NORTHWEST FOREST RANGERS

About Forty-Five Will Be Employed in Oregon and Washington This Season.

The usual summer force of forest rangers to protect the forest reserves of Oregon and Washington will be taken on the payroll about June 1, as in seasons past, and will be retained through the dry summer months. The force this year will be about the same size as that which was employed last summer, and in making the appointments, due preference will be given to those who were employed as rangers in past seasons, provided their service was satisfactory.

The total number of rangers employed on all the reserves last summer, the highest number yet authorized, was 445. They were under the direction of nine superintendents and thirty-nine supervisors. This is an increase of ninety-five in the number of rangers over the preceding year, when many disastrous fires occurred, and burned considerable areas before they were extinguished.

The total appropriation for forest protection for the fiscal year beginning July 1, like that for the current year, is $300,000. There is ever reason to believe that this sum will provide all the forest rangers that are required during the dry season. It is stated at the land office that the administration of the past year was entirely satisfactory, the force ample, and that it was the first year when the reserves were adequately patrolled. Except in Southern forests, where there is a prolonged dry season, the rangers will be retained but a few months, as has been the custom heretofore.

SOME RAILROAD RECORDS.

Two railroad speed records have been made recently. A through train from Paris to Russian Pacific part of Vladivostok covered the ten thousand miles between the two cities in 420 hours, an average of twenty-four miles an hour. In April President Hill of the Great Northern made the trip with his private train from Seattle to St. Paul, 1823 miles, in 45 hours and 50 minutes, an average speed of forty miles an hour. Two sets of engineers and firemen were used on eight hour shifts. On one stretch of ten miles the train ran at an eighty-four mile an hour speed.

Portland Telegram. "I am a staunch Oregonian, don't you know, but of course must stand by my alma mater," said an affected cad, who was present at the collegiate meet at Eugene, and had probably attended Berkeley a year more or less. Then he proceeded to force his way into a bunch of California track men who had no use for him and paid no attention to him, and after it was all over returned to Corvallis or Albany or some other inland town to dream about the glory of it all for the year to come.

One of the most novel features of the navy exhibit at the Buffalo Pan-American Exposition is a large map of the world, eight by sixteen feet, on which are placed models of every ship in the navy. Each day, as telegraphic notification is received, of the exact location of each vessel, the vessels are moved about the map in accordance with this information, so that the visitor may see just where every vessel in the navy is each day.

The sporting editor of the Portland Telegram wants to honor President McKinley by inviting him "to pitch the first ball at the opening professional game in Portland." It would be a good sight for outsiders, but embarrassing to our chief magistrate. He is not liable to pitch that "first ball."

Fairmount, the Finest Residence Portion of Eugene.

It is only a short time when Fairmount plat will be the finest residence portion of Eugene. In this plat we have the beautiful Villard avenue, 100 feet wide, which is now being fenced and prepared for grading and graveling this avenue before the next wet season, is under way. The handsome and picturesque "Fairmount" boulevard, 80 feet wide, which is winding around the foot of the hills cannot be surpassed for its beautiful scenery by any city of the state; a residence anywhere on the boulevard will have a full view of the entire city, river and valley, and will be only one-half mile from the University of Oregon and less than 2 miles from the handsome "Patterson School" which will be erected this summer.

Several lots are being sold both in Fairmount and University plats and a good many nice residences will be built this year, some of which are already under way. Lots are still being sold at the former low prices and on easy terms, 6 per cent on deferred payments. In fact we will make such terms that a man with a family better own his own home and be improving it, than to be constantly paying rent. Make inquiry of M. Svarverud, of the Eugene Real Estate & Investment Company, who has the exclusive sale of Fairmount and University additions.
