DREAMS OF TWILIGHT.

When the windows flame at sunset
And the streets are lit with blood
And the drying day is sinking
In the night's advancing flood,
Smoky volumes lightly trailing
Veil the house-top stark and high,
Tinged with purple that the moment
Deepens in the western sky.

When the shadows round us gather
And the darkness settles fast
And each flash of life conclusive
Seems but prelude to the last,
Dreams that like the smoke shall vanish
At the coming of the night.
—John Curtis Underwood in Almanac Magazine.

AN EXCELLENT REASON

Being a Woman, Winnie Was Not Apt at Giving Reasons, So a Man Helped Her Out.

"Is it something immensely important?" I asked as Winnie looked up with a number of wrinkles on her forehead.

"Immensely," she said, with a sigh.

"Are you writing a poem?"

"Nothing could possibly be more prosaic."

"Then I may be able to help you," I suggested.

"Certainly not," she exclaimed, and she instantly covered her sheet of paper with the blotting pad. "That," she added, "would be too ridiculous."

"Now, why is the idea of my helping you ridiculous?" I demanded.

"Well, it is."

"A woman's reason?"

"At all events," she insisted, "I must write the letter myself."

"Whom is it for?" I ventured to ask.

"Lord Carlfield."

"I wasn't aware you corresponded," I suggested.

"Oh, we don't. At least he has never written to me before," she answered.

"And so you find Lord Carlfield's letter difficult to answer?" I asked.

Winnie sat with her right elbow on the edge of the blotting pad, her eyes fixed on the window, a charming air of self-consciousness on her small face. A tress of her hair fell forward over her forehead, which was still wrinkled.

"Suppose you let me tell you what to say?" I proposed, standing with a hand on her chair.

"Oh, I know what to say."

"Then where's your difficulty?" I demanded.

"At least I think I do, only I don't know how to put it."

"Well, you see, that's where I might come in."

"It has nothing—nothing in the world—to do with you," she said, rising impulsively.

"I am not quite sure of that."

"But I am perfectly sure," she insisted.

"Now, you were to take me into your confidence as far as to show me Carlfield's letter."

"Of course, I shall do nothing of the kind," she retorted.

"Then I must try to guess its contents."

"You could never guess," cried Winnie decidedly.

"He wishes you to marry him," I said.

Winnie turned upon me with an expression of complete surprise.

"Why, how did you know that?" she exclaimed, with a fierce flush.

"You see, I happen to possess a pair of eyes."

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

Would Not Suffer So Again for Fifty Times Its Price

I awoke last night with severe pain in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life. When I came down to work this morning I felt so weak I could hardly work. I went to Miller & McCurdy's drug store and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It worked like magic and one dose fixed me all right. It certainly is the finest thing I ever used for stomach trouble. I shall not be without it in my house hereafter, for I should not care to endure the suffering of last night again for fifty times its price. G. H. Wilson, Livermore, Burg-tistown, Washington, Co., Pa. This remedy is for sale by W. L. DeLano.
