OREGON BOYS FOR PROFESSORS.

Charles A Redmond, Oregonian, has been elected to the chair of history and economics at the Ashland State Normal School. He is a native of Yamhill county, is 26 years old, and is an almnus of the University of Oregon, at Eugene. He is one of many bright young men who have been placed in professorships of Oregon institutions and who promise to honor their alma maters, their state and themselves, says the Portland Journal.

There will be general indorsement of this plan of filling chairs in Oregon educational institutions with Oregon men. It will even be granted that oftentimes nativity shall overweigh slightly greater ability on the part of an applicant from another state.

However, there may be too radical an application of this, and it may operate to the detriment of the systems of education that are maintained here in this state.

It is not desirable that all teachers in Oregon schools be men and women who are native here. It is good that occasionally someone comes from elsewhere, to infuse new blood and inculcate new ideas into the conduct of the schools.

Indeed, it is this very lack of provincialism that that makes this nation great. It is the lack of lines of demarkation to make state separate from state to too great an extent, that creates homogeneity, and makes for solidity.

It will be by a compromise between the advocates of employing only Oregon-born people in the schools of the state, and those who would always be importing from the East or other Western states, it is only by such a compromise that the ideal results will be attained.

Is Tracy, the bandit and murderer, a hero? Well hardly. A hero is a man who risks or gives his life for family, friends and country—or for the poor and oppressed, though stranger. Nathan Hale, hanged as a spy by the British in the revolutionary war, was a hero, though the method of his death was shameful. He willingly died a felon's death, regretting that he had but one life to give for his country. Jesus of Nazareth was a hero, laying down his life for mankind. Tracy is an accomplished and successful murderer—one of the bloodiest and most brutal that ever lived, but not a hero. Killing innocent people in cold blood does not constitute heroism; to be killed for a principle, a great cause or the protection of others is heroic.—Pendleton Tribune.

The police in some of the larger cities say that the publication of the doings of Convict Tracy is likely to lead other desperadoes to crime, so crazy are some of them for notoriety. This is perhaps true, but the publication of the news of the day is not always followed by evil results. For instance, the publication of the fact that the Minneapolis police force has been found thoroughly corrupt is likely to be followed by investigations in other cities in order to ascertain if there is any standing in with "big mitt" men.

Wells, Nevada, Herald: The men hunting Tracy, the Oregon murderer, should be awarded medals of agility for their success in keeping out of range and reach of the desperado. Sheriff Cudihee and his deputies will not go down in history as brave man-hunters.

We Were Too Late.

Bright's Disease and Diabetes Are Positively Curable.

Upon hearing that Charles A. Newton, the yardmaster of the Southern Pacific Company at Sacramento, had a certain case of Diabetes, the business men who were investigating the Fulton Compounds, wrote him asking him to take it; but they were late, as he had already heard of it, as per his letter in answer as follows:

"SACRAMENTO, July 21, 1901.
"Dear Sirs: Yours of the 19th received and I thank you for your information regarding the Diabetes medicine made by J. J. Fulton. I was permanently cured of Diabetes by this medicine, and I now enjoy good health once more. I commenced taking it March 20, and June 5th was pronounced cured. I now enjoy my old diet in a mild form, but advance more on it as time goes by, not wishing to attempt too much at once. I was very bad with the disease. The gravity was 1046, and I was so weak I could scarcely walk. The physicians helped me some, but said there was no cure. I then heard of and went to treating with the Fulton Compound, and only took three bottles when I commenced to feel better, and then kept on improving until I was restored to health.

"I know of another case of Diabetes, an engineer on the road who had the disease for four years. He went to Tucson to die. When I was getting better I sent for him to come to Sacramento to go on the same treatment. On his return he believed no medicine would cure him; but I prevailed upon him to try it. This was in May. He is now so much improved that he is on his engine working every day. There are also two cases of Bright's Disease taking it whom I told of it. I hope some syndicate will get this medicine and build sanitariums all over the country for the treatment of these dreadful diseases. Trusting I have not said too much, Yours,
"CHAS. A. NEWTON,
"Yardmaster, S. P. Co., Sacto."

Medical works agree that Bright's Disease and Diabetes are incurable, but 87 per cent. are positively recovering under the Fulton Compounds. (Common forms of kidney complaint and rheumatism offer but short resistance.) Price, $1 for the Bright's Disease and $1.50 for the Diabetic Compound. John J.
