TO VIEW THE SURVEY.

Committee of Cottage Grove Citizens Go Over the Route of New Railroad.

Nugget: On Wednesday morning part of the committee which was recently appointed by the chairman of the mass meeting that was held for the purpose of securing the right-of-way for the proposed railroad to Bohemia, accompanied by the railroad's representative, W. F. Murphy, in an inspection of the survey up Row river. Those who went were, R. M. Vesich, Frank Phillips, Chas. Burkholder and Darwin Bristow. They desire to view the course of the route and determine for themselves in what way and how far the road might or might not damage any of the property passed over and note the many advantages to be derived by those whose holdings will be so largely enhanced. This inspection will put them in possession of information which will be imparted to the committee of the whole on their return, and the full committee will then be in position to act knowingly in the future endeavor of securing the right-of-way.

Iverson Items.

Jan 15, 1902.

Mr. Nicholas Moore has returned from a trip to Eugene.

Mr. T. J. McGlynn, of this place, who is stocking a ranch has brought in some excellent animals lately.

Walter Chastain, one of our foremost young men, is at present visiting in Linn county and will be back in a couple of weeks. After being home a few days, he contemplates going to Portland where some of his friends have secured a job for him.

John Pettit is visiting in this community at present.

Isadore Degrad has returned from Roseburg where he has been looking over his timber interests. Mr. Degrad it will be remembered, is a Wisconsin man who has had the courage to strike for the far west to seek a fortune and home and is at present located on Petaluma creek where he owns extensive timber land and other property.

Miss Nora Robertson who has been visiting the red in district No. 100 has returned to her home on Petaluma creek, her winter term of three months being ended. Miss Robertson though in tending her first term of school has given entire satisfaction and we all hope for her return in the spring to teach the summer term.

Roland Vaughn has returned from an extended trip to the St. Lawrence river where he holds a timbered home-stand.

Mrs. George Vaughn is on the sick list as a result of over-exertion. It is hoped that she will be able to be around in a few days; not only her but many others in this neighborhood have not felt well lately.

Ben J. Owen is at present developing his homestead and it will not be long before Mr. Owen will have one of the best ranches on Wild Cat creek.

Progress of Cuba.

Recent statistics show that the exports from Cuba have been largely increased and the imports decreased since it came under American rule. This proves that things are becoming more settled. Cubans can always look back on the change of rulers as the successful turning point in their career. The turning point in the life of any weak, sickly or nervous person will undoubtedly be when they resolve to try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, for ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. This splendid medicine will cure flatulency, heartburn, belching indigestion, dyspepsia and constipation. Thousands of people have been brought back to health by its use during the past fifty years. We therefore urge you to try it. Our private stamp is over the neck of the bottle.

A Deep Mystery.

It is a mystery why women endure backache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, fainting and dizzy spells when thousands have proved that Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles. "I suffered for years with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Phoebe Cherley, of Peterson, Ia., "and a lame back pained me so I could not dress myself, but Electric Bitters wholly cured me, and, although 73 years old, I am now able to do all my housework." It overcomes constipation, improves appetite, gives perfect health. Only 50c at W. L. De Lano's drug store.

Public School Examination.

The Eighth Grade public school examination will be held February 5th, 6th and 7th, 1902. This examination can be taken at the office of the county superintendent or in the several schools of the county. Teachers desiring lists of questions please notify me at once.

The Voice of an Echo.

half laughing. "But I can't think it was my own fault to let it over now." "A. H. H.," said Kinnaird, pursuing his subject, "I acted consistently on the same mistaken theory. And when it came to the question of giving you up I thought always of you first."

"Why I gave you up—which you naturally considered a weakness."

It did not escape Mrs. Hugonin that a dominant weakness of her own was reviving under the continued stress of this absurd conversation, a weakness for sentiment. But it was checked by her vexation with her friend for breaking their tacit understanding, and by the feeling of half contemptuous pity that stole over her as he spoke.

When she a man, she thought, she would never consent to forty to the incompetence of twenty-five. That Kinnaird did so, but absolved her again. Also, she reflected, she had had a headache yesterday, and therefore it was very lucky this conversation had not been started yesterday or she would have been much more provoked than she was now.

"I shall not stop you," she said in a half mischievous tone. "Go on—I won't be angry. You will perhaps admit that if there is anything rankling it is as well for you to abuse me and have it over, even after all these years, whose obituary you have written."

"My dear, my darling," he said, his strong hand clasping hers so quickly that involuntarily her arm struggled like a bird's wing to wrest itself away. "It is ever for me to tell the only woman I ever loved that I love her still and do not mean to let her go again."

"Arthur?"

"Margaret, I love you more than ever."

"It is impossible!"

"I love you!"

"You cannot, cannot be in earnest," she stammered. "Why, you have never told me."

"Never—until now," he laughed. "I learned something when I lost you the first time—my darling!"

"This," said Mrs. Hugonin, partially recovering herself, "is folly, Arthur, and it is most unkind."

"Unkind?" he said. "Do you want me to leave you? No; you would not take me off your guard. I will not quibble with your words," he said, smiling. "May the hour and the scene suggest to you all that they will; may they bring you back to—it was twenty that you were—when it all happened! Margaret, when you were twenty-six I went away from the city of all my hopes, but before I turned my back on it I did as many a refugee had done before me—I sealed up my treasures and hid them, and my store is where I left it. That is why I want you to marry me. All that I had looked forward to telling you—when you were twenty—all that I had to say to you, the secret heart that I had been piling up for our married life, is intact, and now I want you to share it with me."

He paused a moment and then went on: "My dear, I have simply had to wait; that is all. But, please heaven, we will begin again."

Poor Mrs. Hugonin's breath came and went, an unwilling messenger of passion—or, it might be, of sentiment. "Perhaps I was in the wrong," she said. "But why did not you think more of yourself?"

"I am thinking of myself now," said Kinnaird.

Suddenly, as Mrs. Hugonin hung distracted and in doubt, the cliff before them rang faint and sibilant with an echo. It was the town clock of the village striking over beyond the trees. They could not hear it, but, sent from ledge to ledge in the still night air, it struck silvery and remote on the granite facade. As it sounded they both started, he at its elfin suggestions, she at its material reminder.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "It is 11 o'clock!"

"It is," said Kinnaird.

"And we must positively go back to the hotel at once. We are a scandal. Arthur—and you know it, for I saw you start too." She began to smile. "Do you see nothing in the augury?" she asked.

"The augury?"

"We are two old fools," she said. "Think of my boy in his bed, Arthur. Think of my thirty years—be quiet, if you please. I choose to be thirty for formality's sake. It is only the night and the moonlight. When 11 o'clock strikes, we recollect that we ought to be respectfully at home. It is only an echo. Ah, my dear old friend, we have had our past, and it is over. Yours has been unhappy, and I am, oh, so very sorry! But you are contented now and, what is more, you are kind and strong—it is better as it is. Take me back to the hotel—and we shall be wiser of echoes in future."

"I thought you said you had grown old," said Kinnaird. "It is only youth that refuses the echo."

And he took her in his arms and kissed her.

Lord Kelvin's Inventive Eyeglasses.

Soon after Lord Kelvin had assisted in laying the Atlantic cable, when he was yet known as Sir William Thompson, his mind was greatly troubled in devising some method for perfecting the ordinary telegraphic apparatus used on overhead wires, as the old method, or the one then in vogue, was not suited for the varying currents passing along the cables.

The laying of the electric current had the effect of making them run together in one bottom current, with surface ripples. The difficulty which Lord Kelvin had to overcome was to invent a means of clearly distinguishing all the delicate fluctuations.

One day the great inventor's eyeglasses dropped off and swung in front of the magnet. The glass deflected its movements, and from this simple and unexpected incident the "mirror instrument" was invented.

The old idea that the body sometimes needs a powerful, drastic, purgative pill has been exploded, for Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are perfectly harmless, gently stimulate liver and bowels to expel poisonous matter, cleanse the system and absolutely cure constipation and sick headache. Only 25c at W. L. De Lano's drug store.

A Strong Woman

Iowa City, Iowa, Aug. 15, 1900.
My wife was sick for three years. We tried everything without relief and spent much money. My wife tried Wine of Cardui and four bottles cured her. She took two more bottles, knowing she would have to work hard during the hay harvest. She attended to all her household duties and loaded and unloaded all the hay. This medicine gave her strength. Formerly she was weak and tired and could hardly get about, but since she has been taking Wine of Cardui she feels better and stronger than when 20 years of age. J. O. A. EISENHAFER.

Mrs. Eisenhafer had tried everything during her three years sickness and had spent considerable money. She was weak and could hardly get about for three years before she took

WINE OF CARDUI

Now, after taking the Wine of Cardui, she can work with her husband in the hay field. That is hard work, but it is not as injurious to a woman's health as labor in stores, factories and offices where thousands of girls are closely confined year after year. With the aid of Wine of Cardui a woman can do any reasonable work and enjoy good health.

The health that Wine of Cardui brings makes a woman vigorous in body and mind. Freed from those terrible devastating pains a woman grows well and strong naturally. Wine of Cardui regulates the disordered menstruation and cures leucorrhoea, falling of the womb and periodical pains in the head and back caused by standing or sitting a long time in the same position. Theford's Black-Draught puts the bowels, stomach, liver, kidneys and blood in proper shape. Greatly increased strength and endurance is the natural result. Most cases are cured quickly. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui and 25 cent packages of Theford's Black-Draught.
