BROKEN LANGUAGE.

We Understand It Much Better Than Do the Europeans.

One is astonished that the Parisian, the Londoner and the Berliner cannot understand any one who speaks his language brokenly. Where would we be if we were of Anglo-Saxon stock but for the fact that we must understand many sorts of English not "as she is spoken," but "English as she is broken" by half a dozen sorts of wreckers of our tongue. We must understand "vornor" English, peanut stand and bootblack's English, the pidgin English of the laundries and the truly awful muddle of those who start with a potpourri called "yiddish" and end by mangleing English with it.

In Paris if you merely shift the emphasis from the last syllable, where it is always placed in French, to the first syllable, even the most familiar French words fall like so much Greek upon the unyielding French ears. In London if you say, "I'll come back at noon," they declare you "a foreigner" because you did not say "midday," but if you took any real liberty with their tongue and should say, "I'll back again by dinner time come," you might as well ask the average Englishman to understand Chaldean. It is the same in Berlin. You must go to Bombay, Port Said or Shanghai if you want to find English made elastic as it is in our American cities.—New York Mail and Express.

Right Side Wears Out First.

"The journals in street car trucks always wear out on the right side first," said an expert in traction mechanics the other day. "That's because the majority of people are right handed. This sounds funny, but it's a fact. Right handed people involuntarily choose a seat on the right hand side of the car, and most people standing up reach for a strap on the right. Any conductor will tell you that the right hand seats always fill up before the seats on the left, and if you make it a point to count the number of persons occupying seats in a crowded car you'll almost invariably find that there are more people squeezed into the right hand seats than in the left. This, with the majority of standing passengers holding on to the right hand straps, throws most of the weight on the right wheels, and the extra friction grinds the right side journals down before those on the left are much worn."

A Matter of Spelling.

Those who love to study human nature often derive as much pleasure from watching the people who visit picture galleries as they receive from the pictures themselves. It is not every day, however, which produces so amusing an incident as one which an English paper reports:

Two ladies were looking at a picture by Mr. Faed in the Royal Academy entitled "His Only Pair." The artist has depicted a poor boy sitting up in bed while his hardworking mother mends his only pair of trousers. The boy, although obliged to stay in bed while the repairs are under way, is contentedly eating an orange.

One of the visitors looked at the picture with searching gaze and then remarked to her companion: "His Only Pair?" "I don't call that a pair at all! It's an orange that he is eating."

Ancient Superstitions.

The ancients peopled all distant lands with monsters and all distant seas with horrors. Unknown and distant countries were, to their superstition, peopled with "gorgons, hydras and chimeras dire." The distant seas were filled with monstrous dragons and serpents, of which the sea serpent is today perhaps a survival. The unknown oceans were filled with whirlpools that sucked in mariners who were sacrilegious enough to approach them to an awful death.

Perhaps these superstitions, as much as any one thing, kept the world for so many centuries an unexplored and unknown waste.

Carvings on Easter Island.

The hard volcanic rock of Easter Island is covered with carvings intended to represent human faces, birds, fishes and mythical animals. Fishes and turtles appear common among these sculptures, but the most common figure is a mythical animal, half human in form, with bowed back and long, clawlike legs and arms. According to the natives, this symbol was intended to represent the god "Meke-Meke," the great spirit of the sea.

The Soft Answer.

Mr. Editor (he wrote):

You will very kindly note there's a poem and a stamp inclosed within. If the poem stands no show, use the stamp to let me know, but I'll be a poet yet, you bet.

J. FLYNN.

Then the editor wrote back:

Although worth it doesn't lack, yet such maudlin rhymes as yours are seldom read. Here's $1 for your letter, which is infinitely better for your poem, which you'll find inclosed.

—Smart Set.

MARCO POLO'S BOOK.

It Gave Columbus the Idea For His Voyage of Discovery.

Medieval Europe knew but very little of eastern and northeastern Asia. Many of the most learned cosmographers of the time taught that Asia stretched eastward indefinitely, and no one imagined that it had an eastern coast washed by the ocean. It was seriously taught that eastern Asia was a land of vast swamps, inhabited by monster serpents and dragons. This was the opinion that still prevailed up to within 200 years of the time of Columbus.

At this time two Venetian merchants of the name of Polo went on a vast trading expedition to the uttermost parts of Asia. They were gone many years. Upon their return the son of one of them, a young man named Marco Polo, wrote out a full account of their travels, described the empire of the grand khan (the Chinese emperor) and revealed the fact that Asia was bounded on the east by a vast ocean. He described this eastern coast minutely, with all its vast cities and its wealth of precious stones and spices.

It was from reading this book that the imagination of Columbus was fired, and he conceived the bold idea of reaching this eastern coast of Asia by sailing toward the west around the earth.

So when he discovered Cuba he had not a doubt that he had landed upon the coast of Asia and that he looked upon the same scenes that Marco Polo had gazed upon 200 years before.

An Adamless Ball.

One of the freaks of the artistic women of Berlin is to get up a ball every two years, called "the women painters' fete." Not a single male is admitted on this occasion. The ball lasts generally till about 6 o'clock in the morning. Although the women lay stress on refusing admission to men, a large number of the revelers don male attire, and one of the most striking features of the evening is the exuberant and frolicsome, not to say boisterous, fun these female "men" have with their partners.

During the evening an orchestra of women in men's dress clothes performed under the direction of an imitation of Herr Nikisch, the well known conductor. The night passed off merrily, and next day all the ladies who were there declared emphatically they had amused themselves divinely—far better than if men had been present at the entertainment.—London Times.

A Soulless Satrap.

The imaginative writer should avoid a newspaper editor as he (or she) would a wet spot on the pavement or a chill draft from a window. He is a harsh, unhappy man, the center of a cold wave, and the amenities of life are removed from him. He is a soulless satrap, a stiffer of hope and enthusiasm, with one eye on the facts of the day and the other on his job.

... If you leave your little work of art in his hands, he will lose it in his pigeon of a sanctum and stick the doorway or the office cat at you when you complain, or he may print it unwittingly, mutilated and unsigned, and if he thinks to send you a check will pay less than for an account of a fire or a prizefight.—Saturday Evening Post.

Kipling's "Vampire."

Rudyard Kipling's verses, written for Sir Philip Burne-Jones' striking painting, "The Vampire," were the result of much labor and persistent pursuit of an idea that had long proved elusive. When it was finished and Burne-Jones expressed obligations for it, Kipling wrote a delightful letter, presenting him with the copyright. "The verses for 'The Vampire,'" he wrote, "which we will call vampirology, are your property. So if any one wants to dramatize 'em, set 'em, set 'em to music, paint 'em sky blue, translate 'em into Erse, Celtic or Hittite, use 'em for half dye advertisement or Church of England hymn you must deal with that man."

Unique.

A Chicagoan had been taken around Boston all day to observe her bulwarks, but had failed to exhibit any of those symptoms of paralysis which are acceptable to the Bostonian mind.

"Now, confess," said the Bostonian host after the burden and heat of the day, "isn't Boston a unique town?"

"Unique?" mused the westerner. "I believe that word is derived from two Latin words—una, one, and equus, horse. I think Boston is a unique town."

The Cat.

An English clergyman the other day preached to the prisoners of Wormwood Scrubs prison in support of the Church Society For the Promotion of Kindness to Animals. He announced that the cat was pre-eminently the friend of the poor man and further stated that it was specially deserving of consideration because it was weaker than man, was useful to man and could feel like man.

Early Test Destructive.

The Flanccs—George and I have never had a quarrel.

Her Friend—Oh, I think you ought to have one before you are married. Otherwise you can't be sure whether you are going to have your own way or not.—Judge.

His Predilection.

"I notice that the landlady only helps you to the scraps," whispered the new boarder. "Why don't you leave?"

"I can't," responded the meek man. "You see, I am the landlady's husband."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Stand Like a Stone Wall.

City Property for Sale

HENDERICKS' ADDITION TO EUGENE.—To those desiring to purchase city lots, I have laid out an addition on the south side of the city and north of College Hill Park. I have 120 lots in this addition, and am selling them very low so as to enable every one to have a home of their own. The price of these lots is from $50 up.

ELIAS STEWART ADDITION TO EUGENE.—I have some very desirable lots in this addition, in the very heart of the city and within a few blocks of Willamette street.

WHITAKER'S ADDITION TO EUGENE.—I have a few lots in this addition within two blocks of the First National Bank.

COLLEGE HILL PARK.—I have 100 lots in this addition. The price now is $50 each. We will advance the price soon. We expect College Hill Park to become the most desirable residence property in or near the city.

HENDERICKS' ADDITION TO COLLEGE HILL PARK.—We have 70 lots for sale cheap in this addition; also 40 or 50 acres of very choice fruit land. I have on this place 1300 young fruit trees, about 400 Bartlett pear trees, and 200 black walnut trees, also apples, plums and small fruits. This place has a good farm house, barn and out-houses, and is a most beautiful suburban piece of property. It is known as the Loomis Hill farm, and there is no place in the state more beautifully and pleasantly situated.

I am not in real estate business as a business—we sell our own lands only. I employ no agents. Any one desiring to purchase any of this property will find me at the First National Bank. I will be pleased to show property and give prices. I might exchange some of this property for good timber land. Come and see me.

MISS FAY LEE.

President of the Shakespearean Club, Kansas City.

"Your booklet came to my home like a message of health when I had suffered with headache, backache and bearing-down pains. I was weak, nervous and hysterical and had not consulted any doctor, thinking it would pass away in time, but instead I found that the pains increased and were more frequent. I decided to try Wine of Cardui and in a short time was much improved. It seemed to act like a charm. I kept up the treatment and the result was most satisfactory. Words fail to express my gratitude for the suffering that is now saved me. I am in fine health, physically and mentally. I can only say 'thank you,' but there is much more in my heart for you."

BEARING-DOWN pains are the worst that women suffer. If you are suffering from this trouble you need not be uncertain about it. The pains in the abdomen and back that feel as if heavy weights were pulling down on the nerves of the stomach are "bearing-down pains." They may not be particularly severe at present but they are growing worse. That headache which nearly drives you distracted now is caused by the terrible nervous tension. The nerves soon begin to give way under the strain. You perhaps jump at any unusual disturbance, or laugh or weep hysterically, at no apparent cause. That is what Miss Fay Lee, 6335 North Seventh Street, Kansas City, Kansas, was coming to when she rescued herself by taking Wine of Cardui. The Wine made her a strong, healthy woman again, as it has made a million other women strong and healthy. By inducing regular menstruation the entire system is relieved of the terrible wasting drains. The ligaments which hold the womb in place are strengthened by a healthy flow and that organ is returned to its normal position. Returning health is the result. This is what Wine of Cardui has done for thousands of the best women in America.

If you need advice write The Ladies' Advisory Department, The Chattanooga Medicine Company, Chattanooga, Tenn., describing all your symptoms freely, and a letter of advice will be sent you. Secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist to-day.

A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

WINE of CARDUI

Newly Furnished Lodging House

New beds in newly painted and papered rooms at the Courthouse Lodging House. Only one block from the main business street, and but a little more than two blocks from the postoffice. A very quiet location.

Outside rooms at rear corners away from hall, splendid for day sleeping. Windows of these rooms offer projecting roof, cutting off much of the light.

Come and see the rooms and I will guarantee that you will be satisfied.

Ed Howe.

Don't Be Deceived

With 65 or 70 per cent whiskeys or brandies and think it better than France's pure double distilled 100 proof brandies. Just have them tested free of charge at Fifth and Blair streets Eugene, Oregon.
