SCHOOLBOY FURNISH.

That was a regular schoolboy speech of Mr. Furnish's, rendered in a monotone. If he had been in a schoolroom the teacher would have made him speak louder, so at least the people could have heard what was written for him to read. No Republican who witnessed the humiliating spectacle of that schoolboy speech last evening will vote "with pride" for Furnish. He may vote for him but it will be with a humiliating sense of the unfitness of the man for the place. The wonder is that the Furnish managers should permit him to make a public spectacle of himself. They must be depending on the big party majority to pull him through.

MR. FURNISH'S NOTES.

Mr. Furnish spoke from "notes" last night. He has been doing that a good part of his life. He spoke from "notes," United States notes, when Democratic sheriff of Umatilla county, and later was more extensively engaged in the "note" business in taking worthless white men from Pendleton to Portland for selling whiskey to Indians, at the rate of about a hundred dollars to the trip per man. If all reports are true, though, Mr. Furnish's most extensive business in "notes" was when he captured the Umatilla Republican county convention from his opponent, Judge Stephen Lowell, and Judge Lowell says a man who deals so extensively in "notes" is not worthy of the governor's office. Although a life-long Republican he will vote for Chamberlain.

He made his money as a Democratic officeholder. Now he wants to give the state a business administration! If elected he would do "business" for Furnish. "Can the Ethiopian change his skin or the leopard his spots?"

IT DOESN'T REQUIRE A LONG LONG MEMORY!

 If you want scuttie, contraction and renewal of hard times, you may depend on Democratic policy for these results. It doesn't require a long memory.—Oregonian.
No, "it doesn't require a long memory" to recall the fact that President Harrison was defeated for a second term and went out of office with the worst financial crisis on hand since the "Black Friday" of General Grant's administration. Yet the pervert of facts in the Oregonian office would have the public forget history—makes history when through indirection it charges "Democratic policy" with the hard times that put Benjamin Harrison out of the presidential office. It is useless to look for fair political presentation in the Oregonian. It is entirely shameless. And it seems to glory in its shamelessness.

Of course the Spanish insurrection telegraphed from Havana that the United States will not raise the battleship Maine as it would prove that her destruction was wrought by an explosion from her own magazine, is foundationless. This government's examinations conclusively showed that the explosion came from without. If it was not exclusive so the knowledge possessed by the divers, and through them imparted to officials, would have become public property long ago. It could not be suppressed.

The Oregonian and Register report S. H. Friendly as supporting the Republican county and state ticket "from top to bottom." Honors are not easy in this case. Although Mr. Friendly would make an excellent state senator by reason of his business training and loyalty to Eugene and Lane county interests, Republican county conventions invariably "turn him down" for less worthy and influential men.

The Register finds consolation in the statement that "there are three Furnish buttons to one Chamberlain button to be found in Eugene and throughout the county."—But buttons don't vote, though, even if the statement is true. The election will be settled by ballots cast under the Australian system of voting.

The Portland Telegram says bathers "dot the river bank above the Pennoyer mill and also make headquarters on the island." The small boy can't wait for warm water. If the air is reasonably warm that is enough to warrant him in "going in swimming."

The Irishman does not appreciate the racial caricatures bestowed upon him, hence an organized effort to discountenance stage makeups and comic paper travesties on the Irish race.

In examining a man for life insurance New York doctors found his heart on the right side. That man can always say his "heart is on the right side," even though he is on the wrong side.
