DON'T BE DUPED

There have been placed upon the market several cheap reprints of an obsolete edition of "Webster's Dictionary." They are being offered under various names at a low price.

By
dry goods dealers, grocers, agents, etc., and in a few instances as a premium for subscriptions to papers.

Announcements of this comparatively reprints are very misleading. For instance, they are advertised to be the latest and most complete of Webster's Dictionary, when in reality, so far as we know and believe, they are all from A to Z.

Reprint Dictionaries, phototype copies of a book of over 600,000 words, which in 1844 was sold for about $3.00, and which was much superior in paper, print, and binding to these imitations, being then a work of some merit instead of one

Long Since Obsolete.
The supplement of 10,000 so-called "new words," which some of these books are advertised to contain, was compiled by a gentleman who died over forty years ago, and was published before his death. Other minor additions are probably of more or less value.

The Webster's Unabridged Dictionary published by our house is the only authentic one of that name familiar to this country. It contains over 300,000 words, with illustrations on nearly every page, and bears our imprint on the title page. It is protected by copyright from cheap imitations.

Valuable as this work is, we have at vast expense published a thoroughly revised and improved edition, known throughout the world as Webster's International Dictionary.

As a dictionary, it is a lifetime work, and should be in every home.

FAMINE SHADOWED INDIA.

BY EDWARD S. HUME.
For Twenty-five Years an American Resident of Bombay.

After I had returned from India, I have read the accounts of the famine in the famine districts, and I can assure you that the actual state of affairs is much more terrible than painted or pictured. And the worst of it is that, even if the June rains are entirely favorable, no relief can be expected till the crop is sown in October. Famine photographs frequently represent half starved and dying persons lying on the street or in some field. They are poor and self-respecting people, who have never been the objects of public charity.

HUNGER KILLED WOMAN.

and have refused to go to famine relief camps until at last death has stared them in the face, and unbearable distress has driven them out in search of help. Weary and hungry, they have laid themselves down to rest and have died before waking. Not long before leaving India, while walking with a brother missionary at Ahmedabad, not far from his house, he pointed to a tree at the roadside and said: "The other day I saw the emaciated figure of a man lying, face down, under that tree. On going near and touching the body I found it already stiff and cold. Examining it more carefully, I found one side torn away, evidently eaten by Jackals. A couple of rods away lay the dead body of an infant. A little farther on was found a woman, still alive. She was the wife of the man and mother of the child. She, too, poor thing, died before she could reach the porch, which stood within sight and call of the spot where these patient, helpless ones had fallen down to die."

A starving man is devoid of judgment and of most of his natural feelings. In April we received a group of famine girls. Among them was one who, although much emaciated, began to improve from the day she came to us. After a week she rapidly grew worse. In spite of everything that could be done for her she soon died. We learned at last that while she was so ill that we were giving her a few spoonfuls of nourishment at a time, raising her gently, because she seemed unable to make any effort to help herself, and even later, when she seemed unable to see or to speak, she had been dragging herself at intervals, when we were absent, out into the garden, a distance of 50 yards, in order to get some green mangoes to eat. For the poor famine child they were deadly poison. She knew it, but the awful gnawing in her stomach made prudence impossible.

The only effective preventive to the spread of plague that has yet been discovered is inoculation with plague serum. Wherever an outbreak of the disease is imminent, inoculation stations are opened. Doctors are sent to the villages with instruments and everything needed for efficient work are provided. But the Hindus have not taken kindly to this remedy. All kinds of superstitions have been spread and have been widely believed to the effect that inoculation is most harmful; that it has been devised by the European doctors to punish the Hindus for supposed disobedience and as a means for destroying caste. In view of this the government offers two days' wages to every man, woman or child who is inoculated. I know a little fellow 8 years old, whose mother died and whose father is a helpless invalid. Hearing that money was paid to every person who was willing to be inoculated, this poor little lad presented himself at one of the inoculation stations. As soon as his arm was healed he went to another station, and this thing went on until the poor boy had actually been inoculated five times in each arm for the 84 cents he received and with which he supported himself and father for six weeks.

The government has already expended more than $4,000,000 in the free distribution of food to those who are unable to work and in employing the able-bodied at cash wages in the construction of reservoirs, irrigation ditches and other public works that will mitigate future droughts. In addition, there are generous and splendidly organized systems of private charity, the funds being supplied from every part of the civilized world and managed chiefly by American and European missionaries of long experience in India. It is the duty and privilege of every one to have some share in this sacred work of humanity. Gifts may be sent to Brown Bros. & Co., 50 Wall street, New York, treasurers of the committee of one hundred; William E. Dodge, chairman, and Dr. L. T. Chamberlain, executive director, by whom they will be cabled promptly to the responsible and representative American-Indian relief committee, under the chairmanship of United States Consul William H. Fee, at Bombay, with the veteran missionary, Robert A. Hume, as executive secretary.

The New York committee of one hundred on India famine relief co-operates with committees of the same name in Boston, New Haven, Baltimore, Washington, Indianapolis and other cities, each of which has charge of the work in its own section. The committee states that on receipt of a postal addressed "Committee of One Hundred, 73 Bible House, New York," supplies of illustrated literature are sent without charge and express free. The help of individuals, clubs, lodges, labor unions, employers, proprietors of hotels and summer resorts, churches, Sunday schools, young people's societies, King's Daughters, etc., is earnestly sought in distributing this free literature. Many who will lend a hand in this way can add the cause as much as if they were able to draw a handsome check themselves.

During the civil war as well as in our late war with Spain diarrhoea was one of the most troublesome diseases the army had to contend with. In many instances it became chronic and the old soldiers still suffer from it. M. David Taylor, of Wind Ridge, Greene Co., Pa., is one of these. He now Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and says he has never found anything that would give him such quick relief. It is for sale by W. L. DeLano.

Clipped From The Times of August 25.

W. L. Houston and family have vacated the property east of the track and moved into the J. Kirk residence. Houston is a daughter of a lady named Kirk and will look after "Lucky Jimmie" in his declining years.

The new slate blackboards for the school house arrived this week and will be put up as soon as the agent arrives. This will be a great improvement over the old dusty plaster, and another year the entire school building will be slated. Large slate pencils will be used instead of chalk, which will be a great relief from the dust.

There was a party of cruisers here this week representing a Minnesota lumber company. They filed on several sections of timber near Lake Creek with Northern Pacific scrip. The statement was made by one of the cruisers that his company would locate a large body of timber land in that section and in two or three years would establish a big mill there.

Wm. G. Millers had the misfortune to lose a fine horse Wednesday night. He had sold a couple of bunch grass horses and while attempting to drive them to the stock yard for delivery they stampeded and struck out north-west. He finally headed them off near Monroe and got them corralled, but the ride was too much for the horse he was on and it died from the effects of the trip. It was a good horse and worth both of the bunchgrasses.

The LeBar family returned to their former home in Texas Tuesday. They came here some six months ago and purchased the Butler place below town but owing to Mrs. LeBar's poor health they were dissatisfied. Three weeks ago their home burned down. It was insured for $600 which was paid. The tract of land contains 13 acres which they sold to G. W. Wright, of sawmill fame, for $400. They paid $1650 for the property when purchased of J. E. Butler.

Death at Cape Nome.
SEATTLE, Aug. 24.—The whole number of deaths at Nome since June 1, as shown by the records of the coroner, is 71, of which 29 were natives. There has been only one death from smallpox. There have been in all 20 cases of smallpox in the hospital, nearly all of which were of a mild form. Most of the cases were from pneumonia.

About half the number of whites were of the "unknown" class. That is, former residence and antecedents were unknown. There were four suicides and five murders, known to be such among the 42 deaths among the whites.

PLAYED OUT.
Dull headache, pains in various parts of the body, sinking at the pit of the stomach, loss of appetite, feverishness, pimples or sores, are all positive evidence of impure blood. No matter how it became so, it must be purified in order to obtain good health. Ayer's Blood Purifier has never failed to cure Scrofulous or Syphilitic poisons, or any other blood diseases. It is certainly a wonderful remedy and we sell every bottle on a positive guarantee. For sale by W. L. DeLano.

TOUGH GANGS AT NOME.

Murder and Robbery Go Hand in Hand.

"Nome is the paradise of crooks, the Mecca of criminals from all quarters of the globe, and a bad place for peaceful people."

Such is the picture drawn by William Devine, formerly a member of the Portland police department. If the conditions existing in Nome are as bad as reported by the ex-policeman, the prospective miner had better have his life insured before going north, and then provide himself with a suit of chain armor and an arsenal.

"Nome swarms with criminals and murderers," declared Mr. Devine. "The jails are overcrowded. Two revenue cutters will soon bring down a couple of loads of these people, and then the authorities will be enabled to cope with those remaining."

"What kind of crooks are here?"
"All kinds: murderers, robbers, swindlers, confidence men, and the entire gamut of the profession. Four, five and six murders are committed every day. Some of the murders are done by the men who are in hard circumstances, but most are committed by men who are murderers at heart. Robbery is the motive."

A Mother Tells How She Saved Her Little Daughter's Life.

I am the mother of eight children and have had a great deal of experience with medicines. Last summer my little daughter had the dysentery in its worst form. We thought she would die. I tried everything I could think of, but nothing seemed to do her any good. I saw by an advertisement in our paper that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was highly recommended and sent and got a bottle at once. It proved to be one of the very best medicines we ever had in the house. It saved my little daughter's life. I am anxious for every mother to know what an excellent medicine it is. Had I known it at first it would have saved me a great deal of anxiety and my little daughter much suffering. Yours truly, Mrs. Geo. F. BURDICK, Liberty, R. I. For sale by W. L. DeLano.
