Roseburg, Albany, Salem and elsewhere, have been invited, besides which a large number of local invitations have been issued. —Sentinel.

At Junction City.

The banquet given by the defeated side in the contest to secure members for the Commercial Club was given in the Odd Fellows hall February 1, as stated last week. Mayor Hurlburt, captain of the defeated side, was called to Portland and was therefore unable to be present. Dr. Hicks of the committee on general arrangements, presided. The program was impromptu and was furnished largely by the losing side.

It was a large gathering and a significant one as this was the first time our citizenship assembled together for the benefit of the whole community.

C. C. Chapman, manager of the Portland Commercial Club, was invited to be present, but owing to previous engagements, was unable to attend. —Times.

At Springfield.

Yesterday being the seventy-fifth birthday of Miss Isabelle Kirkland, a number of her intimate friends planned to give her a pleasant surprise in the evening, but through some mysterious way, she got an inkling of their plans but was nevertheless made more happy by their arrival. "Auntie" Kirkland, though now in her seventy-sixth year, is fond of company, and enjoys an evening with the young folks as well as she did fifty years ago. Her usual hospitality and quaint little Scottish ways make her friends feel welcome in her home. For one of her years she is active and retains the best of health and though by the recent death of her brother, she is left alone in this part of the world, she seems cheerful and happy. She was the recipient of fifty-six post cards, besides many beautiful and dainty birthday gifts. Those present to help her enjoy the last hours of her seventy-fifth birthday were: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Young, Mrs. Chas. Hardt, Mrs. H. Keister, Mrs. Kate Parker, A. D. Ruddiman, Tom, Nellie Margarette and Jim Gorrie, and Ella and Jim Young. —News.

The Royal Neighbors of America held a very interesting meeting at their hall Tuesday night. A large attendance was present to listen to a very interesting and instructive talk on the Woodmen sanitarium at Colorado Springs, by the supervising state deputy, Rose L. McGrath of Portland. She told of the great work that was being done by the Woodmen of America and also gave the local camp some valuable instructions in camp work. The meeting was greatly enjoyed and at the close some time was spent in social conversation. —News.

FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, Feb. 11.—It may seem a little to call them so, but the newest frocks displayed in smart shops, foreign and domestic design are called "tub frocks." They are made of everything from lawn to chiffon, and in nine instances out of ten the woman who soils such a gown must needs take it to the cleaner to be refreshed unless she is willing to have it ruined. Exquisite embroideries, done by hand, and dainty laces, hand knitted are all included in the attractive scheme of these dresses. They are every what as costly as the non-tubable robes, and the only hope for the woman with little to spend is the old hackneyed one—that of reproducing the effects of imported frocks in less expensive materials and trimmings.

Thanks to the manufacturers, that is not a difficult task for a new dress, there satin or silk, linen or chiffon, velvet or brocade designed that can not be imitated by manufacturers in much less expensive fabrics. True there are some colorings that same not be reproduced in cheap materials but when they are combined with their tones by the imitative art of the colorist, they are indistinguishable enough among fashionable laymen or laywomen to tell the difference. So that the woman who must spend just so much upon her spring wardrobe and wishes to have the very newest colorings, will be sure not to cling to one-tone effect when she can get the fabrics which show up such effect at their best.

White marquisette is coming to the front. It will be used extensively for the spring and summer frock as it is being used for the mid-season gown. It is attractive and youthful, capable of giving service all through the summer and charming for South-east house wear now. It can be trimmed with machine embroidery—but whisper it softly—and look quite as handsome as the real thing fresh from the ateliers of gay Paris.

Listen to this girlish confession in white marquisette, which need not have machine embroidery if madame be out of the "I like the real thing or nothing" mentality. Soft ruchings of French net make a handsome trimming and in addition can be employed in no end of novel ways. The skirt of picturesque afternoon frock is trimmed at the bottom with three bias folds of white satin, stitched about six inches apart, or more precisely, dividing the distance between the knees and the hem in three parts. At the end of each band of satin is an edging formed of white satin cord.

Running down the side of the skirt, on either side of the front is a very scant puffing of white French net. This is shirred along either edge, the outer edge being finished with a ruching of the net. Just about the knees, the trimming rounds away, going to the back and outing an apron tunic. The skirt is gauged to the fitted blouse, slightly above the normal waist and the bodish is trimmed with a fish of its own material bound with satin and detachable frills of net edged with lace, which turn back from the front over the fish drapery. The neck is low, just moderately, finished with a satin cord and shows an embroidered medallion set in at the head of the vest of shirred net. Above the waistline at the front there is a girlish effect formed of three bias folds of satin. As a matter of fact, there is no girlish to the frock—another expression of youthfulness from the Paris fashion marts.

The tendency to run the skirt up past the normal waistline is pronounced among the cottons and linens as elsewhere, but while it may be readily enough worked out in very sheer, soft materials it presents rubbing difficulties in the heavier stuffs such as linens, which must be shaped smoothly and plainly over the waist curve and yet would be quite out of style if stretched tightly as the girlish skirts one wore. Attached to the bodice or to the top of a wide, firm tightly fitted inside girlish skirt, these skirts stay in place snugly enough, but washing and ironing are likely to injure their shape.

Given a good pattern of a simple, straight and conservatively narrow skirt and a pattern of an equally simple waist of the Magyar or peasant style, it should be an easy matter for the home seamstress to duplicate any one of a host of pretty one-piece models in the new materials. Luckily such patterns are the stock in trade of any one of a number of places where such aids to dress-making are the stock in trade, and given the body of the frock, the little details which give individuality and cachet to such a dress are a matter of idea rather than of execution.

There are women who object to the all-in-one sleeve and bodice of Japanese, peasant, Magyar or whatever other design one might wish to call it, and a splendid substitute is to be found in a shoulder band trimming running down into the armholes, and many likeable frock and blouses show developments of this idea. Another variation of the peasant sleeve, too, is to lay the blouse in a series of tiny tuck or plaits just over the armhole, where the sleeve is joined to the bodice.

Some form of simple trimming runs down the front of bodice and skirt on most of the one piece linens. Often only buttons and buttonholes are used and the frocks buttoned up the front. Again the buttons are used for ornamental purposes only and the buttonholes or loops are embroidered or simulated in some way.

SPRINGFIELD

ELECTRIC PLANT

Springfield, Feb. 11.—A blaze originating from the breaking of an insulator in the Oregon Power plant here last evening, did a small amount of damage, but threatened to destroy the plant and leave Springfield and the whole upper Willamette valley without light or power. With the construction of the new brick plant, the machinery has been housed in with a framework of light material and tar paper which is very inflammable. When an insulator broke, the power wires came in contact, and with a bright flash the west side of the building sprang into flames. Water could not be applied until the power was cut off. The new plant building that is under construction will be absolutely fireproof. There will not be a piece of wood in the whole structure, the floor is to be of concrete, and the window sashes of steel. The roof is also of a fire-proof material.

SPRINGFIELD NOW

HAS PAVING CRAZE

Springfield, Or., Feb. 11.—Springfield is the latest of Oregon cities to have the paving fever, and it is proposed at once to pave the entire length of Main street from Mill street to Seventh. The matter has not yet come before the common council but the general impression gained from the property owners is decidedly in favor of the improvement. Those favoring the paving declare that a canvass of property owners had shown over half of the owners of the street are in favor. A petition will at once be circulated. It seems that those who do not have buildings on their property, are even more in favor of the improvement than the others. The street was macadamized only a year ago at a considerable expense to the city, and is in a very good condition. It is thought that this foundation will be available for the bitulithic surface.

PROSPECTS FOR BRASS

BAND ARE GOOD

Springfield, Feb. 11.—At the meeting of the Springfield commercial club last evening, it was decided to establish a Springfield band, and a series of band concerts for this summer. It is planned to engage a band leader from Eugene who will instruct the local musical talent. In the spring and during the summer free band concerts will be given in the park on Sundays, which will provide entertainment for not only the Springfield residents, but those from Eugene who will come over on the street car. The band will be available for all commercial club events, and it will be financed by this organization. The city has sufficient material for a large band. The boys will meet and reorganize next Thursday.

LA GRIPPE AMONG

FARMERS, TOO

Springfield, Feb. 11.—An epidemic of la grippe is prevalent among the farming sections, that may prove fatal in a number of instances. The number of serious cases is alarmingly large in the rural and lumbering centers about this city. The sickle is also very prevalent in this city. Among those who are dangerously ill are Mrs. Callison, who is over 90 years old, at Pleasant Hill; C. W. Rychar, who has just recovered from a serious illness, has suffered a relapse, and is very low; Mr. Haynes, father of S. W. B. Haynes, of Eugene, is very sick at his home in Springfield; Mr. Giles, living on Mill street, is also very sick.

NEWS OF JUNCTION

CITY FROM THE TIMES

B. F. Wrenn has been appointed marshal to succeed J. W. Starr and assumed the duties of the office Wednesday.

H. J. Peterson who arrived here Tuesday from Wisconsin, has purchased the half lot on Front street where the meat market is located, from L. E. Cook, consideration, $1500.

The material for the new steel tank arrived and workmen will be here to do the work. The tank will be dug east of the present tank and it will be a monster. It will be twenty-five feet across and as deep as it can be made, perhaps 40 feet if the walls can be retained.

The Oregon Power company is installing a model street lighting system in Junction City. The lighting will be the series tungsten and the series are lamp system, all lights being operated from one switch. The cost of the new system will be $25,000. The entire street lighting has had to be changed, much of the work being completed. The work has been stopped awaiting the arrival of the new lamps which will be more ornamental and will give a brighter light. The company is making the change without cost to the city. —Times.

Bryant Bros. of Smithfield, have sold their stock of groceries, dry goods and notions to J. F. Freeman. Bryant Bros. will continue in the hardware and feed business in their other building at that place.

REST AND HEALTH TO MOTHER AND CHILD. Mrs. Winkler's Soothing Syrup has been used for over SIXTY YEARS BY MILLIONS OF MOTHERS for their CHILDREN with PERFECT SUCCESS. IT SOOTHES THE CHILD, SOOTHES THE GUMS, ALLAYS ALL PAIN, CURES COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHEA. It is absolutely harmless. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winkler's Soothing Syrup," and take no other.

LOGGING CAMPS TO

HAVE READING ROOMS

Portland, Feb. 10.—Logging camps of the Pacific Northwest will be equipped with reading and recreation rooms so that the lonely woodsmen will have some means of amusement and instruction. If the few quarters are practically all the camps in the Columbia river basin will be provided with similar accommodations.

The proposal has been made to the Columbia River Loggers' association the various camps be supplied with these conveniences for the men to while away their hours in the woods when not at work and it is expected to establish such recreation rooms for a few of the largest camps and see how the plan works. If the few quarters are appreciated by the men, it is likely practically all the camps in the Columbia river basin will be provided with similar accommodations.

The expense of the experiment will be born by the camp operators, who feel that much good can be accomplished in this way. By furnishing the loggers with higher ideals and some means of relieving the monotony of life in the woods, they think they will secure more efficient as well as dependable workmen.

STATE MILITIA MAY

BE PAID FOR DRILL DUTY

Washington, Feb. 10.—Major General Wood, chief of staff, has conferred with Chairman Steenerson, of the house committee on military affairs, regarding his militia pay bill. This purposes to add pay for drill duty to other compensations.

The war department proposed an amendment for rigorous restriction on the militiamen by requiring their inspection by army officers, making them agree to serve two years, if called upon, and making their refusal punishable by court martial on the charge of desertion.

The committee favored the bill, but refused the amendment, owing to national guard interests which objected, pointing out that the president might call them into service, but if the governor failed to communicate the call they, under the terms of the measure, still would be liable to punishment for desertion.

APPROPRIATION

FOR UNIVERSITY

PASSED THE HOUSE

Special to The Guard. — Salem, Or., Feb. 11.—After a discussion lasting an hour and a half, the University appropriation bills passed the house at noon by nearly a five to one vote. The fight against the University was led by W. Lair Thompson, of Lake; T. Mahoney, of Morrow, and W. H. Hollis, of Washington.

News of the Labor World

San Francisco gets the next big meeting of the typographers in August.

The eight carpenters' unions of Milwaukee are planning to spend nearly $5000 in organizing work this spring.

President Gomper, of the American Federation of Labor, has addressed communications to labor councils all over the country in behalf of the 9900 cigar makers on strike for the past six months at Tampa, Florida. He is asking the unions affiliated with labor councils to contribute to the strike fund.

The labor unions of California have been asked to support a bill presented to the state legislature asking for the establishment and maintenance of a state training school for girls. The purpose of the bill is to separate the girls from the boys in the reform schools. It has the support of the workers in the juvenile courts.

The shortest hours of any union workmen in New York city are those of the calisson workers, who have just signed an agreement with the Employers' association for 1911. Three hours a day with thirty minutes off for luncheon and wages of $5.00 a day is the stipulation for the men who work under the air pressure of "three atmospheres" (about forty-five pounds).

All the strike talk that is heard from mail clerks in the Northwest is blamed upon Postmaster General F. H. Hitchcock. The situation is due to Mr. Hitchcock's dismemberment of the service of H. Thurston, secretary of the recently organized brotherhood of railway mail clerks, because he sent a protest to Mr. Hitchcock on direction of the brotherhood against the discharge of clerks who are active in pushing their grievances against the government.

In Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin the clerks want shorter hours, more pay and expenses. Recently they sent their request to Mr. Hitchcock, who replied by discharging a number of clerks and increasing the work and hours of the others. Those who are in a position to know, say that Uncle Sam is in danger of a strike by resignation of the railway mail clerks in the Northwest.

The wage earners want reciprocity with Canada.
