Crater Lake.

New Oregon people are aware of the fact that a wonder of the world exists in the heart of the Cascade range of mountains in Southern Oregon. Imagine a vast pit six miles in diameter, with almost perpendicular sides 4000 to 6000 feet in height, and you have Crater Lake.

For centuries this lake was known to the Indians under the name of Llao Rock. It was viewed with fear as an abode of evil spirits, and was the source of many legends. Crater Lake was first seen by white men in 1853. Previous to that its existence was unknown, except to the Indian tribes near it. It was first explored in 1872 by a party of four, Captain Applegate being one of the number. Since then it has been several times visited by different parties of geologists—the depth of the lake has been ascertained in many places, and the island and its crater have been explored.

All these various explorations have demonstrated that many thousand years ago an enormous volcano stood where Crater Lake is, and with a height possibly equal to that of Mt. Shasta, 14,000 feet, and that the vast accumulation of molten material within it escaped at a level thousands of feet below the summit, leaving the mountain hollow, and the summit, having so much of its support removed, fell in and disappeared in the molten reservoir below. In the lapse of ages the subterranean fires died out, and the great pit, from 4000 to 6000 feet below the surrounding walls, was partially filled with water. The island, which is about 800 feet high, and has a crater 80 feet deep, is claimed by some to represent the summit of the sunken volcano. Such is one theory, and there are strong reasons for believing it is the true one. Crater Lake is about six miles across its rim; the enormous amount of molten material within it when the volcano was living.

Advice of a Druggist

"It is proper, I think, to let others know about the popularity and virtues of Acker's English Remedy for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. From the moment I began handling it, its sale rapidly increased, and the sales keep growing all the time as fast as people find out what a remarkable preparation it is. The satisfaction it gives is universal. Our best citizens use it, and say it is the best thing for throat and lung troubles they ever saw. Mr. S. H. Culver, one of our prominent townsmen, says Acker's English Remedy is the only medicine that helped his chronic cough of many years' standing. At first it gave relief, and now, after taking a few bottles, he is wholly cured. I buy it by the gross at a time, and my sales are larger on this one medicine than on any other in my store. It is a great pleasure for me to feel that while I am prospering I am also doing so much good to the community in selling such a grand medicine." (Signed) R. R. Douglas, Westfield, N. Y.

Sold at 25c, 50c, and $1 a bottle, throughout the United States and Canada; and in England, at 2d, 3d, 4d, 6d. Through the courtesy of Frank J. Hard, secretary of the Mine Owner's Club, Portland, and superintendent of the Oregon-Colorado Mining Company, the GUANO is able to present to its readers the accompanying map of the Bohemia mining district, showing the number and form of the locations made. Mr. Hard is a Colorado mining man of recognized standing who has in the past year cast his fortunes with Bohemia and is using all legitimate means to advertise the camp. As a result of his prominence in mining affairs the recent write-up of the district together with this map which appeared in the Oregonian of March 28, was reproduced in the Daily Mining Record, of Colorado, the only mining daily in the world. Owing to the great similarity of geological formation of the Cripple Creek and Bohemia mining districts, Colorado mining men of large capital are becoming interested in Bohemia and the coming season will witness the greatest activity in the history of the camp.
