NAME AS HERE.—Thursday's Roseburg Review: "J W Keane talked quite a number of people in Roseburg this week. He represented that he was getting out a hotel door card and collected several small amounts for advertising and then skipped out without having the cards printed. A man by the name of Sims did the same thing in Eugene a few days before—probably the same fellow. He ought to be put behind the bars."

DIED.—B F Moore of this city, received a telegram this morning announcing the death of his father, Freeman A Moore, at Drain last night. The deceased formerly resided in this county, and was aged about 75 years. He leaves a wife and a number of children. B F Moore and L B Rowland, the latter a brother of the deceased's wife, went to Drain on the 2:10 local.

BACK TO PENDLETON.—Wednesday's Pendleton East Oregonian: "Mr and Mrs P E Snodgrass and Elmer Cleaver arrived from Denver this morning. Mr and Mrs Snodgrass went to Denver a week or two ago, on account of Mrs Snodgrass' poor health and Mr Cleaver, Mrs Snodgrass' brother, was summoned to attend her."

LOCAL ITEMS.—Quite a number of local items will be found on the second and third pages of the GUARD. In fact every page of the GUARD is now used for local news.

PAPER SOLD.—Horace Mann has sold the Cottage Grove Messenger to C J Howard, of Eugene. Jack is a first-class newspaper man—a practical printer, and an able writer. The GUARD again welcomes him to the active newspaper field, and we assure the people of South Lane that he will be an able representative of their rights. When he takes active control of the paper, next week, he intends obliterating the present name of the paper and will call it the Bohemian Nugget. He is entitled to a good patronage, and will render good service for every dollar received. This is one of his first items: "The editor of the new paper has taken up his abode with his mother and sister in the Heston house, and now all the neighbors are talking about locking up their chicken houses and woodsheds."

"TENNESSEE'S PARTNER"
Very few modern dramas have the dash and vigor, fun and pathos of the best of all comedy dramas, "Tennessee's Partner." This play was one of the big road successes of the past two seasons. The company which will present it at The Parker is strong in every particular and has not one weak member. The tour is directed and managed by Arthur C Alston, who has in former seasons brought several prominent stars and productions here. Wednesday, Jan 18. Prices, 75 and 50 cents.

FAREWELL TO H A BARR.
The farewell party given at the Parker last night in honor of H A Barr who leaves on the 15th inst to return to his Klondike mines was largely attended, about 125 people being present. The evening was pleasantly passed in music, games and dancing.

A lunch was served, complete in every detail, adding much to the pleasure of the evening.

Mr Barr has hosts of friends who wish him the greatest success in his business ventures of the frozen north, and hope for him a safe and prosperous return.

MILLER BROWN.
A very pleasant wedding affair took place last evening, Thursday, at the hour of 8:30 p m, at the residence of Mr and Mrs Aloha Brown on the corner of 5th and Charnelton streets, in this city, the high contracting parties being Mr Robert Hugh Miller and Miss Edith Eunice, daughter of Mr and Mrs Brown, the Rev R C Brooks of the Congregational church officiating.

The residence was handsomely decorated for the occasion with Oregon grape and flowers, while the parlor where the ceremonies took place was additionally ornamented by a large marriage bell becomingly arranged in one corner of the room composed of holly grape and mistletoe boughs.

At the hour of 9 p m while the grand wedding march from "Tannhauser" was played by Miss Ella McAlister, the wedding party led by Rev Brooks entered the parlor followed by Mr and Mrs Geo D Linn, and Miss Myra Brown handsomely attired in white as bridesmaid, who took their places at the right and left of the "Bell."

The bride carried in one hand a very handsome bouquet of white hyacinths, roses and maiden hair ferns. Leaning upon the arm of the groom they advanced to the bell and faced the guests assembled in the parlor.

The Rev Brooks in his usual impressive manner pronounced the words that united for life the happy pair, and then raised the hearty congratulations of the many assembled, and general good cheer prevailed for half an hour when all were invited to the dining room to partake of a dainty repast served seated at table. The dining room was tastefully decorated with grape and smilax and the bride's cake a handsomely ornamented and fine looking "center piece" adorned the table. After a joyous hour spent in the dining room the guests repaired to the parlor and at 11 p m bid the happy couple bon voyage, as they departed for their home on Oak street which was made ready by the groom for the reception of his bride.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white organdie elaborately trimmed with white satin and point lace, the lace being the work and gift of her girlhood and intimate friend Mrs George D Linn.

There was a large number of beautiful and costly presents among which were many useful gifts which will assist in making their new home pleasant.

About fifty of the friends and relatives of the happy couple were present to cheer them on in their voyage.
