Assuming Husband's Name.

The practice of the wife assuming the husband's name at marriage, according to Dr. Brewer, originated from a Roman custom and became the common custom after the Roman occupation. Thus Julia and Octavia, married to Pompey and Cicero, were called by the Romans Julia of Pompey, Octavia of Cicero, and in latter times married women in most European countries signed their names in the same manner, but omitted the "of." Against this view may be mentioned that during the sixteenth and even at the beginning of the seventeenth century the usage seems doubtful, since we find Catharine Parr so signing herself after she had been twice married, and we always hear of Lady Jane Grey (not Dudley), Arabella Stuart (not Seymour), etc.

Some persons think that the custom originated from the Scriptural teaching that husband and wife are one. This was the rule of law so far back as Bracton (died 1268), and it was decided in the case of Bon versus Smith, in the reign of Elizabeth, that a woman by marriage loses her former name and legally receives the name of her husband. Altogether the custom is involved in much obscurity.

Holy Coat of Treves.

The holy coat preserved at Treves, in Germany, is claimed to be the seamless garment worn by Christ and for which the Roman soldiers cast lots during the crucifixion. It is a tunic about five feet long, cut narrow at the shoulders and gradually widening toward the knees. Many miracles are said to have been performed by this robe. Its history for the last 700 years is clear enough, but darkness shrouds the story of the relic prior to the twelfth century. The Catholic church relies for proof of its authenticity upon a tradition that it was one of a chestful of relics sent as a gift to the church at Treves by the Empress Helena. She is said to have found the coat at Jerusalem while in search of the true cross.

A legend says that in the ninth century the holy coat was concealed from the Normans in a crypt of the cathedral. There it remained forgotten until 1196, when it was rediscovered and placed in the high altar.

An Extraordinary Shower.

Daniel O'Connell, the Irish agitator, once complained in the house of commons of a report of a speech in a London newspaper which, he said, put into his mouth opinions he had never expressed. He vowed that if the editor did not apologize he would move that he be brought to the bar for a breach of privilege.

Next day the reporter of the speech waited upon O'Connell and gave a most remarkable explanation. He stated that during his walk from the house to his office in Fleet street the rain streamed into his pockets and obliterated the notes of his speech.

How to Light a Solid Body.

Cadogan Morgan was the first electrician to experiment with electric light in solid bodies. This was in 1785. He first inserted two wires into a stick of wood and caused the spark to pass between them. This had the effect of illuminating the stick a beautiful blood red. An ivory ball, an orange or an apple may be lighted in the same manner. Some experimenters prefer the lemon for this purpose, it being very susceptible to the electric discharge, flashing forth at every spark as a spheroid of brilliant golden light. The wires used for this purpose should be brought within about half an inch of each other inside the lemon.

How She Voted.

A cynical bachelor listening to some women who were discussing female suffrage was asked by one of them for his views on the question. He replied thus, with great deliberation: "I once heard of a woman who was asked how she had voted at the recent election. 'In my plum colored gown,' was the answer."

Breaking Off.

"Yes," said the ingenious girl heroically, "I have decided to break with Horace for good and all."

"Why, then, are you sending him your picture?"

"Well, I am sure that is the least I can do. He refused to take back his gifts, and I wanted to make some return, so I am sending him my photograph."—New York Press.

Music and Passion.

"My daughter," remarked Mrs. A., "has developed a perfect passion for music."

"I wonder," observed Mrs. B., who resides next door. "If it's as strong as the passion your daughter's music develops in my husband?"

They meet as strangers now.

Reversed His Decision.

Stern Father—Didn't I tell you not to call again, sir?

Son—I know. But I didn't call to see your daughter. I came on behalf of our firm about that little bill."

Stern Father—Er—er—call again, will you?

"Prayer" as It Preys.

Very strange is the insect popularity known as the "praying mantis." Of this insect M. J. H. Fabre, a distinguished French naturalist, made a thorough study. According to him, "its long, pale green wings, like ample veils, its head upraised to heaven, its arms folded and crossed on its breast, give it a false resemblance to a nun in ecstatic devotion."

A ferocious creature it is, ever bent on carnage, the workshops of various burrowing hymenoptera being its favorite haunts, since there it is almost certain to find prey.

"Posted on some bush near the burrows," says Mr. Fabre in his account of the insect, "it waits patiently until it sees some other insect, probably a sphinx, returning home. By a sudden rush of its half open wings it terrifies the approaching insect, which hesitates for a moment, and then as suddenly as a spring the toothed forearms fold back on an arm also toothed, and the insect is grasped between the blades of the double saw in the same manner as the jaws of a wolf trap close on an unfortunate wolf at the instant when it is seizing the bait. Then, without unclenching the deadly machine, the mantis slowly eats its victim."

In Provence this cruel insect is known as "progo dieu," which means "pray to God."

The Deaf Mute's Story.

"The most pathetic story I ever heard," said Senator Hoar once, "was told by Professor Gallaudet. The professor had a favorite pupil, a little deaf mute boy, exceptionally bright. Mr. Gallaudet asked him if he knew the story of George Washington and the cherry tree.

"With his nimble fingers the little fellow said he did, and then he proceeded to repeat it. The needless gesticulations continued until the boy had informed the professor of the elder Washington's discovery of the mutilated tree and of his quest for the mutilator."

"When George's father asked him who had cut his favorite cherry tree," signaled the voiceless child, "George put his hatchet in his left hand."

"Stop," interrupted the professor, "where did you get your authority for saying he took the hatchet in his left hand?"

"Why," responded the boy, "he needed his right hand to tell his father that he cut the tree."

Virus and Venom.

The difference between venom and a virus is very marked. Both are poisons and both of organic origin, but a virus is produced in secreting organs, commonly called poison glands, and is introduced into the system by means especially adapted for the purpose, such as stings or fangs. On the other hand, a virus is the result of disease or putrefaction and generally possesses the property of exciting in the system into which it is introduced the disease which produced the virus. A virus commonly produces little if any local disturbance. A venom generally causes great pain, often severe inflammation and swelling. Venom has a marked local effect. Virus causes a general disturbance of the system.

An Odd Habit Among Rooks.

Among the odd habits of rooks is the way that members of the same rookery have of intermarrying generation after generation. The males always choose their wives from among their near neighbors, and if one should be so bold as to bring home to his rookery a bride from a distance the other rooks will invariably refuse to receive her and will force the pair to build some way off. In the neighborhood of big rookeries outlying nests of this kind may always be found.

Fresh Paint Stains.

A fresh paint stain on woolen goods will disappear if rubbed against other woolen goods. For instance, if the stain is on the sleeve of a coat take that garment off and rub the paint against the other sleeve. It will disappear and leave no sign. This is easier than applying turpentine and exactly as efficacious, but it must be done while the paint is still wet.

Very Legal.

"We claim that my client did not run away with the horse, as alleged. The horse was ahead of him all the time, and he simply followed the horse. The prosecuting attorney—it amounts to the same thing. He is old enough to know better than to follow a bad example."—Boston Transcript.

Something Like It.

"Does your son matriculate this year, Mrs. Hammond?"

"Why, really, I don't know. I ain't heard anything about matriculation, but he wrote me in his last letter that he had got vaccinated, and it took terrible."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Serene Superiority.

"Mr. Loftibrow takes himself very seriously," remarked Miss Cayenne.

"In what way?"

"He asked me if I thought I could be happy with him. As if his presence could make the slightest difference one way or another!"—Exchange.

Its Reason For Being.

"What kind of a society is yours?" asked her father.

"A secret society," she replied.

"But what is its object?"

"Oh, just to have secrets from the other girls!"—Chicago Post.

None to Spare.

"Beg pardon," said the suspicious looking fellow, meeting Subbitts in a dark street, "but what time have you?"

"Just enough to catch my train," replied Subbitts as he hastened on.—Exchange.

City Property for Sale

HENDRICKS' ADDITION TO EUGENE.—To those desiring to purchase city lots, I have laid out an addition on the south side of the city and north of College Hill Park. I have 120 lots in this addition, and am selling them very low so as to enable every one to have a home of their own. The price of these lots is from $50 up.

ELIAS STEWART ADDITION TO EUGENE.—I have some very desirable lots in this addition, in the very heart of the city and within a few blocks of Willamette street.

WHITEAKER'S ADDITION TO EUGENE.—I have a few lots in this addition within two blocks of the First National Bank, College Hill Park.

I have 100 lots in this addition. The price now is $50 each. We will advance the price soon. We expect College Hill Park to become the most desirable residence property in or near the city.

HENDRICKS' ADDITION TO COLLEGE HILL PARK.

We have 70 lots for sale cheap in this addition; also 40 or 50 acres of very choice fruit land. I have on this place 1300 young fruit trees, about 400 Bartlett pear trees, and 200 black walnut trees, also apples, plums and small fruits. This place has a good farm house, barn and out-houses, and is a most beautiful suburban piece of property. It is known as the Locust Hill farm, and there is no place in the state more beautifully and pleasantly situated.

I am not in real estate business as a business—we sell our own lands only. I employ no agents. Any one desiring to purchase any of this property will find me at the First National Bank. I will be pleased to show property and give prices. I might exchange some of this property for good timber land. Come and see me.

ADDITIONAL PARAGRAPHS.

I have the following farm property for sale:

THE GORDON RANCH.

A farm of 227 acres eleven miles west of Eugene. This property has a house and barn and about 20 acres in cultivation with an orchard in bearing, and two good springs of living water. Is timbered with a nice second growth of fir and oak timber and is adapted to farming and stock raising. It is a snap at $5 per acre.

WILSON PLACE.

I own the Wilson farm of 144 acres two miles west of Elmira. It has a log house and barn and is covered with timber. We offer this place at $400 for the tract. A bargain.

GRANGER RANCH.

I am offering this ranch of 160 acres for $500. This place has a house and barn and about 10 acres in cultivation. It is 18 miles southwest of Eugene and will make a fine home for someone wishing to go into the stock business.

ACREAGE TRACTS.

I have three ten-acre tracts within one mile of the court house. These places are partly planted in young growing fruit trees and are very desirable for one who wants to live in the country and yet enjoy the benefits of city life. Just outside the city limits. Price on these lands, $100 an acre.

Eugene, May 16.

T. G. HENDRICKS.

Newly-Furnished Lodging House

New beds in newly painted and papered rooms at the Courthouse Lodging House. Only one block from the main business street, and but a little more than two blocks from the postoffice. A very quiet locality. Outside rooms at rear corners away from hall, splendid for day sleeping. Windows of these rooms under projecting roof, cutting off much of the light.

Come and see the rooms and I will guarantee that you will be satisfied.
