Albany Democrat: "Lane county people have raised over $2,000 for a wagon road up the McKenzie. Money raised for good roads is mighty well spent, particularly into mines or logging camps. Lane county would do well to invest some in a road into the Blue River mines." Over $5,000 has been raised in all, Mr Democrat.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F J Cheney & Co, Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

New York Growers Say There Will Be an Increased Demand.

The hop growers of New York state recently held a picnic at Waterville, New York. The convention of growers was resolved into an experience meeting, numerous addresses and experiences being given by the prominent growers, relative to the culture of the hop crop.

James Winstantley, of Salem, manager of the Oregon Hop Growers' Association, yesterday received from Morris Terry, of Waterville, a letter concerning the picnic and enclosing a clipping from a local newspaper. Mr Terry is one of the oldest active hop growers in this country. He is 83 years of age and manager of a small yard in New York state.

In the report of the picnic by the local paper, considerable space is devoted to the different addresses, but the following summary of one of the principal talks is hereto appended for the reason that it is particularly valuable and instructive to growers engaged in the production of hops in any section. The clipping alluded to is as follows:

"Hon Charles E Remick, of Oneida, than whom there is no one more popular among the hop growers, was the last speaker. As usual he talked business to the hop growers and was most attentively listened to. He said in part: The stocks of 1896, '97, '98, and '99 are fully exhausted. The large stocks of 1894 and 1895, which in this country alone it is claimed, reached 400,000 bales, being of good quality, were placed in cold storage as a hedge against higher prices in the following years. What there is left of this has lost its flavor and value. Receipts and exports show that American brewers need 80,000 more bales of the '00 crop than of any crop since 1894. The production of malt liquors has rapidly increased. United States revenue returns show that 39,000,000 barrels of beer were made last year. This year we have exported 43,000 bales. The brewers will want all the hops obtainable this season. They have exhausted their stock of old, and will if possible replenish this year. There is no use worrying about the Pacific coast. New York state can make and maintain the price. The Bass Company has used our hops for thirty years and dare not change the flavor; the same is true of some other English and some German brewers. The stocks in Germany and England are short. A large crop has never yet been followed by a large crop. From present estimates the crops of 1899 and 1900 may be thus compared:

	1899	1900
California.....	42,000	57,500
Oregon.....	70,000	80,000
Washington.....	35,000	37,000
New York.....	50,000	65,000

"It requires 200,000 bales of 189 pounds each to make 39,000,000 barrels of beer. For the first time in 18 years there is no one selling hops short this summer. You have therefore the first ray of sunlight I have seen in the hop business for fifteen years.

"Stop giving away samples. You have got them this year where they ought to come to you. New York state hops will maintain the price no matter what Pacific slope hops do. We have the finest flavored crop. Let there be no contracting and no scalping. Pick them clean. Don't go anywhere, but stay at home. They will have to come to you. Hops will go to 20 cents this year. Don't give samples; don't contract with anyone. There are 200,000 bales wanted in England, and there are only 60,000 bales they can have.

"In conclusion Mr Remick returned the thanks of the hop growers for his address and said there were no drunkards among the hop growers.

"There is no difference between Democrats and Republicans when they go to a hop growers' picnic or when they stand before a bar. (Applause.)"

A PRACTICE MARCH.

Company C. Fourth Regiment Will Camp Out Tonight.

Company C. Fourth regiment, J M Williams captain, will make a practice march tonight and tomorrow. About 7 o'clock this evening the company will leave Armory Hall, in heavy marching order, carrying one day's rations, and will proceed to a camping ground near the McKenzie bridge, five miles north of this city, and go into camp for the night. Guards will be posted and all the etiquette of a military camp will be observed.

Tomorrow practice drills will be indulged in and in the evening the returned home will be made. Other companies of the state guard have indulged in this form of practical military experience and find it very beneficial.

Improvement Work Will Begin Next Week.

Work on the improvement of the McKenzie road will begin next week and will be pushed vigorously. Messrs Griffin, Young and Chambers, the committee, under whose supervision the money will be expended, is very busy arranging all details, and expect to get all that is feasible done with the money at their command.

Two crews will be worked on the roads. The foreman of one crew will be L Simon, and of the other W I Carroll. Both these men have a reputation as good, practical road builders, and will accomplish a great deal. In addition to these crews, the rock crusher will be used on the road and crushed rock will be employed where gravel is not practicable. Messrs Simon and Carroll will each have about 20 teams and the number of men to keep them busy in their crews.

This morning Messrs Simon and Carroll went up the McKenzie to make a thorough review of the road, to the end that the improvement can be made intelligently and to the best effect over the entire distance to be improved.
