BOER ARMS AND MARKSMANSHIP.

"I was very much interested in the Boer rifle and their weapons," said Archibald Forbes, the first of living war correspondents, who was with Sir Evelyn Wood's column in South Africa in 1879-80. "They are marvelous rifle shots. They shoot their antelope and other game from the saddle, not apparently caring to get nearer to their quarry than 600 to 700 yards. Then they understand the currents of air, with their effect upon the drift of a bullet, and can judge distance as accurately as it could be measured by a skilled engineer. They can hit an officer as far as they can discern his insignia of rank. Sir George Colley, the commander in South Africa, was killed at distance of 1400 yards at Majuba Hill."

One hundred a fifty years ago the Dutch farmer, with his five-foot barrel roer (a smoothbore gun carrying all sizes of shot well of from one to two ounce bullets in calibre), was a dead shot within the limitations of his weapon. Every Boer is a hunter. He has to be. His farm is large, anywhere from 15,000 to 25,000 acres. The country is sparsely settled. The lion and other small cats and the hyena were the natural enemies of his flocks and herds. They had to be kept down with the roer and later with the rifle.

The Boer weapon that has done such execution is the sporting Mannlicher, a German arm, perhaps the most powerful weapon of its calibre and weight in the world. The military Mannlicher is used in the armies of Austria, Holland, Greece, Brazil, Chile, Peru and Roumania. The ideal Mannlicher is the sporting rifle known as the Haenal model. It is a beautifully finished arm, weighing about eight pounds and costing in South Africa 200 German marks. The rifle is thirty inches in barrel, the carbine twenty-four. It has a pistol grip and sling straps and is hair-triggered. Its calibre is .30. This rifle has an extreme range of 4500 yards and a killing range of 4000. At that distance the bullet will go through two inches of solid ash and nearly three of pine, quite enough force to kill if the bullet struck a vital part. At twenty yards it will shoot through fifty inches of pine.

A GREAT NEW YORK HOTEL.

New York City boasts of some magnificent hotels, among which the Waldorf-Astoria takes a leading place. The magnitude of the business of this hotel can be appreciated from the statement that its kitchen alone furnishes employment to 350 people. Another 150 employees find work in the engine rooms of the hotel. These 500 attaches, together with the great number of waiters, clerks and attendants engaged in the upper apartments of the house, make up an army of menials that no hotel in the West today would undertake to accommodate.

The New York World is authority for the statement that the single item, the breaking of crockery and glassware, in the Waldorf-Astoria involves an annual expenditure of $50,000.

The president has refused to pardon the oleomargarine dealers who sold that substance as butter. Good for the president! If anyone wants to eat oleomargarine, he has a right to do so, but people should not be deceived into eating it when they think they are eating butter.

The Northwest baseball league does not materialize. The national game is under a cloud at present by reason of the popular favor having veered to football. The pigskin kickers draw the crowds, get the smiles of beauty and the plaudits of the public.

The senate committee on pensions has branded the bill to pension ex-slaves as a deliberate swindle, promoted for that purpose solely, and without the faintest chance of becoming a law.

And now a harsh parent has obtained an injunction forbidding a certain young man to marry his daughter. This injunction business is getting a little too prevalent.

Walking to Work

Is the only way in which the business woman, employed in store or office, can get open air exercise. It is a wonder that it has not grown more popular, and this develops a tendency to "weak lungs." Whenever the life is in pain in breathing, soreness of the chest, obstinate cough, bleeding from the lungs or any other symptoms of disease of the respiratory organs, begin the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and continue the use until cured. Ninety-eight in every hundred (who have used "Golden Medical Discovery" for lung trouble) have been perfectly and permanently cured.

"I was very sick indeed," writes Mrs. Mollie Jacobs, of Jefferson, Kent Co., Delaware, "and could not get on my feet. I had a cough, spit blood, and was very short of wind. I had pains in my chest and right lung, and had to stop every few minutes. I took your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' and in a week I could not sleep a room, now I can sleep as soundly as I did when I was a child. I feel like a new person." Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure heart-burn.

Having a Great Run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Manager Martin, of the Pierson drug store, informs us that he is having a great run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sells five bottles of that medicine to one of any other kind, and it gives great satisfaction. In those days of a gripple there is nothing like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to stop the cough, heal up the sore throat and lungs and give relief within a very short time. The sales are growing, and all who try it are pleased with its prompt action.—South Chicago Daily Calumet. For sale by W. L. DeLano.

If you will go look at the display of optical goods of all kinds in Joe Luckey's window you will believe Dr. Lowe's statement that he has the largest and most varied assortment of spectacles, eyeglasses, magnifiers, etc., at all prices between Portland and San Francisco.

It has been demonstrated repeatedly in every state in the Union and in many foreign countries that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain preventive and cure for croup. It has become the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher, of Liberty, W. Va., only repeats what has been said around the globe when he writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for several years and always with perfect success. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but that it is a sure cure for croup. It has saved the lives of our children a number of times." This remedy is for sale by W. L. DeLano.
