THURSDAY -- DECEMBER 20

APHIS IN SIGHT.

Corvallis Gazette Dec 17.
"It now looks as if nothing short of a real Alaska freeze will prevent a repetition of last year's crop failure in this section, and knowing ones promise us that we will have that freeze. Nearly all authorities now agree that the failure last season was due to the ravages of insects, whose eggs survived the mild weather of the preceding winter. Mr. Joseph Yates told the Gazette man that in all his forty years of farming on his present farm he never knew of such a condition as now prevails.

"While plowing a summer fallow field, last week, Walter Yates discovered that wherever the soil had become dry after being turned up, it was literally alive with aphids. Mr. Yates is determined to seed this field in clover or hay unless some climatic change ensures the destruction of these insects."

Another of the large fraternal insurance associations has gone under. So long as people imagine a concern can thrive on giving something for practically nothing these orders will continue to rise and fall at the expense of the credulous. The reputable orders are brought in to disrepute by such organizations. Any order which promises life insurance benefits anything like double the aggregate of the average payments may justly be looked upon with suspicion. It is the simple question of where they can get the money with which to pay losses. The first losses may be paid, but failure is bound to come at last, and at a time when the policy holders are ill-afforded it, for they will have grown old and in line to earn their benefits through death.

An English syndicate proposes to buy an obsolete Atlantic liner and move her just off the three mile limit in the English Channel, where gamblers may gamble to their heart's content, free from interposition of middleclass authorities. Gamblers may object to patronizing the floating gambling shop, however, as in case of storm the vessel would have to run for shelter. And what thoroughbred sporting man would take chance of being loser at such a time, with no opportunity to continue the game and get even?

The ringing of curfew was first provided for when there were few timepieces. It is a relic of a pioneer age and has no place in Nineteenth century civilization. The city authorities of Eugene, though, seem to think it necessary to disturb the community with a curfew bell immediately after the town clock strikes eight in the evening. Do they suppose that the boys whom the eight o'clock street ordinance affect are deaf to, or will not take note of the striking of the town clock?

The Oregon Supreme Court has declared that a county court has authority to appoint and employ somebody besides the sheriff to collect delinquent taxes. In a case in Portland, recently, the same court declared otherwise—apparently—but it appears that the details of the contract in that case were illegal.

The Oregon Fish and Game Association of Portland has peculiar ideas about the protection of trout. It will recommend, among other suggestions, that the limit for any one day's trout fishing be placed at one hundred and twenty-five. Ordinarily it might as well place the limit at one thousand. That kind of protection would fail to protect.

"Let us hope that those 11 new warships will save us from the need of ever using them." "Note and Comment" in Oregonian.
Yes, and let us hope that the cat's claws will save her from the need of ever using them. One hope is about as reasonable as the other.

Oom Paul has been presented with the freedom of the city of Limerick, but they will have to send it to him, as strained relations with the owners will prevent him from going after it.

The Chinese empress desires peace so much that she is willing to turn in the emperor at a fair cash valuation on the indemnity fund.

The Standard Oil company is about to invade Europe, and the various crowned heads would do well to have their jobs nailed down.

CONSUMPTION

is, by no means, the dreadful disease it is thought to be—in the beginning.

The trouble is: you don't know you've got it; you don't believe it; you won't believe it—till you are forced to. Then it is dangerous.

Don't be afraid; but attend to it quick—you can do it yourself, and at home.

Take Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil, and live carefully every way.

This is sound doctrine, whatever you may think or be told; and, if heeded, will save life.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

Cold Stool Or Death.

"There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation," was the awful prospect set before Mrs. L. B. Hunt, of Limerick, Wis., by her doctor after vainly trying to cure her of a frightful case of stomach troubles and yellow jaundice. He didn't count on the marvelous power of Electric Bitters to cure Stomach and Liver troubles, but she heard of it, took seven bottles, was wholly cured, avoided surgeon's knife, now weighs more and feels better than ever. It's positively guaranteed to cure Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Price 60c at W. L. DeLano's drug store.

LAST CALAPOOIA.

Mary Fisherman, Noted Indian Woman.

COTTAGE GROVE, Or., Dec 18.—Mary Fisherman, an Indian woman, died near this place last night. Her ancestry is of considerable note. She was the last of the Calapooia tribe, and was a niece of the old chief, Ha-lo-tish. Her age is a matter of conjecture. Old settlers remember seeing her here when they settled in 1854. The citizens gave her a respectable burial today and raised money by subscription for funeral expenses.
