STREET FAIR TORN OUT.

Carnival Booths and Buildings Give Place to Business.

Portland Telegram, Sept. 20.

"Those who have never seen the destruction created by a cyclone should visit sixth Street. The demolition of the carnival buildings will give a faint idea of what a town looks like after a twister had passed.

"From Morrison street to Burnside the street is a mass of wreckage and debris. Booths, fences, bunting, paper, sawdust and confetti litter the thoroughfare where for 11 days and nights stood a city of bewildering novelties and surprises. This mass of lumber and refuse is being cleared away with neatness and dispatch. Wagons and carts are carrying off huge loads, and in a day or two little will remain. The gorgeous garden has disappeared as completely as if it never had existed; the triumphal arch at Morrison street with its hundreds of electric lights and fancy ornamentation, is now merely a few scantlings and frame work. Even these are being torn down by their builders, the artists.

"For a brief period the Temple of Music was a thing of beauty, now it is stripped to the yellow-painted plaster, and even this will go before tomorrow night. Practically nothing, besides memory, remains of the German village, and such is the case with the entire street fair."

Woodmen of the World.

The members of the camp will be pleased to meet you tonight at their hall.

Market.

The ladies of the First Presbyterian church will hold a market, Saturday, Oct. 6th.

Albany Democrat: A petition is being circulated asking the city council to release the bondsmen of City Treasurer Rice. The city treasurer had about $500 of city funds deposited with the Lebanon Banking Company which failed a few months ago.

A compositor yesterday set a local announcing a magnificent line of ladies' tailor-made suits at J. V. Kauffman's at prices ranging from $5.50 to $5.50 per suit, when it should have been $5.50 to $65.00. He is a married man and has been killed. Miss Kauffman had quite a rush after the suits. They are worth the money.

MOHAWK BRANCH.

The Springfield Bridge Will Be Built Early in the Spring.

GOOD NEWS FOR EUGENE.

Special to the Guard.

PORTLAND, Sept. 21.—The Southern Pacific Company expects to have regular train service to Wendling, the terminus of the Mohawk branch, by November 1st.

The train that has been used in hauling ties, rails, etc., has now been converted into a gravel train, and last Wednesday commenced hauling gravel ballast this road with. The gravel is obtained at the Armitage gravel pit, three miles south of Coburg. This train also hauls out to Springfield the lumber shipments from Wendling. The heaviest shipment yet made of lumber from Wendling was on last Thursday, consisting of ten carloads.

Early in the spring a bridge will connect the line between Springfield and Henderson, and the lumber from Coburg and Wendling will then go via this connection. All California shipments south of Tallman will go via Eugene instead of Albany as at present.

The Organ Recital.

The program for this occasion holds a rare treat for the music lovers of Eugene. Not since Mr. Hadden, of Portland played for us two years ago, have we had an opportunity to hear such excellent music as Mrs. Hulin's violin numbers promise. Mrs. Hulin's devotion to the violin is one that has characterized musical from childhood to womanhood, and years of study with some of the best musicians of the east enables her to interpret and express intelligently and artistically. Her friends are anticipating much pleasure from her numbers in Monday evening's concert.

Dr. Hugh D. Atehinson, the organist of the occasion, received his musical training also in the east. Before he came to Portland to assume the pastorate of one of the most prominent churches, he had made an enviable reputation as a performer on the pipe organ. Some in this city have heard him perform and are unanimous in their opinion that he is an unusually fine concert organist. In a Christmas recital given with Mrs. Rose Block-Bauer and Mrs. Shillock in Portland, the Oregonian complimented him highly as an interpreter of Bach. This same Bach Fugue (in E minor) will form a part of his program here. So also will the great "William Tell Overture" appear among his numbers. There have been hundreds of dollars expended on the organ since the Courson recital and the instrument is in the best possible condition for an enjoyable program. Dr. Atehinson's pedal technique is said to be unusually fine. His program will make heavy demands upon his ability in this direction.

Mr. Glen's numbers will, with one exception, be new to a Eugene audience. The exception is the "Intermezzo," by Mascagni, the popularity of which seems to increase with years. The management was extremely fortunate in being able to secure Mrs. De Lano as accompanist for this concert. Her accompaniments are always sympathetic and her thorough knowledge of the organ and its possibilities insures the most effective treatment of the music, whether accompaniment or solo.

The excellence of the program, the recognized ability of the performers and the popular admission fee (25 cents), should draw a large house. See "ad" on page 1.

Fine Dental Parlors.

Dr. J. C. Gray has leased rooms 6, 7 and 8, on the second floor of the First National bank building for a term of years, and will move Saturday evening to the new quarters. They will be fitted up nicely and will make fine dental parlors.
