WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

The democratic nominee for president is little known in political circles, having entered public life only about six years ago, when he was made the nominee for congress by the democrats of the first Nebraska district. He is by odds the youngest man ever nominated for the office of president, being eleven years younger than General Grant was at the time he received the nomination of the republican party in 1868, and represents the young blood of the country.

Bryan was born in Salem, Marion county, Ill., March 9, 1860, entered public school until 15 years of age, spending his vacation on the farm; in the fall of 1875, entered Whipple academy, at Jacksonville, Ill., in 1877, completed a classical course and was graduated with the highest honors in 1881, attended Union college of law, at Chicago for two years, during which time he was connected with the office of ex-Senator Lyman Trumbull. Began the practice of his profession at Jacksonville; removed to Lincoln, Nebraska, October 1st, 1887, and became a member of the firm of Talbot & Bryan. He never held an elective office prior to his election to congress. Was elected to the 52d and re-elected to the 53d congress as a democrat, receiving 13,784 votes against 13,644 votes for Allen W. Field, republican; 86 votes for R W Maxwell, populist, and 2409 votes for Jerome Shamp, independent.

Bryan exceeds by sixteen months the age limitation placed by the constitution upon presidential candidates, it requiring the man must be 35 years of age.

After his declination to run again for congress from Nebraska, Byran purchased an interest in the Omaha World Herald, and has since been considered its editor on financial and political questions. His refusal to become a candidate for congress, the third term was owing to his bitter disagreement with President Cleveland on the money question. He issued a manifesto arraigning Cleveland's administration, and since then has been a bitter opponent of the president.

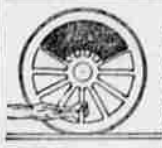
As an orator Bryan has few supperiors in the United States, and having traveled extensively over the country, is pretty generally known, either personally or by reputation, to the people. As a candidate for president on a free silver platform, Bryan is a thoroughly logical candidate, he having been one of the ablest advocates of the white metal in the country.

Whatever differences of opinion that have arisen in the party on the money question and other issues of importance, there can be none as to the ability and integrity of the candidate. Whatever questions that will arise between now and election day in regard to the issues on which the campaign shall be conducted, there can be none as to the fitness of the nominee to become the standard bearer of democracy on a free silver platform. With his eloquence and his youth Byran represents the vigorous new life of the West. More than this his nomination, is the acknowledgement of the fact that the seat of power in the democrat party has removed from the Atlantic coast and has come west of the Mississippi river; too that the energy and impulsiveness of the West will outweigh the conservatism of the East in the councils of the party. Bryan is young, vigorous and impetuous, representing true Western blood, while his running mate, Arthur Sewell, comes from "way down East," is conservative and staid, though not a relic of antiquity, and together they make a happy combination of brains and energy, fitting representatives of democracy as outlined by the Chicago convention.

The Eastern goldbug democrats talk of nominating another ticket.

It is likely that the headquarters of the democratic national committee will be changed from New York to Chicago at an early day.

Wm. J. Bryan and Arthur Sewell, the democratic nominees will be officially notified of their nomination in Madison Square Garden, New York City, in about three weeks.



Did you ever wonder what that heavy weight on one side of a locomotive-wheel was there for? Anyone who understands mechanics knows the need of a counter-balance to equalize power and keep the machinery going with a steady even motion. Without it the machinery would wrench itself out of shape. It is the same way with the machinery of the human-body: it needs to go on steadily and regularly to be in good health—not by fits and starts. The sudden wrenching medicines which people sometimes take to overcome constipation, give a violent strain to the intestines which weakens them, so that the costiveness is afterwards worse than before.

What costive people need is a natural laxative like Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets which are powerful without being violent. They move the bowels gradually and comfortably but surely. You can regulate the dose—one, two or three "Pellets"—exactly as you need. They strengthen the intestines to do their own work, so that after their movements have become regular they keep on naturally of themselves.

The "Pleasant Pellets" gently stimulate and invigorate the liver to throw off biliousness; and tone up the stomach to secrete the digestive juices, and overcome dyspepsia. The entire digestive, or alimentary, tract is put in motion in the regular steady way of nature and health. This is what makes the "Pleasant Pellets" so immensely superior to the numerous purging pills which wrench and weaken the system. Druggists may get more profit out of those other pills but you don't.

The "Pleasant Pellets" are tiny sugar-coated granules—40 or more in a little one-inch vial tightly corked, hence, always fresh and reliable.
