Crispi's Narrow Escape.

The Courier des Etats Unis says that on Jan. 14, 1888, the late Francesco Crispi, the great Italian statesman, then a political refugee in Paris, received from an Italian friend connected with the Paris opera two galleys tickets for the performance of that evening, which the emperor and empress were expected to attend. Crispi and his wife were on the point of starting for the theater when the latter exclaimed: "Francesco, where shall we get a candle?"

They were in such destitution that they had neither candles nor matches nor yet the wherewithal to buy them. Going to the opera would involve groping for their room at midnight and going to bed in total darkness. Too proud to confess their condition and to borrow a few sous, they regretfully denied themselves the promised treat, remained in their room and retired before the twilight had faded.

On the following morning they learned of Crispi's attack on the emperor, the police raids and the arrest of all Italian revolutionists found in or near the theater. If Crispi had been in the house, he would certainly have been among the first arrested, for he was known as an ardent disciple of Mazzini.

Division General Poor Speller.

"When I was in the civil war," said General Grosvener, "I had a division commander who was the finest looking man on a horse you ever saw. He was a good soldier, too, but he had some educational deficiencies. One day he thought to drill his division. After some maneuvering he got them lined up in columns of fours to start.

"The proper command is 'Column, forward!' The general didn't know this, and he waved his sword in the air and yelled 'Column!' Not a man moved. The general had a voice you could hear half a mile. He stood up in his stirrups and yelled again, 'Column!' Still there was no move. Then he turned his horse and dashed back to the soldiers.

"What's the matter?" he shouted, so loud that everybody on the parade ground could hear him. 'Can't you understand when I give a command? Column! Column! I'll spell it for you. you idiots—C-o-l-u-m-n-i'."

Strange Effects of Extreme Cold.

Dr. Moss of the English polar expedition of 1875-77, among many other things, told of the strange effects of the extreme cold upon the candles they burned. The temperature was from 35 to 50 degrees below zero, and the doctor says he was considerably discouraged when upon looking at his candle he discovered that the flame "had all it could do to keep warm." It was so cold that the flame could not melt all of the tallow of the candle, but was forced to eat its way down, leaving a sort of skeleton candle standing. There was heat enough, however, to melt old shaped holes in the thin walls of tallow, the result being a beautiful lace-like cylinder of white, with a narrow tongue of yellow flame burning on the inside and sending out many streaks of light into the darkness.

Eating Seals in England.

The water bally of London brought a "quick" seal to court, receiving 29 shillings 8 pence (1530), and in the same year the item "for bringing a cele" 15 shillings occurs. Seals were eaten, though they may have been kept as a curiosity. One was presented to Cromwell, Wolsey's successor in Henry's favor, though it died before he could have derived much pleasure from it. Perhaps he ate it. At Henry VII's wedding feast in 1487 one of the dishes was "seale in fenny, entirely served richly," and very rich it must have been. In Cromwell's accounts for 1537 William Wodehouse's servant brings a porpoise, and porpoises we know are eaten.—Good Words.

Highdown Language.

In the case of the flow of language in praise of rulers is sometimes wonderful. The Burmese greeting Lord Curzon, viceroy of India, at the Royal lakes, declared that "his glory shines resplendent as the orb of day, his intellect is as far-reaching as the lightning. May he be as glorious as the sun and moon."

The Prince of Wales was extolled by an oriental subject as "great thief" under the impression that this was the highest possible compliment. Another monarch was named "the protector of all vegetables, regulator of the seasons, absolute master of the ebb and flow of the sea."

Only One Clean Thing.

When Jones was at Oxford, he was a most excellent fellow, and had only one enemy—soap. He was called Dirty Jones. One day the wag Brown went into his rooms and remonstrating with him on the untidy, slovenly and dirty state of everything said:

"Upon my word, Dirty, it's too bad. The only clean thing in your room is the towel!"

First Fruits.

Kindergarten—Children, this morning I have a surprise for you. I have brought a lovely big rubber plant for us to have in our room, and every day we will water it and—

Gracie—Oh, Miss H., can't I have the first pair of rubbers?—Chicago Tribune.

Executive Ability.

Little Clarence—Pa, what is executive ability?

Mr. Cailliere—Executive ability, my son, is the capacity for making some one else paddle your canoe for you.—Judge.

An Object Lesson.

"Oh, mamma, here's a chestnut."

"Yes, my dear. Now name me two other kinds of nuts."

"Frogs and forget-me-nots."—Life.

Newly Furnished Lodging House

New beds in newly painted and papered rooms at the Courthouse Lodging House. Only one block from the main business street, and a little more than two blocks from the postoffice. A very quiet locality. Outside rooms at rear corners away from hall, splendid for day sleeping. Windows of these rooms under projecting roof, cutting off much of the light.

Come and see the rooms and I will guarantee that you will be satisfied.

Malay Weapons.

The national Malay weapon, the creese, is said to have been invented by a Javanese monarch of the fourteenth century. Its varieties are said to exceed a hundred, and there are in Javanese no fewer than fifty names for them. It varies in size, from the two foot wavy blade of Sulu down to a mere toothpick. But the peculiarity is that the weapon is never ground, but kept rough and sawlike in edge by scouring with lime juice or the juice of an unripe pineapple, sometimes mixed with arsenic, and it is on this account that creese wounds are so dangerous.

Old specimens are so eaten away by this practice that the blade seems formed from a bunch of wires roughly welded up. Such creeses are highly valued, and some of the ancient ones, heirlooms of chiefs, with grotesquely carved and inlaid hilts and sheaths, are almost unobtainable.

Where Theft Is Not Robbery.

In China theft is so common that nobody notices it. A young Chinaman once slipped three oranges up his sleeve at a party. While making his bow at parting the oranges slipped out and rolled on to the floor. He accounted for the awkward event by saying that his mother was very fond of oranges. His fault was straightway overlooked, and he was afterward held up as an instance of filial piety. There are several proverbs which go to show that the folk think lightly of stealing. One says that "when tailors cease to pilfer cloth their children will have to go without food," and another declares, "When silversmiths do not steal, they will certainly starve."

The Trifling Brother.

"Br'er Jenkins, you so triflin' dat I v'ly believe of you wuz 'plinted ter watchman at de peary gate de fust t'ing y'd do would be ter let down on go'f asleep."

"Br'er Thomas, you may well say dat, kaze I'd sho' feel so good over de 'plintment I'd des natchally batter go ter sleep ter dream ef it wuz true."

Atlanta Constitution.

Discovered.

A story is told of a little girl who asked one morning at the breakfast table, "Mamma, is hash animal or vegetable?"

"Animal, my dear," replied mamma.

"Then," holding the little one triumphantly, holding up a tiny bone, "here's the hash's tooth!"

A Ready Reply.

Foot's ready reply to the caution, "Your handkerchief, sir, is hanging out of your pocket," was of high merit, both from the surprise and for the cordial way in which the caution was accepted—"Thank you, sir, you know the company better than I do."—Gentleman's Magazine.

No Reason For Delay.

"My darling," he exclaimed, "I would go to the end of the earth for you." There was a slight pause while the orchestra played tremulously again.

"Suppose," she said, "you begin your travels now."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Messenger Boy.

"Why is it that one can never get a bright, reliable and speedy messenger?"

"De company don't pay dat kind of wages, ma'am."—Indianapolis News.

It Is Never Right to Say What One Does Not Mean.

It is never right to say what one does not mean, but why not mean the nice things? Insincerity does not necessarily follow in the wake of politeness.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Elsie Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but when all other medicines failed, three 40 cent bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 25 pounds." City Property for Sale

Handicraft Addition to Eugene.

To those desiring to purchase city lots, I have laid out an addition on the south side of the city and north of College Hill Park. I have 120 lots in this addition, and am selling them very low so as to enable every one to have a home of their own. The price of these lots is from $50 up.

Ellen Stewart Addition to Eugene.

I have some very desirable lots in this addition, in the very heart of the city and within a few blocks of Willamette street.

Whitaker's Addition to Eugene.

I have a few lots in this addition within two blocks of the First National Bank.

College Hill Park.

I have 100 lots in this addition. The price now is $50 each. We will advance the price soon. We expect College Hill Park to become the most desirable residence property in or near the city.

Handicraft Addition to Eugene.

I have 70 lots for sale cheap in this addition; also 40 or 50 acres of very choice fruit land. I have on this place 1500 young fruit trees, about 400 Bartlett pear trees, and 200 black walnut trees, also apples, plums and small fruits. This place has a good farm house, barn and out-houses, and is a most beautiful suburban piece of property. It is known as the Locust Hill farm, and there is no place in the state more beautifully and pleasantly situated.
