FRANK ATKINS HEARD FROM

Mining Klondiker Returns to His Anxious Friends—At Bridal Veil.

Portland Telegram Jan. 20. Frank Atkins, who was thought to have been foully dealt with, is all right, and is now visiting with friends at Bridal Veil.

The article in last night's Telegram brought out this information: Atkins has been moving about very quietly and unostentatiously since his return from the Northland last October, visiting his mother and other relatives at Eugene, and taking in the glories of the Golden Gate and other points of interest in the land of sunshine.

He returned from the Klondike, after having sold out his mining interests there for a round $40,000. The rigor of one winter in the Arctic zone was quite enough for Atkins. Besides, he was in ill health and homesick, and, as he had "money to burn," as it were, he quietly returned to his old haunts for the winter, but has made every preparation to return to the Klondike on the steamer Oregon next Sunday.

Atkins brought three fine dogs from Eugene, and has purchased others that will be delivered here by the time he sails. In outfitting for another siege he will purchase fully two tons of supplies, a good sled, ice climbers, warm furs as clothing, and such articles as, by experience, he has discovered of greatest utility and easiest to handle.

Safety in Buying Seeds.

There is no other way to measure the value of seed than by the value of the crop. A good crop simply cannot come from poor seed. Second-rate seeds will waste good land, good fertilizer and good labor, and the crop won't pay expenses. Now, as the practical farmer cannot afford to waste time testing seeds to find out whether they are true to name, sound and clean, it stands to reason that the only safe way to buy seeds is to seek the protection of a name that has stood for reliability in the past. The great seed house of D M Ferry & Co, of Detroit, Mich, has sold seeds all over the United States and Canada for the last forty-two years, and the steady growth of the business is a sure indication that Ferry seeds have given satisfaction. Ferry's Seed Annual for 1898, a standard guide for farmers and gardeners, containing much valuable information, is sent free to persons writing for it.

A Splendid Production.

The Waldorf Company played in Salem Wednesday night. The Statesman says of the performance:

Rare talent was shown at the Reed last night by the various members of Janet Waldorf's company, in the production of "The Hunchback," it being one of the best and most successful performances ever seen in the Capital City. The audience, which greeted Miss Waldorf, the new star in an old play, was not so large as the work of the actors merited, but every person present made up in appreciation for this defect, and every one of the five acts of the celebrated comedy was cheered to the echo. The success of the play was such as to insure a reproduction of it sometime in the future in this city, when a warm reception will certainly be given Miss Waldorf and her talented company.

The star plays the difficult part of Julia to perfection, showing great ability and a thorough understanding of the character portrayed. Mr McVay, as Master Walter, has also an extremely difficult to carry, but he did it so well last night as to earn the undying admiration of the audience. All the rest of the members of the aggregation pleased the audience very much, and while the play presents little that excites the risibilities of the theatre goers, still the excellent and faithful work of the company pleased all who witnessed last night's production of "The Hunchback."

At the opera house Monday night in Ingomar, and Tuesday night in The Hunchback. Seats on sale at the Corner Drug Store.

ALL NOT GOLD THAT GLITTERS.

Hardships in the Far Northern Gold Mines.

A letter from a friend to a Portland policeman, published in the Telegram says: "I am not thinking of working for wages, which are $10 a day, or $1 per hour and board yourself, if you can obtain work," says the writer. "There is not what one may call a restaurant in town, on account of the scarcity of grub. It costs a man $7 a day to live, cooking his own stuff. If you have no provisions, you must take to the ice; either to Dyea, 550 miles distant, or Fort Yukon, 300 miles away, where the steamers are stuck, making the scarcity of grub here. I am told that flour recently sold here for $150 per sack, but I don't know it to be so. Yet I have been offered $75 a sack, and other articles are along the same line.

"Any one intending coming here had better calculate that he is about entering upon a trip the hardships of which are beyond his imagination. Further, he must consider the large number of men already here seeking wealth and what he will do when he gets here.

"When you go prospecting you must sink holes from 18 to 25 feet in depth, and thaw out the ground with fire, which makes it slow work. It requires a month or more to sink a hole, and then you may strike pay dirt, and you may not. After you have sunk three or four such holes your grub is gone, and even if you have money you can't buy any more. Money is no good here.

This country is not what it is pictured to the outside world. It is true some men have done well here, but you can see men who have been in this country 10 years, and are yet poor. So you can imagine the chances one takes in coming here.

"Tell all my friends that if any of them intends coming here, to come 'well heeled' or not at all."

PREMIUMS.—At the Portland poultry show a portion of the premiums were awarded yesterday. In Barred Plymouth Rocks, A Wilkins, of Coburg, took second premiums for both cock and hen.

Drying Potatoes.

Scores of driers in the Puget Sound country are now busily engaged drying all kinds of vegetables for the great North, and Salem has also caught the fever says the Journal. H G Sonnenmann, the State street grocer has contracted for the Stevens dryer east of the city, and will begin at once putting up a superior article of dried potato by the latest and best process. The potatoes are first boiled and peeled; then they are forced through a colander of sieve, after which the product is dried, and comes out of the kiln looking very much like fire-crumbled stone. This is put up in 25 pound screw-top cans and thus placed on the market. Mr Stevens has made some successful experiments, and will no doubt be able to turn out a superior commercial article. This kind of spuds sells at 20 cents a pound in Seattle and other outfitting points, and forms a large portion of every Klondiker's stock of provisions.

The Sultan and Our Missionaries.

The Porte has demanded the recall of two American Missionaries from the province of Aleppo, on the pretext that their mission is likely to cause disturbances. "The sick man of Europe," is as unreasonable as his political health is feeble. A bright contrast to his obstinacy and stupidity, the people of America are acknowledging far and wide the beneficence of the mission of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, namely, to relieve and prevent malaria, rheumatism and kidney complaint, chronic dyspepsia, constipation and liver trouble. The nervous, the weak and the infirm derive unspeakable benefit from its use, and it greatly mitigates the weakness and infirmities which are specially incident to advancing years.

SILVER MEN GAIN A POINT.

The Teller Resolution Taken Up By a Decisive Vote.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Vest moved to take up the Teller silver resolution in the senate, and Lodge moved that the senate go into executive session. The latter motion was defeated by a vote of 72 to 39. The silver men voted solidly no, and were aided by several Western republicans and Quay of Pennsylvania, who also voted no. No democrats voted in the affirmative. The Teller resolution was then taken up by a vote of 41 to 25.
