HISTORY OF ARMY WORM.

Was in Parts of the Valley Fifteen Years Ago.

F. S. Mattoon, of Turner, writes in the July issue of the Poultry Journal, just published: "It appears that this Willamette valley—or at least this part of it—is being treated to another visitation of the climbing cut worm. I hear of him sometimes, as the army worm from several localities. If your cabbage leaves are in scallops and holes, dig over the ground around them an inch or two deep, and you'll find him. He is a night worker, and hides in the soil in day time. He called here some fifteen years ago, and did a lot of mischief. He came early that time. Now he is late and won't do much harm. He lies in the fall and does some again for a number of years, but he is any thing but desirable when he is here. I know of but one remedy. I circumvented him on his former visit by getting a lot of oyster cans, unsoldering them and setting them around plants an inch or two in the ground. Mr. Cut Worm couldn't climb over and hadn't sense enough to dig under, and he was licked. I tried ashes, sulphur, coal oil, salt, and some other recommended remedies, but to no good. Canning the plants succeeded."

Henry Fletcher reports that the worms have eaten the leaves off of four rows of his hop vines, on the Silverton road, about five miles from Salem. There are reports of their appearance in other yards in Marion county.

Some pugilist over in Washington has published the statement that the worms are short lived. But he did not specify just how short. Some one else has said that they will live only twenty days. But they have been here that long already, and there is no sign of their departure yet.

Some gardens are entirely free from the pest. Those gardens that are located near meadows seem to have the most general and extensive visitation of them.

Florence Items.

West July 27.

Rev. I. G. Kotte departed Tuesday afternoon for his new field of labor as Sabbath school missionary in southern Oregon. His family will remain in Eugene for a time.

Captain Gruggel, of the schooner Sacramento, informs us that a W. Beadle & Co's new steamer, which they are building for the Sitka trade will be called the Aome and that the craft will carry 400,000 feet of lumber.

Capt W. A. Cox and Mr. Sanborn went out over the bar yesterday morning in a sail boat. They report finding 12 feet of water at low tide. While out they passed very close to a large whale that was sporting in the water.

Harry Boyle commenced driving piles Tuesday for the Sitka Boom Co. below Point Terrace. Their boom is to be extended out into the river sixty feet from the bank to give more room for storing logs. Some work is also to be done at the Island boom, so we are informed.

PLAYED OUT.

Dull headache, pains in various parts of the body, sinking at the pit of the stomach, loss of appetite, feverishness, pimples or sores, are all positive evidence of impure blood. No matter how it became so, it must be purified in order to obtain good health. Ayer's Blood Purifier has never failed to cure Scrofulous or Syphilitic poisons, or any other blood diseases. It is certainly a wonderful remedy and we sell every bottle on positive guarantee. For sale by W. L. DeLano, druggist.

Collection Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all persons indebted to A. V. Peters, deceased, by note or account, to call at the law office of Geo. B. Dorris, over the First National bank, and pay the same within 30 days of action will be commenced to recover.

Dated, Eugene, Or., July 20, 1900. GEO. B. DORRIS, Administrator.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

No Cure No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills, Malaria and Biliousness. It is as pleasant to take as Lemon Syrup. 50 cents.

FINEST ORCHARD.—Corvallis Times: Nell Newhouse arrived Wednesday from Eugene, where he has been refitting the dryer in the prune orchard of Norris Humphrey. The model adopted in the new arrangement of the dryer is the same as is in use at the big prune orchard, which is understood to be a complete success in curing fruit. In Mr. Humphrey's orchard the Italian prunes are practically a total failure. Of Petite there will be a yield of 2500 bushels. The orchard comprises 35 acres, half Italian and half Petite trees, and is one of the finest in the state.

NEW LIGHTS.—Roseburg Plaindealer: Andrew Nelson, proprietor of the Cottage Grove electric light and power station, stopped off in this city Wednesday to visit with friends, while on his way to Gold Hill to install a municipal electric light plant in that thriving little town, providing satisfactory arrangements can be made. Mr. Nelson is thoroughly reliable and an electrician of many years experience and Gold Hill is fortunate in being able to interest him in her enterprise.

OLDEST ACTIVE MINER.

Wm. Kerr, 90 Years of Age. Is Working Alone Driving a Tunnel Through the Solid Rock.

Roseburg Evening News.

Douglas county can not doubt boast of having the oldest active miner in the world—a man who in a few days will be 99 years old, blasting, drilling and wheeling rock in a 120 foot tunnel that he has constructed by his own labor in the past four years.

A short distance above Days Creek, on the South Umpqua river, there is a solitary miner's cabin close by the county road, and near by is the cabin in which William Kerr lives solitary and alone but industrious and perfectly contented. He is born in Pennsylvania on August 7th, 1810, and will celebrate his 90th birthday in a few days, although he considers himself anything but an old man. He appears more like a well preserved man of 60 or 70 and is stronger and more active than most men at that period of their lives. The fact that in the four years since he located a mining claim on the South Umpqua he has driven with his own labor 120 feet of tunnel through the rock is sufficient evidence of this fact. He expects soon to strike a ledge with a fortune when he can retire and enjoy life in his old age, free from toll and care, but there are some who say the old man's mining judgment is far less sound than his constitution and that he is driving his tunnel through ordinary country rock where there is not a sign of gold.

George Kerr, a son of the centenarian miner, is a robust man also, himself about 60 years of age, and resides at Wildwood, Lane county, at the foot of the Bohemia mountain. He is a well-to-do rancher with a pleasant home and has used his best endeavors to persuade his father to live with him, but to no avail. The old gentleman visits him occasionally, but persists in continuing his mining operations on his own account. Recently on one of these visits he reached Cottage Grove at night on the train and without stopping for daylight, struck out and walked 18 miles to his son's home. He is not a prohibitionist but has always been temperate in the use of liquor, although even now he occasionally gets out with the boys to celebrate the glorious Fourth of July, or something of that kind, and on these not frequent occasions his boon companions aver that the old man is just as young as he used to be. A daughter recently arrived from the East and is visiting at the son's home, brother and sister not having seen each other for 18 years.

Prineville Review, July 28: Newt Pointexter, the youngest son of Perry Pointexter, came in contact with the hind foot of a calf last Sunday and in consequence he now carries his left arm in a sling, one of the forearms being broken.

The worst kind of a fake is reported by the Crook County Journal: A couple of men are "doing" this county by selling a catarrh cure consisting of a small bottle containing a piece of sponge saturated with ammonia, price $1.00, and in addition the purchaser is to receive 10 yards of dress goods to be sent through the mail. We advise our readers not to patronize them.

An employee at Cudahy's Kansas City packing house has invented a machine for picking chickens. The chickens are fed into the machine in which several cross currents of air are developed by electric fans, and these currents of air clean off the feathers and down in the most perfect manner.

When the new minister, a handsome and unmarried man, made his first pastoral call at the Fossicks', he took little Anna up in his arms and tried to kiss her. But the child refused to be kissed. She struggled loose and ran off into the next room, where her mother was putting a few finishing touches to her adornment before going into the parlor to greet the clergyman.

"Mamma," the little girl whispered, "the man in the parlor wanted me to kiss him."

"Well," replied mamma, "why didn't you let him? I would if I were you."

Thereupon little Anna ran back into the parlor, and the minister asked: "Well, little lady, won't you kiss me now?"

"No, I won't," replied Anna promptly. "My mamma says she will!"—Harper's Bazar.

The Bundle Kicked. A comical story is told of an English nobleman who is short-sighted. In a railroad train, while he was sitting next to a very stout old woman, friend on the next seat accosted him. "Wait a minute," said his lordship. "I'll put this bundle of rags in the rack and you can sit here." And to the astonishment and horror of the gigantic female he caught her round the waist before he realized his mistake.

Expensive Furniture. "One of the special agents of the Indian bureau is a woman, and she receives a salary of $8 a day," read Mr. Wintergreen.

"She must sell a good many," commented Mrs. Wintergreen. "But I shouldn't have thought there was such a demand for that sort of a bureau."—Detroit Free Press.

Small kindnesses, small courtesies, small considerations, habitually practiced in our social intercourse, give a greater charm to the character than the display of great talents and accomplishments.

Teachers' Institute. The teachers' annual county institute will commence Monday, July 30, 1900, and continue five days, viz: July 30, 31, August 1, 2 and 3. All teachers holding either state or county certificates are required by law to attend the institute. There will be three instructors in attendance and every possible effort will be made to make the institute profitable and interesting.

How Expresses Drop Men.

"While coming from Chicago last week," said a prominent business man to a Mail and Express reporter, "I noticed a peculiar railroad custom which interested me considerably. I happened to be in the last car of the limited when the train stopped in a desolate spot between stations. The rear brakeman, of course, dropped off and went down the truck with a flag to warn any train that might be following us. In a moment or two we started up again, but minus the brakeman. I wondered at this, but was still more surprised later on to see the same thing repeated when we were obliged to stop on account of a threatened hot box. Upon inquiry I found that this was the custom on fast trains. 'Sometimes, if we have lots of time,' said the conductor, 'we whistle for the men to come in, but in most cases we leave them to be picked up by the next train or to walk to the nearest station.'"

"But isn't that rather hard on the men?" I asked. "Oh, it's all part of the business," he replied. "I have known of cases where men dropped off in this way were frozen to death or waylaid by tramps, but the railroads have to make the time, and that's why it is done. I have seen trains running with only a conductor aboard them at times because the rest of the crew had been left behind in just this way."

Vanity and Curiosity. Vanity seems to spring eternal in the masculine breast, and the less it has to feed upon the more it thrives apparently.

The other day a tramp of high degree in vagrancy stopped before the window of a house at which two young women were standing. He was tattered and torn and melancholy looking to such an extent that he aroused a feeling of deep sympathy in the hearts of the maidens, who looked down upon him as he stood gazing intently at some object he held in his hand.

"I wonder what he has," said the sentimental one of the two as she peered down on him. "A lock of some woman's hair, I shouldn't wonder."

"More likely a coin he's found; he looks pleased," rejoined the practical one scowling as she maneuvered for a position that would reveal the object to her.

But it was neither, they discovered. It was just a bit of looking glass, in which the man was surveying his features with a satisfied air, that told of his entire contentment with his very rugged physiognomy.

Which shows, as was said at the beginning of this story, that vanity springs eternal in the masculine breast just as curiosity does in the feminine.—Baltimore News.

A Friend in Need. It happened in the early days of Australian history when bushranging was common.

A gentleman was riding along a lonely track through the bush when he heard loud cries for help proceeding from a neighboring grove. Arriving at the spot where proceeded the cries, he was surprised and shocked to find a man securely tied to a tree.

"What is the matter here?" he asked. "Oh, sir," replied the poor fellow, "I'm so glad you have come! A few hours ago I was stuck up by bushrangers, who rifled my pockets, and, after stealing everything I had except a bundle of notes in my inside breast pocket, which they fortunately overlooked, bound me to this tree and decamped."

"The scoundrels!" ejaculated the newcomer. "Took everything you had except a bundle of notes in your inside pocket, eh?"

"Yes, sir." "The villains! And then they tied you so tightly that you cannot escape?"

"Yes, sir." "Then I'll take the notes the other fellows left!" And he did.—London Answers.

Embarrassing. When the new minister, a handsome and unmarried man, made his first pastoral call at the Fossicks', he took little Anna up in his arms and tried to kiss her. But the child refused to be kissed. She struggled loose and ran off into the next room, where her mother was putting a few finishing touches to her adornment before going into the parlor to greet the clergyman.

"Mamma," the little girl whispered, "the man in the parlor wanted me to kiss him."

"Well," replied mamma, "why didn't you let him? I would if I were you."

Thereupon little Anna ran back into the parlor, and the minister asked: "Well, little lady, won't you kiss me now?"

"No, I won't," replied Anna promptly. "My mamma says she will!"—Harper's Bazar.

Would Not Suffer So Again for Fifty Times Its Price

I awoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life. When I came down to work this morning I felt so weak I could hardly work. I went to Miller & McCurdy's drug store and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It worked like magic and one dose fixed me all right. It certainly is the finest thing I ever used for stomach trouble. I shall not be without it in my house hereafter, for I should not care to endure the sufferings of last night again for fifty times its price. G. H. WILSON, Livestockman, Burgettstown, Washington Co., Pa. This remedy is for sale by W. L. DeLano.

For the Seashore.

Newport and Yaquina Bay continues to offer for the summer vacation greater variety of attractions than can be found at any other North Pacific resort. Excellent beaches and safe bathing, enticing rides and rambling golf boating and fishing, clams, crabs and oysters for the gathering, and unequalled profusion of pebbles, shells and agates. Add to this cheerful and obliging hosts, who are providing at very reasonable rates homelike quarters, and most liberal fare. They won't let one get hungry at Newport.

See Southern Pacific agent for tickets and time tables, or correspond with C. H. Markham, General Passenger Agent, Portland, Oregon.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female disease quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run-down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c. Sold by W. L. DeLano, druggist.

An Epidemic of Whooping Cough

Last winter during an epidemic of whooping cough my children contracted the disease, having severe convulsing spells. We had used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy very successfully for croup and naturally turned to it at that time and found it relieved the cough and effected a complete cure.—John E. Clifford, Proprietor Norwood House, Norwood, N. Y. This remedy is for sale by W. L. DeLano.
