HOMESPUN HEROISM

.... BY C. B. LEWIS

Copyright, 1902. By the S. S. McClure Company

When Zeb Johnson, Farmer Jones' hired man, came to the end of a row of corn, he took a seat on a stump to think things over. He realized that he couldn't glean much consolation from mere thinking, but a crisis was to be faced.

The evening before, after having courted Jennie Taylor, the daughter of another farmer, for a year or more, he had asked her to marry him and had been refused. Zeb's courting had consisted of escorting Jennie to a Fourth of July celebration, a circus and a cornhusking. The intervals had been filled in by what he called "sitting around" and declaring to himself that she was the sweetest and handsomest girl in all the world.

There wasn't the slightest doubt in his mind that he loved her, and he was equally sure that he was loved in return. It was therefore with a feeling of supreme confidence in the success of his errand that he had dropped into Taylor's and tried to keep his blushes back and his feet on the floor as he said:

"Jennie, I was just thinking that we ought to get married in the fall."

"Oh, you were?" she replied, looking up at him.

"Yes, I couldn't love you any more if we was to court for five years."

"Who's been courting?"

"We have, of course, and I want to say—"

"Don't say it," she interrupted. "I never even suspected you were courting. You've been hanging around more or less, but I supposed you came to see father."

"But I've been loving you for a whole year and want you for my wife," he persisted, palling and shuffling his feet.

Miss Jennie was darning a hole in the heel of one of her father's socks. She stopped her work as she said seriously:

"Zeb, I couldn't marry a farmer. If I can't find my ideal, I shall never marry at all. I'm somewhat romantic, you know, and I'd be perfectly miserable if I married a plodder."

"Do you mean that you want to marry some dude of a feller?" asked Zeb, who had never heard of ideals or romance.

"No, of course not. He must be brave and gallant and save my life."

He went to the phone, and Olney's chief or butler or something French answered. The president sends word to Mr. Secretary to look at the moon, I said. "To look at what?" answered the Frenchman. "The moon," I repeated. "Is the moon in his mind?" "Yes," he tells Mr. Olney to go look at the moon. Give him the president's message. "But what for his dat—to look at the moon?" I then said a word or two and rang off.

About an hour later the same butler called us up and with more density in his tone than even before, said, "Monsieur Secretary desires to say to Monsieur President that he has looked at the moon, and he has much obliged."

Until the early part of the last century Milford, Conn., had a house in which Washington was said to have spent a night. It was in 1789, when Washington made a tour of New England. Tradition says that there were certain things about his stay at the Milford tavern which he did not enjoy. The supper set before him consisted of boiled meat and potatoes. He was not pleased with the meal and asked for a bowl of bread and milk. The landlord brought the new order and a broken pewter spoon with which to eat it.

"Have you no better spoons than this?" asked General Washington.

"It's the best I have in the house," replied the host.

"Send me the servant," said his excellency. "Here's 2 shillings. Go to the minister's and borrow a silver spoon."

Tradition does not add whether he got the spoon or not.

Describing a Wedding.

A young woman clerk at the court-house was asked to report for the Wellington (Kan.) Mail a wedding that was to take place in the office of the probate judge. Here is her journalistic achievement, otherwise not even the names being given:

"The bride was sixteen years old, wore a short dress and black kid shoes, black dress, red choker, blue velvet hat, with plumes arranged to give a wing effect, crown hat and white rosette in front. The groom was tall, gawky and light complexioned, wore a blue necktie, striped trousers, dark blue barred sack coat, standing collar, black shoes laced up side down, with strings trailing."

Fairly Warned.

An old circus man says that he once arrived at Steelton, Pa., early in the morning to make arrangements for a circus performance at that place. To obtain his license it was necessary to see the burgess of the town. The first person he met was a large, burly Virginia negro, who was on his way to work at the steel works. He approached the fellow and said, "Captain, can you tell me where I can find the burgess of Steelton?"

"Say, boss, I is a stranger around here myself, and all I can say is keep away from dem burgesses. I was engaged to be married one time to Mary Elizabeth Burgess, and dey is a posky lot of niggers."

Saved From Awful Fate.

"Everybody said I had consumption," writes Mrs. A. M. Shields, of Chambersburg, Pa. "I was so low after six months of severe sickness caused by hay fever and asthma that few thought I could get well, but I learned of the marvelous merit of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, used it and was completely cured. For desperate throat and lung diseases it is the safest cure in the world and is infallible for coughs, colds and bronchial affections. Guaranteed bottles 50¢ and $1. Trial bottles free at W. L. DeLano."

they were not chevaliers. There was nothing suave and gentle and courteous about the way they ordered her to sit down and keep her mouth shut. She had blundered upon them, and they didn't propose to let her go and give the alarm before they were ready to move on. What with their oaths, their vile jokes and their threats she had a bad quarter of an hour of it, and her knight came not.

Zeb Johnson did, however. He came with slow step and downcast head, as is proper when a man is going to hang himself. He was thinking of Jennie and wondering if it hurt much to hang oneself. There was a tear in one eye and a gleam of determination in the other when he suddenly appeared before the ragged, dirty trio and their prisoner.

The tramps might have bolted if they had had a minute's warning, but as it was they had to fight. Zeb saw the situation at a glance, and the light of battle flamed up in his face. It is a good thing to go out to hang oneself and find a scrap at hand to postpone matters.

It was a fight that uprooted bushes and small trees and plowed furrows up and down the glade, but at the end of ten minutes Zeb was victor and had the three on the earth under his feet. He was still breathing hard and wiping the blood of his nose when a gentle voice called out:

"Oh, Zeb, Zeb, suppose you hadn't come?"

"But I did come," replied Zeb, "and I guess I've given 'em a licking to last a year. Where was that hero of yours?"

"I don't know."

"Ought to have been around, hadn't he?"

"Y-yes—that is, no. No; I don't want him."

"Yes, I've got all the hero I want. Zeb, I'm sorry, and if you want to get married, and if—"

"Well, let me kick 'em a few times, and then I'll go home with you and ask the old folks what they think about it. It was lucky I thought of playing the fool and hanging myself."

Puzzled the Frenchman.

Sergeant Harry, who acted as usher in the White House during Cleveland's second term, told this story: "I will never forget the message President Cleveland sent to Secretary Olney one night. It was this way: There was an eclipse of the moon that night, and President and Mrs. Cleveland were much interested in watching it. 'I don't believe Olney knows about it,' said Mr. Cleveland, 'and he will be sorry to miss it.' Then very quickly, 'Harry, go telephone Olney to look at the moon.'"

"I went to the phone, and Olney's chief or butler or something French answered. The president sends word to Mr. Secretary to look at the moon, I said. 'To look at what?' answered the Frenchman. 'The moon,' I repeated. 'Is the moon in his mind?' 'Yes,' he tells Mr. Olney to go look at the moon. Give him the president's message. 'But what for his dat—to look at the moon?' I then said a word or two and rang off.

About an hour later the same butler called us up and with more density in his tone than even before, said, "Monsieur Secretary desires to say to Monsieur President that he has looked at the moon, and he has much obliged."

City Property for Sale

HENDERSON'S ADDITION TO EUGENE.—To those desiring to purchase city lots, I have laid out an addition on the south side of the city and north of College Hill Park. I have 120 lots in this addition, and am selling them very low so as to enable every one to have a home of their own. The price of these lots is from $60 up.

ELIAS STURWANT ADDITION TO EUGENE.—I have some very desirable lots in this addition, in the very heart of the city and within a few blocks of Willamette street.

WHITEAKER'S ADDITION TO EUGENE.—I have a few lots in this addition within two blocks of the First National Bank.

COLLEGE HILL PARK.—I have 100 lots in this addition. The price now is $50 each. We will advance the price soon. We expect College Hill Park to become the most desirable residence property in or near the city.

HENDERSON'S ADDITION TO COLLEGE HILL PARK.—We have 70 lots for sale cheap in this addition; also 40 or 50 acres of very choice fruit land. I have on this place 1300 young prune trees, about 400 Bartlett pear trees, and 200 black walnut trees, also apples, plums and small fruits. This place has a good farm house, barn and out-houses, and is a most beautiful suburban place of property. It is known as the Leonard Hill farm, and there is no place in the state more beautifully and pleasantly situated.

I am not in real estate business as a business—we sell our own lands only. I employ no agents. Any one desiring to purchase any of the property will find me at the First National Bank. I will be pleased to show property and give prices. I might exchange some of this property for good timber land. Come and see me.

Virulent Cancer Cured.

Startling proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G. W. Roberts of Elizabeth, W. Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. They believed his case hopeless till he used Electric Bitter, and applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which treatment completely cured him. When Electric Bitter is used to expel bilious, kidney and microbe poisons at the same time this salve exerts its matchless healing power, blood diseases, skin eruptions, ulcers and cancer vanish. Bitters 50¢, Salve 25¢ at W. L. DeLano's.

Pure Home Made Brandy.

For liver, kidney or stomach troubles, colds, lagripes or biliousness there is nothing better than France's pure brandies. All orders promptly filled with prime, apple or pear brandy at 75 cents per quart, or $2.50 per gallon. Orders by stage or express will be securely boxed. Made and sold to consumers only.

I. M. FRANCES, Fifth and Blair streets, Eugene, Or.

Happy Time in Old Town.

"We felt very happy," writes R. N. Bevil, Old Town, Va., "when Bucklen's Arnica Salve wholly cured our daughter of a bad case of scald head."

It cures all who use it for cuts, corns, Burns, Bruises, Boils, ulcers, eruptions, itching skin, etc. Only 25¢ at W. L. DeLano's drug store.
