A ROYAL HAND-SHAKER.

Emperor William of Germany has no prejudice as to hand-shaking, and will shake hands with almost any one. He has a grip that is famous with his subjects, and the favor of his hand grasp is not assiduously sought by those who have had experience with it. His Majesty has a big, strong hand with muscles like iron. They have been cultivated by many years of sword exercises. His handshake is one that is not soon forgotten, and when he greets a visitor with a handshake they say at court, "His Majesty has made another lasting impression."

This grip, it is only fair to say, he reserves for strong men. For the opposite sex he has a hand that is as soft as velvet and a courtesy that is elegant.

J. H. Sprague, an Alaskan mail contractor, has made a personal demonstration of the fact that a man can live eighteen days on straight dog. And previous to taking to dog meat he got along on rotten fish fourteen days. The man who ate crow on an election bet, after the feast was concluded said he could eat crow but didn't "hanker after it." It is not likely that the mailcarrier hankers after more dog.

The Smithsonian Institute has decided on a novel plan to trace the migration of birds. Its correspondents in all parts of the country will fasten small aluminum tags to the legs of young birds before they leave the nest, the tags being marked with the date and location. When the marked birds are killed or captured the tag will be sent to the Institute with date as to time and place.

The end of the Boer war put quick stop to the flourishing mule export trade out of New Orleans, which had flourished for two years. Since it began over two hundred thousand head were shipped, requiring 174 steamers. As each one of the steamers left $6000 to $8000 for supplies and fittings it may be suspected that the gulf city is really sorry that the fray between Briton and Boer is concluded.

A New York wholesale cigar salesman who bet on the wrong horse at the Suburban race, Saturday, told a friend that his betting on that particular horse, Pentecost, was "like getting money in a registered letter." Two days after he was found dead in his room with the gas jet turned on and cracks and keyhole stuffed with strips of cloth.

Virginia has practically eliminated the negro vote by the adoption of an educational qualification clause in her new constitution. If the negro desires a vote he must qualify himself the same as white electors. It is not a bad precedent for any state that has illiterate voters, black or white. The intelligence of a state should rule it.

The marshy ground of the Ganges, India, delta, with its vast masses of vegetation, decaying under a tropical sun, is the native home of the cholera. In that pestilence region the cholera and plague are found every year, and all the year round.

Washington hotels serve four regular meals every 24 hours—breakfast, luncheon, dinner and supper—the latter being served in some cases as late as midnight.

Count Pootocki, an Austrian nobleman managed to lose a sum equal to half a million dollars at Baccarat at Vienna the other night. It seems to run in the family, a brother having lost a similar amount at one sitting last December. The next thing those titled gamblers will be betting the earth.

A tornado Wednesday night cost Marietta, Ohio, a quarter of a million dollars, one life and several injured. The Pacific coast is exempt from the fear of twisters that are getting to be so common in the east. No cyclone cellars are needed here.

The king is—better! Long live the king!

ROSEBURG STREETS.

Work Has Begun on Their Improvement.

ROSEBURG, June 26.—Active operations toward the improvement of Roseburg's streets have now been commenced and will be pushed right along until the present contract is completed. With well graded and surfaced streets and cement curbs and suitable gutters, Roseburg's main thoroughfare will be equal to any in the state. This condition which has long been needed, and Contractor Blakely, as well as our own people, seems anxious to have the work done well, which from present indications will doubtless be accomplished.

These figures will be based at one and one-third fare for the round trip, making four cents per mile round trip passage to and from stations in Oregon. Tickets will be sold July 3rd and 4th, and will be good for return up to and including the 8th.
