A Bonus Raised.

Special to the Guard.

Boise, Idaho, Aug 21.—John Pilmer, the special commissioner appointed by the Boise chamber of commerce to estimate the cost of constructing a wagon road to Thunder mountain, has submitted his report and the same has been forwarded to Colonel Dewey, the millionaire mining man, who has guaranteed the advancement of any sum equal to the amount subscribed by the citizens of Boise for the building of the road. Mr Pilmer estimates that $20,000 will construct the road, which, counting roads already built, will be about 175 miles in length. The chamber of commerce has guaranteed the raising of $10,000 and there is no doubt but that Colonel Dewey will do his share.

Thunder mountain is the region of the recent great mining strikes and where Colonel Dewey in the interest of himself and Pennsylvania capitalists have bonded property to the value of $1,000,000. It is estimated that fully one thousand prospectors will visit the region by next season and a stampede is expected to follow to what many believe will prove one of the greatest mining camps in the intermountain region.

A YOUTHFUL ELOPEMENT.

Portland Young People Ran Away to Eugene, Oregon.

Pendleton E. O. Aug 19.

Another scandal is being hushed by Portland police concerning a member of the special force. The 16-year-old son of a special officer ran away with a 15-year-old-girl, the children going to Eugene, Oregon. It is said that the boy made an affidavit that his mother gave him $50 with which to defray the expenses of the trip. When the girl's mother went to see the officer, the latter became impatient and defied her to make complaint at the office of the district attorney, declaring that he would spend every dollar he had to defend the son, no matter what the boy had done. The bluff failed to work, for the woman laid the matter before the authorities, who, in turn, notified the chief of police to bring the special to terms or there would be something unpleasant. The special, after being lectured by his superior, conferred with the girl's mother, and, his anger taking another direction, turned against the boy, who was turned out of home.

REMARKABLE BUTTER COW.—Portland Telegram: While gathering information from S M Douglas, a dairyman, living about six miles from Eugene, as to what results he had obtained from his dairy herd of 50 cows, mostly Jerseys, Harvey E Lounsbury, traveling freight agent of the Southern Pacific Company, was told that among the herd was a cow that for three successive years had given an average of 352 pounds of butter per year without varying over two pounds in the total production per year.

YAQUINA BAY.

The Peoples' Harbor Unfairly Treated by the Government Officials.

SOME OTHER ITEMS.

NEWPORT, Aug 21, 1901.

EDITOR GUARD.—The weather still remains splendid here. Monday night the search light on the Columbia was again exhibited to an admiring crowd.

It seems that the government board of engineers are bound to abandon Yaquina Bay and our delegation in Oregon is standing in with them, purposelessly or they are without sufficient influence to protect the main harbor of the Col & W Willamette valley. It is too bad that this is true, especially after the government has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on the work of improving the bar. Today the jetties are washing away by piece-meal and in a short time they will be no more. Even the railroad rails have rusted from the action of the salt water until they are nearly in two at places and are being destroyed by the elements. It seems strange that the powers in Washington should not have preserved this plant that cost so much money, even if they were bound to forever abandon the Bay. To a friend of Yaquina, it looks like premeditated, unadmitted carelessness on the part of the government and our senators and congressmen, in wrecking everything so that in the future no official would dare make a move to rehabilitate the peoples' harbor. We are told that the original plan was for the jetties to extend to the crest of the bar, when a good depth of water could be maintained. But this was not wanted by certain politicians and the work was commanded to be stopped before the point was reached by several hundred feet. What means this? The bar, we are reliably informed by seamen on the tug Roberts, of Florence, is rapidly filling with sand and that vessel, drawing only six feet of water, bumped twice on the bar when she went out on low tide two or three weeks ago. But to defile the people of that section the government is touching off a few tons of dynamite and powder inside of the harbor, which has plenty water and always did. Other pretenses are also made. For instance the harbor lights are burned nightly and a man paid $40 or $50 a month to light them, when no seaman would dare to come in here after nightfall, and few in daylight; the buoys are also kept located, when the only vessels that arrive or depart are the small government light house tenders, and the tug Roberts.

How different when a few years ago steamships arrived and departed every five days to and from San Francisco bringing in each trip hundreds of tons of merchandise for all the towns between Portland and Roseburg, and carrying outward bound nearly half the wheat and oats raised in the Willamette valley and other products, besides hundreds of cargoes of the famous Yaquina rock so much demand in San Francisco for buildings. It makes one stop and think, to say the least.

A government agent is here to pay off the Siletz Indians the balance of money due them, which is about $104 each. On account of red tape, a delay is necessary and the government official with a stovepipe hat and kid gloves is "sorry." He only draws $5 per day. The buildings on the reservation is in a terrible state of decay. Only two or three hundred of these Indians remain of a once large tribe, we are informed.

Mr and Mrs W H Hoffman and Mr and Mrs Geo Smith and Cecil Robinson have returned home; Mrs E H Ingham and children and several others have arrived during the last few days.

JAS. H.

RETURNED.—O W Hurd returned here from Astoria this afternoon and will leave for Florence tomorrow. He expects to start up his cannery at Florence Monday, and he will be the only one operated there. His outfit, supplies and workmen will leave Astoria on the Roberts probably Saturday. He expected his supplies from San Francisco, but the strike tied up the Siuslaw schooners. He was compelled to ship his freight overland to Astoria. The extra cost to him will amount to several hundred dollars.

Lebanon Express: Mr Tillman has sold his boarding house in Coburg. He has bought a lot in the Macy addition and is erecting a residence on the same. Mrs Ora Smith, who has been spending a couple of months with her daughter on Blue river, in Lane county, returned to her home near Foster last week.
