An Ingenious Beartrap.
The Mexicans in California had an ingenious method of trapping bears before the advent of the Yankees brought modern firearms into the region. A piece of meat was nailed to the stout horizontal limb of an oak tree. From a limb five or six feet above a rope was suspended, to the end of which a large stone was made fast so that it hung about six inches above and a trifle nearer the trunk than the meat on the lower limb.

When a bear smelled the meat from afar, he would climb up the tree and make his way to the bait. In doing so he would push the stone pendulum to one side. Just as he was about to fasten his teeth in the meat the stone would swing back and bang his head. This would arouse the anger of the bear, and he would give the stone a sweep of his paw which would send it swinging farther out. The consequence was a harder bang and more anger. The more he struck the stone the harder he would be hit in return until from ferocious anger he would lose his caution and attack the pendulum with all his vigor. One powerful sweep, then bang! and brain would be tumbled out of the tree to the rocks below, where, disabled by his fall, he would be at the mercy of those who set the trap whenever they chose to take him.

The Disadvantages of Heroism.
It would be a good thing if in our public school courses in heroism to teach the boys and girls that, after all, while heroism is a fine thing and a great thing, it is a most uncomfortable thing and that possibly, on the whole, the best and most lasting work that is accomplished in life comes from a steady application of all one's best energies to a noble purpose, meeting with honest and patient effort the emergencies and vexations of daily life and holding true to the middle course, which assures success without bringing notoriety. A fixed purpose to do well that one has to do will in the end bring laurels of more permanent value to the world at large and to the unheralded hand that achieves its purpose than those which are even worthily bestowed upon the brow of him who avails himself of an unusual chance in an abnormal fashion.—Harper's Weekly.

Smothered in Roses.
The Sybarites slept on beds stuffed with rose leaves; the tyrant Dionysius had his couch filled with them; Venus would travel with a garland on his head and around his neck, and over his litter he had a thin net, with rose leaves interwoven; Antiochus luxuriated upon a bed of blooms even in winter days and nights, and when Cleopatra entertained Antony she had roses covering the floor to the depth, it is said, of an ell.

We are told that Hellogabalus supplied so many at one of his banquets that several of his guests were suffocated in the endeavor to extricate themselves from the abundance—victims of a surfeit of sweet odors.

Swift Wings.
It is difficult to account for the enormous velocity of some birds' flight when migrating. The northern blue throat goes at the rate of 540 miles an hour, flying 4,800 miles from Egypt to Heigoland in a spring night of barely nine hours. Virginian plover fly from Labrador to North Brazil, 9,000 miles, without stopping, going at the rate of 636 miles an hour and probably more. How can this speed be attained? The birds resort to great heights, where the resistance of the air is slight.

Living in a Crater.
There is no more interesting or curious sight on this earth than the interior of the extinct crater, Aso San, about thirty miles from the city of Kumamoto, in Japan. This peculiar locality is inhabited by 20,000 people, who live and prosper within its vertical wall 200 feet high. The inhabitants rarely make a journey into the outer world, but form, as it were, a little nation by themselves.

How Greeley Learned to Read.
By a singular adaptation to the changes of motion on his mother's part while spinning Horace Greeley when a youngster acquired the unwanted quality of reading with the book in almost any position, sideways or upside down, as readily as in the usual fashion without at that time thinking it anything unusual.

Aching Yoids.
"Brooks," said Rivers, "that's the second time I've heard you use the phrase 'aching yoid.' I wish you would tell me how a yoid can ache."

"Well," said Brooks, reflecting a moment, "not to speak of a hollow tooth, don't you sometimes have the headache?"—Chicago Tribune.

There Was No Music.
"What is the greatest sin that ever impressed itself on your experience, Snapper?"

"Well, by all odds, the worst one I ever heard was that your quartet perpetrated last night when they came round to the house and sang, 'There's Music in the Air.'"

The Value of Science.
Science is a first rate piece of furniture for a man's upper chamber if he has common sense on the ground floor, but if a man hasn't plenty of good common sense the more science he has the worse for the patient.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Tooth.
Bobby—My gran'ma's so old she ain't got a tooth in her head.
Tommy—Ain't she? Well, maybe they're in her bureau drawer, like my Aunt Tillie's is sometimes.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Filthy Temples in India.
Sacred cows often defile Indian temples, but worse yet is a body that's polluted by constipation. Don't permit it. Cleanse your system with Dr. King's New Life Pills and avoid untold misery. They give lively liver, active bowels, good digestion, fine appetite. Only 25c at W. L. DeLano's drug store.

Tung Po and Teasmaking.
There is but one way of making tea for Unless the water boiling be To pour on water spoils the tea.

The tungpo itself should be heated very hot before the tea is placed in it and the boiling water poured on. It should be scalding hot water, or the leaves will float to the top.

No less authority than Tung Po, the Chinese poet, is quoted for a recipe for teasmaking. He says: "Whenever tea is to be infused, take water from a running stream and boil it over a lively fire. It is an old custom to use running water, boiled over a lively fire. That from springs in the hills is said to be best and river water the next, while well water is the worst. A lively fire is a clear, bright charcoal fire. When making an infusion, do not boil the water too hastily. At first it begins to sparkle like crabs' eyes, then somewhat like fish's eyes and lastly it boils up like pearls innumerable springing and waving about. This is the way to boil water."

A teaspoonful of tea for two cups, with one for the pot, is the rule.

Saint's Powder Recipe.
In Germany and Italy great honor is paid to St. Barbara, but until now no one has been able to discover the exact reason.

A German officer says that she is honored because the invention of powder is in a large measure due to her.

Berthold Schwarz, a monk, he explains, opened the "Lives of the Saints" on St. Barbara's day and read the story of her martyrdom, after which he reasoned as follows:

"The heart of the Virgin was white as salt, the soul of her tormentor was black as coal, and it was sulphur from heaven which punished him for his cruelty. I will mix these three things, and it will be a wonder if I do not discover the philosopher's stone."

He did mix them, and as soon as he put the mixture in a fire a tremendous explosion followed. Such, according to German soldiers, was the origin of gunpowder.

The Wedding Gift.
It is a golden rule to send a wedding gift in good time, the first to arrive being much more appreciated than that which is one of the many pouring in from all quarters during the last week.

By adhering to this rule one will be saved the annoyance of hearing that the suitcases are charming—the third set already received.

A month before the wedding day is not too early to send the present, which should be accompanied by a visiting card.

The package should be addressed to the bride, if one is intimate with the happy couple, and to the bride's house, addressed to the bridegroom, if it is he with whom one is best acquainted.

The Diagnosis.
There are things that only a doctor can successfully accomplish, and there are other things which the physician may safely relegate to a competent assistant.

"I understand the doctor has just been to see your husband, Mrs. McCarthy," said Mr. McCarthy's employer. "Has he made a diagnosis?"

"For a moment Mrs. McCarthy was submerged in a sea of doubt, but she rose triumphant.

"No, sir," she said confidently, "he left it to me, him saying I was well able to do it, sir. It's to be made wid lineed on a shaboot muslin, sir."

Sagacity.
"Why, yes, I have seen a good deal of Tom Robinson recently. Fact is, he's one of the most entertaining men I ever met. Really, I didn't know there was so much in him. He's positively brilliant when you get him talking. Most delightful companion and so hospitable and—"

"I see. Which of Robinson's sisters is it—the little one with the black hair or the tall blond one?"

"It's the little one with the black hair."

A Kiss and a Snop.
In 1837 Mr. Thomas Saverland brought an action against Miss Caroline Newton, who had bitten a piece out of his nose for his having tried to kiss her by way of a joke. The defendant was acquitted, and the judge laid down that "when a man kisses a woman against her will she is fully entitled to bite his nose if she so pleases."—The Kiss and Its History.

Lapsus Linguae.
"You understand, of course, that my daughter has been reared in the lap of luxury?"

"Why, she told me last night that mine was the first—or, that is, I hope, sir, that I may be able to make such provision as to keep her from pining for the lap you mention."—Chicago Herald.

The Same Old Climate.
"Is not your climate rather changeable?" asked the tourist.

"No, it isn't," answered the old settler who always contradicted. "If it was, don't you suppose we'd have changed it for something else years ago?"—Washington Star.

A Modest Thespian.
Briggs—That fool Stepligh considers himself the greatest actor on earth. Benson—Is that so? He's getting strangely modest. He used to consider himself the greatest actor that ever lived.—Tit-Bits.

Never tell a man that he has made a fool of himself. If he knows it, he will get angry—and he will get angry also if he doesn't know it.

Be natural. A poor diamond is better than a good imitation.—Boston Herald.
