TRAMPS ON THE CARS.

The Box Car is often entered by springing the door off its iron way at the side opposite the seal. A party going one way will do this for a party going the opposite direction and then, when all are in, spring the door back again. Since everything externally is in the best of order, long trips may be made in this manner without disturbance or interruption.

Now and then the prisoner is exposed to danger of starvation. A case of this kind has been related to me where only the accidental visit of a train hand saved a man from death.

A railroad accident, whether by water or fire, is a very serious affair to passengers of this sort. You have doubtless read more than once, as I have, of tramps drowned like rats or burned or crushed to death while stealing rides in this fashion. Riding the trucks is done in various ways. A locomotive engineer of my acquaintance has shown me the precise spot from which he had taken out two men at one time. It was on the rear truck of the tender. They were resting face downward on the truck beam, with just eleven inches of vertical space for their bodies by actual measurement.—Independent.

The Crescent as an Emblem.

The crescent has been known since time out of memory. In ancient mythology it decorated the forehead of Diana and of Astarte, the Syrian Venus. In the days of Rome's greatest glory the ladies wore it as an ornament in their hair. Since the foundation of Constantinople, the ancient Byzantium, it has been the emblem of the city and as such adorns its walls and public buildings, besides being stamped on its coins and postage. The legend which accounts for its universal adoption in Turkey, and Constantinople in particular, is as follows:

Philip of Macedon laid siege to the city in the year 340 B. C. He chose a night of unusual darkness for the proposed assault, but was foiled by the moon suddenly breaking from behind a cloud. In commemoration of this providential deliverance the crescent was adopted as the symbol of the city. The Mohammedan sultans were slow to assume this emblem until some one mentioned that it was the symbol of increasing greatness, power changing as rapidly as the phases of the moon.

Too Strong For a Jury.

"You can never tell what a jury will do in the way of awarding damages," said a lawyer. "Some years ago I happened to be present at a meeting between a man injured in the big railroad wreck on the Lake Shore, at Ashabula, and representatives of the road. The man asked $25,000, and the railroad had offered $17,000. The man told his story, and it was a terrible one. It seems that he was caught in the wreck and held by one foot, which was pinched down. The wreck caught fire, and the flames crept toward him. Firemen and others around saturated his clothing with water and placed wet blankets over him, but he was not released until his foot was burned off. It was a greivous story.

"One of the directors of the road was present. He took the claim agent aside and said: 'Give that man $25,000. If he tells his story in court, he will get damages enough to put the road into the hands of a receiver.' He got the money."—New York Tribune.

Comes That Way.

A young minister who was naturally of a shy disposition was rather embarrassed at his first marriage ceremony and unwittingly reversed the usual order of the service, thus making the bridegroom promise to love and obey his blushing bride. The error passed unnoticed at the time, but shortly afterward it dawned upon the father of the bride that a mistake had occurred, and he said to the minister:

"I believe, Mr. —, you have made John promise to love and obey my daughter. Ah, well," he added after a pause and with a sly look at his better half, "I suppose it won't matter much. It generally comes to that anyway."—Pearson's.

A Story of Stevenson.

Robert Louis Stevenson was particularly attached to the "v" in his name and utterly averse to the "ph" form of spelling. Letters of admiring autograph hunters did not often draw him, but one day in Samoa a letter arrived containing praise so judicious that he said, "That I must answer." Then his eye caught the envelope, addressed to R. L. Stephenson. "Stephenson, Step-hen-son!" he cried and, crumpling the offending missive, flung it on the fire.

He Didn't Have to Kneel Down.

Flora—What a lovely ring! And it's a lady's ring too.
Horace—Yes, I thought you would like it.
Flora—Why, is it for me?
Horace—You are a lady, aren't you?
Flora—Oh, dear! This is so sudden!
—Chelsea (Mass.) Gazette.

Last Fate Worse Than His First.

Smith—Poor Wedely is having a hard time of it. His first wife got a divorce from him, you know.
Jones—Yes, and he has a hard time paying her alimony, I suppose.
Smith—Worse than that. She is his present wife's dressmaker.—Chicago News.

Start Girls Right!

Many beautiful girls become invalids for life, because at the crucial period of puberty they pay no attention to the laws of health. Mothers should protect their daughters' health by giving them necessary information and proper treatment. When the menses come on a girl unawares in her inexperience she is either frightened into convulsions, or scared into trying to check the flow. Many girls have checked the flow and it has never started again. And as a result they have grown pale-faced, with "crow-tracks" on their cheeks, and dark hal-moons under their eyes. A dose of taken every morning after a girl is twelve years old will bring the menses on properly and keep them regular. It will help her to develop into attractive womanhood and equip her for the duties of wife and motherhood. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

WINE OF CARDUI

The Hollywood, Ashbury Park, N. J., February 9, 1900. American, and it so favorably impressed me that on my visit to Baltimore during the holidays I purchased a bottle of it for my adopted daughter, who was suffering with female troubles. She had been under the doctor's care for some time, and when her periods would come on her suffering was something terrible. I induced her to try it and the first dose brought on her menses. She took it regularly according to the directions, and was greatly relieved. To use her own words, "It saved my life." J. WESLEY CHURCH.
