FRIDAY - - FEBRUARY 28

Missoula, Montana, photographers have organized a defensible trust—a trust with no trust and a uniform scale of prices. At the same time prices have not been advanced.

The growth of Dawson City is indicated by the fact that the First Methodist church of that city has called to the pastorate Reverend James Livingstone, of Windsor, Ontario, at a salary of $3,000.

Governor McBride of Washington accepts no favor from the railroads, nor will he allow his appointees to take free rides. The governor buys a three-thousand mile mileage ticket. We like to see a consistent man, one that does not wander into "primrose paths of dalliance" while exacting strict integrity of action of others.

The war department has arranged for the bringing home from the Philippines of all troops sent there in 1899. There will still be 32,000 left in our Asiatic possession—for a plenio, we suppose, as all the authorities at Washington agree in the assertion that the islands are "pacified." It is a singular sort of pacification that requires a standing army of that size.

An official inquiry into the business of a swindling New York brokerage firm that advertised a method for "getting rich quick," disclosed the names of twenty-three bank cashiers from different parts of the country as patrons of the concern. It is surprising that men in such positions could be deluded with promises of five hundred per cent a month profit on investments.

How many people know the meaning of "sierra," from which the continuations of the Cascade range of mountains to the south of the Oregon-California boundary line take their name—as the Sierra Nevada in the United States and Sierra Madre in Mexico. Webster gives the definition as "a ridge of mountains and craggy rocks, with a serrated and irregular outline." It comes from the Spanish.

It may be of interest to know that the walters at the White House luncheon when President Roosevelt entertained Prince Henry "were dressed in black corded coats, black waistcoats with invisible buttons, black plush knee breeches with gold buckles at the knees, black stockings, patent leather pumps and white gloves." Still it may not be of interest except to make the average American citizen say with Shakespeare's spirit, "what fools these mortals be"—at least some of them not far from the White House.

A gruesome proof of death was that made out by Sheriff Frasier of Portland to enable the mother of Jack Wade, executed by the sheriff for murder, to collect a small insurance on Wade's life. In the line following the printed words, "cause of death," was written "strangulation, legal execution for murder"; "duration of illness," "nine minutes"; "place of death," "jail yard"; "attending physician," "Harry F. McKay." If the mother is allowed to see that written instrument it is not probable that her fingers will touch the money. She will see blood on it—her own blood.

Port Angeles up at the head of Puget Sound has a city council that protests against all kinds of foolishness, especially in the matter of morals. It gets down to business in this good old-fashioned style:

Whereas, one J. A. Lawrence, a resident and citizen of U. S. A., did abandon his estimable wife and family, contrary to morals and right living and came to this city and in an open manner and in violation of law and good morals lived with a Miss B. Darby, apparently as husband and wife, to the chagrin and horror of all good citizens:

Then the Angeles official body proceeds to resolve that the proper officers enforce such laws as will eliminate the objectionable conduct and "all such institutions." It is to be hoped that they will make the town too hot for "one J. A. Lawrence" and his "Darby."

Locomotive Ride Free.

We will give each child between five and 12 years old a short ride on our locomobile who buys a pair of shoes or suit of clothes for him or herself of us, or to those children who do not wish either of the above we will give a ride when $5 in goods have been purchased from any department in our store, sugar by the sack excepted, or with $1 worth of tea purchased at one time; $1 assortment spices and extracts purchased at one time; $1 worth of our coffee, 50c per pound and up, purchased at one time; or $2 assortment of tea, coffee (20 cents and up), spices and extracts purchased at one time.
