The thief evidently feared detection in his crime or else repented and left the wheel in the road, continuing his journey on foot.

WILL WRITE HISTORY

Pros. Schaefer to Write of the Pacific Slope.

ARRANGING FOR PUBLICATION.

Professor Joseph Shafer, of the department of history of the University of Oregon, has just closed a contract with an Eastern publishing house, by which he agrees to write a history of the Pacific Slope. The proposed history will be an authoritative work written from the original sources, and require several years for its production. Professor Schaefer expects to spend the present summer vacation in the library of the Wisconsin Historical Society, conducting research work on the more general phases of the history, while the following Summer he will spend in California, collecting materials from the libraries of that state.

Professor Schaefer is also considering an inquiry from another publishing house or a book of a somewhat special nature on the Columbia River Basin; and, in conjunction with Dr Strong, he is preparing a new edition of "Dwight's Travels," condensed to make it accessible as a source book for the study of the social and economic history of the United States during the nineteenth century. This book grows out of the course on "American Expansion" given at the University during the present year to seniors and graduate students.

INCREASE OUR EXPORTS.

Consul-General Miller Advocates Permanent Commission in the Orient.

The Evening Telegram says: State Food and Dairy Commissioner J W Bailey received a letter recently from H B Miller, United States Consul-General at Niu Chwang, China, in which the consul suggests that Oregon should create a permanent commission that will work in harmony with the chamber of commerce, board of trade and exposition management for the purpose of making a study of and exhibiting the markets and products of the state with the idea of increasing our trade relations with the Orient. When foreign vessels come to our port loaded down with material for our consumption, these vessels, he says, should not go away empty, but should carry back with them some of our products for foreign consumption. This is done to some extent now but if properly handled our foreign exports ought to be doubled.

Consul Miller adds that Oregon should send an exhibit and industrial commission to the National Exposition of Japan, to be held in Osaka next year. He thinks it especially desirable that Oregon should arrange an exhibit in view of the fact that we shall invite the Japanese to come to the Lewis and Clark Centennial. The exhibition opens in May.

BASEBALL CLUB.

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the armory a meeting will be held to organize a team. Hampton Bros have agreed to furnish the members with suits if the team is called Hampton Bros' team. The boys have accepted the proposition and will commence practicing in a few days.

TAKEN TO THE ASYLUM.—Norman Eaylesham, a farmer residing at Greenleaf, Lane county, was examined for insanity this forenoon by Drs L W Brown and W L Cheshire before County Judge H R Kincaid and sentenced to the state insane asylum at Salem.
